CHARLOTTE CO. WELCOMES R. BORDEN

with the fishermen and others of the United States.
The growth which the past few years had witnessed would be only a part of what would come for Canada if it could judge the sentiment of the people, it was in direct opposition to a policy which would be detrimental to the best interests of the Dominion. (Cheers and applause.)

Ovation for Mr. Borden.
Mr. Ganong then introduced Mr. Borden and as the leader arose to speak he was greeted so heartily that he was obliged to wait for the applause to subside before commencing his address. He had the people for their enthusiastic reception and expressed pleasure that an opportunity had been given to him to discuss the affairs of the day with the voters of Charlotte county. He apologized for the condition of his voice as he had left several seats of action in the West. He expected to leave some more of it in New Brunswick and would then try to say the words of the people of Nova Scotia. He did, however, expect to save some of it for the cheer of victory which he felt would be the portion of the Conservative party on September 21st. (Applause.)

He regretted that his friend Mr. Ganong was not in the best of health and paid a tribute to the good work which Mr. Ganong had done while a member of parliament. The speaker said he had no colleague in whom he had greater confidence than Mr. Ganong. Although he was not the standard bearer in Charlotte county at the present time, Mr. Borden felt sure that in Mr. Hartt there was a worthy successor. "Mr. Hartt has shown the call of his duty, and will do his duty," said Mr. Borden. "See that you do yours on election day. I have no doubt that the voice of the lotte county will be as the voice of Canada on September 21st and that Mr. Hartt will be returned to parliament to sit on the right of the new government."

Another Great Meeting

HEAR
R. L. BORDEN, Canada's Next Premier, Also Answer Sir Wilfrid Laurier
Queens Rink, Tuesday Evening, Sept. 5th

which would ruin the home market. At the present time the United States is exporting to Canada twice as much of the agricultural products as Canada exports to the United States. The American market is at present full to the brim and when Canada puts her surplus of natural products into that market which exports the same articles that Canada does it would only add to the surplus of the United States. Mr. Borden then dealt briefly with the other favored nations with which Canada would compete for the United States market. He gave to Canada a list of the United States' Canadian home market which consumed 85 per cent. of all the products of the United States. The speaker desired the best of relations with the United States. He hoped that Canada and the republic might be united by ties of friendship which would grow ever stronger, but like Sir Wilfrid he thought the best way to get along with the United States was to keep clear of them.

Continuing, he said: "Let us deal with the tariff first in our own interests, secondly in the interests of the Empire, and let us keep in our own hands the right to work out our own fiscal policy. The government has given to the management of the way of bounties on fish and other products. I am afraid these will be impaired under the reciprocity pact which would place the United States natural products, fish, eggs, etc., will come in free and in competition with the products of Canada. Well, we continue the use of the highest form of protection in the way of bounties don't you think the United States government is to be understood that amendments to the fishing bounties were withdrawn by the treaty goes. I think, however, that the fishermen of Canada can find a better market for their own country than the United States can offer."

Helped by Yankee Hostility.
In 1867 the people of the United States advocated the reciprocity agreement and in 1897 they raised the McKinley tariff. The Deputy Minister of Agriculture of Ontario had said that the people of the United States had not been able to tariff for it had raised Canada to a level where she was a blessing to the world. There was no need for Canada to be dependent upon the United States market which was a better and more certain one. Every part of the British market is now, through the McKinley tariff, nearer to Canada than was the United States market of 1867. To offer Canada reciprocity now was very far from offering Sir John Macdonald the nursing bottle he desired twenty years and six months before.

Sir Wilfrid's Contentment.
Sir Wilfrid also contended that every statesman in Canada had been trying to get reciprocity for the last 40 years and in this connection he referred to the crisis in May, 1897. It was wonderful what an admiration Sir Wilfrid had developed for Sir John Macdonald. He was sure that he did not know that Sir John Macdonald had ever reciprocated with a sincere admiration for Sir Wilfrid. Therefore when Sir Wilfrid called Sir John to the stand he should be prepared to abide with him in the last analysis the present approach to the people was really the same as in 1891. Sir Wilfrid Laurier then advocated unrestricted reciprocity. Absolute unrestricted reciprocity was a good thing. This year the dose was sugar coated but it was the same pill. The question then was if there should be a tariff for the whole continent. Is there any man so blind as to imagine that the tariff would be laid in Ottawa? No it would be laid in Washington and would lead to political absorption.

Mr. Stimson, secretary for war in the United States, declared that the tariff which was made by reciprocity could be made larger and would lead to unrestricted continental reciprocity. Therefore when Sir Wilfrid called Sir John to the stand he should be prepared to abide with him in the last analysis the present approach to the people was really the same as in 1891. Sir Wilfrid Laurier then advocated unrestricted reciprocity. Absolute unrestricted reciprocity was a good thing. This year the dose was sugar coated but it was the same pill. The question then was if there should be a tariff for the whole continent. Is there any man so blind as to imagine that the tariff would be laid in Ottawa? No it would be laid in Washington and would lead to political absorption.

The National Policy.
Canada had adopted the national policy in 1879 and had prospered by it. Sir Wilfrid Laurier denounced it prior to 1896 and when he came to power he stuck to it up to the present time. This measure was called a measure placed him at the mercy of the trusts and in competition with the world. It made the articles he sells free of duty. It placed what he buys under duty. The speaker could see no measure of relief in that. If Canada locked markets with the United States it would place the farmers at the mercy of the trusts. The speaker also dealt with the argument which had been made that the Canadian farmer would get the benefit of a larger market and claimed there was nothing in this to warrant support. Canada would be under the disadvantage of facing a competition and intended to remain there. (Cheers and applause.)

"I appeal," said Mr. Borden, "to the sons of the old pioneers, to their duty and I believe Mr. Hartt will come to Ottawa and sit on the right of the speaker as a member of the government which stands, and will stand, for the policy of British, there to join in the formation of a new government which will always stand for the policy of British connection."
There were great cheers when Mr. Borden completed his address. Although his remarks were comparatively short owing to the condition of his voice, yet he made a deep impression on his hearers.
Mr. Ganong then called upon Sir William Van Horne to speak to the assemblage and in making the request he said that Sir William had done more than most Canadians to bind the provinces of Canada together. Sir William, who also was cheered as he advanced to the front of the platform, then delivered an interesting and most important address. The full text of which will be found on another page of this issue.

Cheers For Mr. McMaster.
Mr. McMaster said he was proud of being a member in the British parliament, but he was also proud of the fact that he was a St. Andrew's man. He spoke briefly and in opening stated that the reciprocity pact would place Canada in a most unpleasant position. The reciprocity question under various names had been in Canada before, but it had not been heard of for the last three elections. It had been resurrected now as he firmly believed to furnish a rallying point for the Liberals to lead into power and thus escape the consequences of their corrupt government. When the Canadian delegates first went to Washington to talk the matter over with the United States representatives they had been offered free trade all round and although they refused it he believed that was what the question would eventually develop into if the reciprocity idea prevailed. This was the state of Pennsylvania or the state of Kentucky. In advocating the measure in the United States senate, Mr. Taft had not hesitated to point out that the supplies of natural resources in the United States were running out and they must draw on Canada. The whole thing was for the benefit of the United States, but Mr. Taft had hidden his hand with a lot of nice compliments to the Canadian people. That was the salt which he expected to use to catch the Canadian bird, but the speaker did not believe the Canadian bird was to be caught in any such way.

Mr. Borden Did His Duty.
The speaker felt that all in Canada owed a debt of gratitude to Mr. Borden for the fight he put up in the House so that Canadians would have the right to determine for themselves what their future should be. The reciprocity pact would affect the nationality of Canada, and he believed that the people of Canada owed a debt of gratitude to that leader who stood in the gate and refused admission to the Americans into the Canadian markets until the Canadian people had said themselves that they were welcome guests.
The tale that Canada would have access to the market of 90 million, was not true, for the Canadians could only hope to reach the people on the fringe of the coast of the United States, and would have to open their home market

An American View.
An American had said of the agreement that if Canada was able to take care of her resources and her people was all very well, but at any time that Canada felt she could not do this, the United States would be very glad to come in and help. Canada and the Canadian people could take care of their own country. He was sure that the sentiment which had built up Canada from the days of Confederation was not confined to a cent a bushel on beans, but that Canadians had the intention of building up a nation.
He then referred to the remark of President Taft, that the Imperial bond which binds Canada to the Empire is weakening, and that Canada is now the partner of the ways. He had invited Sir Wilfrid Laurier to explain what Mr. Taft had in mind when he had furnished no explanation. He believed that the Loyalists of Charlotte county would consider well before making their hats and that the verdict of Charlotte county would be in accord with the rest of Canada. He believed that on the day of election the people would send a message to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and to Mr. Taft that the people of Canada would proceed along the old line, and there would be no parting of the ways, that the ties binding Canada to the Empire are not weakening, but are on the contrary stronger than ever; that Canadians were proud to be the greatest part of the greatest Empire of the world and intended to remain there. (Cheers and applause.)

"I appeal," said Mr. Borden, "to the sons of the old pioneers, to their duty and I believe Mr. Hartt will come to Ottawa and sit on the right of the speaker as a member of the government which stands, and will stand, for the policy of British, there to join in the formation of a new government which will always stand for the policy of British connection."

DR. DANIEL ARRANGES VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Dates Announced for Meetings in Points Throughout County - Musquash Scene of First Rally.

He was glad to see so many young men in the audience. This was a young man's question. In Montreal in his audience at the great meeting held here on Sept. 30 per cent of the audience were young men. This showed a remarkable interest in public questions by the youth of the country. Not only the young men but the mothers of Canada are interested in this fight for, although the right of the vote they can interest and control them.

Dr. Silas Alward, and Others.

Seats for Ladies.

In addition to the political question involved there was also the question of the lowering of the national standards of the country. Although there had been rank misadministration in the affairs of the country by the Liberal government, Mr. Borden believed the rank and file of the party were honest and loyal to Canada at heart. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues received a well merited rebuke from the loyal French Canadian electors in the Lanctot case. The man who had been condemned by Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been driven from the hostilities by an intelligence and a desire to do Quebec. In this and in other things the French Canadian voters had risen above party ties for the sake of the country. A strongly Liberal electorate which gave the merited rebuke to Laurier and his colleagues in the Lanctot case, and to that contemptuous disregard of public opinion which allowed the government to neglect the honor of the country while serious charges were hanging over the head of a member of the government which had not given a minister that would recall themselves Liberals and recall themselves Conservatives if that party was in power. The capacity of any government should be judged by its ability to give honest government and in this the Laurier government had failed. In every one of the past 10 years the Laurier government had misappropriated tens of millions of dollars of the public money. He had no doubt that this was the case. If the people of the country could be brought to Parliament and there allowed to see what was going on there would be no need for speakers to go on the platform to enlighten the electors. Canada had been slack in that regard, but he had no hesitation in saying that if any government of Great Britain had dissipated the public funds and had dissipated while charges were pending that government would not live 24 hours.

FRANCE AND GERMANY TO SETTLE MOROCCAN DISPUTE.

The Conservatives of Beaucefield District, Lancaster Heights, have opened committee rooms in Thomas Smith's building back of the Tower.

The dispute between Germany and France over the Moroccan question has reached an acute stage, according to advices from the French capital. Mons. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador to Germany, has been in daily conference with Mons. de Selver, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Premier, M. Caillaux, and are formulating terms which France will offer to Germany in order to reach a settlement.
