

EVERITT & BUTLER,
WHOLESALE WAREHOUSE.

55 and 57 King Street.

"HIBERNIAN," at Halifax:

14 PACKAGES.

- 1 case Black Italian Cloths,
- 1 case Fancy Dress Buttons,
- 1 bale Check Regatta Shirtings,
- 5 bales Medium Dark Prints,
- 5 bales Black and White Prints,
- 5 bales Grey Cottons,
- 1 bale Oxford Shirtings.

WILL BE READY FOR INSPECTION SATURDAY.

USUAL LOW RATES.

EVERITT & BUTLER,
OAK AND PITCH PINE TIMBER

WHITE PINE, BIRCH, &c., &c.

R. A. GREGORY,

DR. J. E. GRIFFITH, Dentist.
Office, corner Germain and Duke Streets,
(OPPOSITE VICTORIA HOTEL),
SAINT JOHN, N. B.

MARITIME WAREHOUSING AND DOCK COMPANY!

Storage in Bond or Free. Cash Advances on all descriptions of Merchandise. BANK STERLING CREDITS granted to Importers. Application to be made to

JAMES D. O'NEILL,

OIL-TANNED LARRIGANS!

Women's, Misses' and Children's BOOTS and SHOES.
ST. JOHN, N. B.

MISPECK MILLS, - - - St. John, N. B.

HOMESPUNS, IN GREAT VARIETY

All Wool Twilled Flannels and Tweeds!
ALL AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES!
Also, First Class

COTTON WARPS.

THE above named Seasonable Goods are all of SUPERIOR QUALITY, manufactured from the very best material, and warranted to give satisfaction.
J. L. WOODWORTH, Agent

DAVID MILLER, MANUFACTURER OF
Hoop Skirts, Corsets,
And Imitation
HAIR GOODS!
Sole Agent for the Maritime Provinces for the following fine class
Sewing MACHINES!
The Lockman, Appleton,
Huggins, Webster
And Singer Manufacturing, To KING STREET.

Wholesale Warehouse, CANTERBURY STREET.

RECEIVED TO-DAY:
Tuckings, Hollands, Ginghams,
WHITE AND BLACK BOOK MUSLINS,
White and Colored Tulleons,
FRILLINGS, LACES, BLONDES, TURQUOISE.

Wrapping Twines and Paper.

T. R. JONES & CO.
GREY COTTON!

WE would call the attention of Purchasers to the
GREY COTTON,
Which is
MUCH SUPERIOR
to the material of the same name made in England.

WM. PARKS & SON,
New Brunswick Cotton Mills,
SAINT JOHN, N. B.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE
A 42 COLUMN PAPER.

The Best in the Maritime Provinces:
Only One Dollar a Year!
Sample Copies Mailed Free

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number, and that the circus people had to use their revolvers or abandon their property to destruction. The better class of people blame them for not having been more careful in taking aim, as their wild firing endangered the lives of peaceable people. If the leading spirits of the attacking party had been shot down the public could not have regretted it, as the lesson would have been a salutary one for the rowdy element. As so stranger ever gets into a row in Fredericton without paying dearly for it, the probability is that the circus people under arrest for the shooting will suffer a temporary loss of their liberty or a depletion of their pocket-books.

A volume of "Poems and Essays," by the Hon. Joseph Howe, has been published by John Lowell, Montreal, and is sold by subscription. It contains the cream of Mr. Howe's purely literary efforts. The prose productions include orations on Shakespeare, Eloquence, Women, and the House of Commons, "The Conductor," and "The Book of the Smith of Philadelphia" (a tale), and an address before a Y. M. C. Association. The book is printed on toned paper, with clear type, and is a handsomely bound. Mr. Jas. A. Smith, St. John, is general agent for New Brunswick.

The Emperor of Germany sleeps in a narrow iron bedstead, with mattress and pillows over his head, than those used by the common people in Germany.

John Burns, of Saline county, Mo., is alive because he is a temperance man. Had he drunk the whiskey from the flask into which the hired girl had put strychnine he would be dead.

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number, and that the circus people had to use their revolvers or abandon their property to destruction. The better class of people blame them for not having been more careful in taking aim, as their wild firing endangered the lives of peaceable people. If the leading spirits of the attacking party had been shot down the public could not have regretted it, as the lesson would have been a salutary one for the rowdy element. As so stranger ever gets into a row in Fredericton without paying dearly for it, the probability is that the circus people under arrest for the shooting will suffer a temporary loss of their liberty or a depletion of their pocket-books.

A volume of "Poems and Essays," by the Hon. Joseph Howe, has been published by John Lowell, Montreal, and is sold by subscription. It contains the cream of Mr. Howe's purely literary efforts. The prose productions include orations on Shakespeare, Eloquence, Women, and the House of Commons, "The Conductor," and "The Book of the Smith of Philadelphia" (a tale), and an address before a Y. M. C. Association. The book is printed on toned paper, with clear type, and is a handsomely bound. Mr. Jas. A. Smith, St. John, is general agent for New Brunswick.

The Emperor of Germany sleeps in a narrow iron bedstead, with mattress and pillows over his head, than those used by the common people in Germany.

John Burns, of Saline county, Mo., is alive because he is a temperance man. Had he drunk the whiskey from the flask into which the hired girl had put strychnine he would be dead.

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number, and that the circus people had to use their revolvers or abandon their property to destruction. The better class of people blame them for not having been more careful in taking aim, as their wild firing endangered the lives of peaceable people. If the leading spirits of the attacking party had been shot down the public could not have regretted it, as the lesson would have been a salutary one for the rowdy element. As so stranger ever gets into a row in Fredericton without paying dearly for it, the probability is that the circus people under arrest for the shooting will suffer a temporary loss of their liberty or a depletion of their pocket-books.

A volume of "Poems and Essays," by the Hon. Joseph Howe, has been published by John Lowell, Montreal, and is sold by subscription. It contains the cream of Mr. Howe's purely literary efforts. The prose productions include orations on Shakespeare, Eloquence, Women, and the House of Commons, "The Conductor," and "The Book of the Smith of Philadelphia" (a tale), and an address before a Y. M. C. Association. The book is printed on toned paper, with clear type, and is a handsomely bound. Mr. Jas. A. Smith, St. John, is general agent for New Brunswick.

The Emperor of Germany sleeps in a narrow iron bedstead, with mattress and pillows over his head, than those used by the common people in Germany.

John Burns, of Saline county, Mo., is alive because he is a temperance man. Had he drunk the whiskey from the flask into which the hired girl had put strychnine he would be dead.

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number, and that the circus people had to use their revolvers or abandon their property to destruction. The better class of people blame them for not having been more careful in taking aim, as their wild firing endangered the lives of peaceable people. If the leading spirits of the attacking party had been shot down the public could not have regretted it, as the lesson would have been a salutary one for the rowdy element. As so stranger ever gets into a row in Fredericton without paying dearly for it, the probability is that the circus people under arrest for the shooting will suffer a temporary loss of their liberty or a depletion of their pocket-books.

A volume of "Poems and Essays," by the Hon. Joseph Howe, has been published by John Lowell, Montreal, and is sold by subscription. It contains the cream of Mr. Howe's purely literary efforts. The prose productions include orations on Shakespeare, Eloquence, Women, and the House of Commons, "The Conductor," and "The Book of the Smith of Philadelphia" (a tale), and an address before a Y. M. C. Association. The book is printed on toned paper, with clear type, and is a handsomely bound. Mr. Jas. A. Smith, St. John, is general agent for New Brunswick.

The Emperor of Germany sleeps in a narrow iron bedstead, with mattress and pillows over his head, than those used by the common people in Germany.

John Burns, of Saline county, Mo., is alive because he is a temperance man. Had he drunk the whiskey from the flask into which the hired girl had put strychnine he would be dead.

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number, and that the circus people had to use their revolvers or abandon their property to destruction. The better class of people blame them for not having been more careful in taking aim, as their wild firing endangered the lives of peaceable people. If the leading spirits of the attacking party had been shot down the public could not have regretted it, as the lesson would have been a salutary one for the rowdy element. As so stranger ever gets into a row in Fredericton without paying dearly for it, the probability is that the circus people under arrest for the shooting will suffer a temporary loss of their liberty or a depletion of their pocket-books.

A volume of "Poems and Essays," by the Hon. Joseph Howe, has been published by John Lowell, Montreal, and is sold by subscription. It contains the cream of Mr. Howe's purely literary efforts. The prose productions include orations on Shakespeare, Eloquence, Women, and the House of Commons, "The Conductor," and "The Book of the Smith of Philadelphia" (a tale), and an address before a Y. M. C. Association. The book is printed on toned paper, with clear type, and is a handsomely bound. Mr. Jas. A. Smith, St. John, is general agent for New Brunswick.

The Emperor of Germany sleeps in a narrow iron bedstead, with mattress and pillows over his head, than those used by the common people in Germany.

John Burns, of Saline county, Mo., is alive because he is a temperance man. Had he drunk the whiskey from the flask into which the hired girl had put strychnine he would be dead.

The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, ..... EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 8.

Counting the Cost.

The mothers, for the purpose of keeping up their claims to be a more practical people than their predecessors, invariably sit down and count the cost of every piece of folly in which they indulge. They estimate the cost of their liquor, and utter lamentations at its immensity. They make calculations showing how large are the sums wasted on circuses, cigars, and false hair. And they even moralize over holidays, and calculate their cost. So many men and women who might be earning so much, so much spent for liquor, ice cream, and fine crackers, and so much for curing the wounded, burying the dead, and re-creating burned buildings. There can be no pleasure in this sort of thing, and it is certain that no man who is not suffering from the effects of over-stimulation would indulge in it, if it were not for the purpose of keeping up the pretence that this is the most practical age in the history of the world. The claim would be proved much more conclusively by action than by arithmetic. Folly cannot be made practical by the statistician.

No good is done by all this mourning, and many conscientious people and patriotic souls are distressed. Now here are the United States papers, before the eyes of all who are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

A church at Pittsburg, Penn., has suspended the observance of the Fourth of July because the same church has some 30 or 40 members belonging to secret societies, all of whom are likely to meet the same treatment. There are plenty other examples ready to receive them.

At the recent distribution of prizes at the Female School of Art, London, it was stated that with very few exceptions, women are ignorant of the value of colors, and that in water colors and drawings from models, there are few but the great and make a mistake in English and delicacy of touch.

Three chance goldfish, tossed out of a glass globe into a Vermont mill pond, have stocked it with their progeny, and a few old Washington Canal literally speckles with the shining scales of these fishes, which have found their way, when little through the city drizzles from the fountain on the terrace of the capital.

The official report of the Vienna Exposition shows that England produces more than one-half of the iron production of the world, North America about one-fifth, France about one-twelfth and Germany about one-thirtieth. These four constituting the great iron-producing sections of the globe.

The irrigation works of India are so extensive that in the fourteen districts of the Madras Presidency there are 49,000 tanks with 80,000 miles of canal. The English have been unable to do anything to maintain these artificial water courses, and great damage has consequently resulted in many cases.

The latest estimates concerning the tunnel under the English Channel place two and a half years as the limit for excavation, and the tunnel is to be three miles, and from five to six years for the enlargement of the entire work, which will be estimated at one hundred thirty to forty millions of dollars.

A Mr. Herringer, of San Francisco, who, in order to win a case in court, had been awarded a certain sum of money, is now living in a quandary. The certificate of his marriage to another lady who is in the possession of the money, gives him a choice between a trial for bigamy and a trial for perjury.

The Circus Riot at Fredericton. The accounts given of the Fredericton riot by spectators agree in stating that it began by an organized attack on the circus people, while they were engaged in packing up for departure, by a large gang of ruffians, for the declared purpose of revenging a blow given by a circus man to a townsmen at an earlier hour. When pistol practice began the running from the scene is said to have been something extraordinary. Mr. Reid's race never having afforded exhibitions of speed. The attacking gang, largely reinforced and well armed, returned to the scene for the purpose of destroying as much property as they could, and as the circus revolvers had been emptied in the first skirmish, the town ruffians succeeded in getting one of the wagons into the river and destroying other property before Mayor Wetmore and his special constables gallantly routed the rioters and arrested the circus people. The truth is that the gang undertook to "clean out" the circus, in revenge for a blow received by one of their number,