

196. When a convict is received sick from the dormitory wings, during the night, the Hospital keeper shall immediately notify the Warden, if the case seem to him to be urgent.

KEEPERS.

197. Keepers shall carefully carry out the orders of their superior officers, and see that the Guards under their own orders are vigilant in doing so also. They shall give particular attention to the convicts at work, to see that they are diligent at their labour, to mark the degree of willingness and zeal, with which they go about it, to note the carefulness and economy they evince, in working up the material confided to them, and to take care that neither material nor tools are negligently or maliciously injured.

198. It shall be the duty of the keepers, with sufficient assistance, at irregular but frequent times, to search the convicts at night, before leaving the workshops, to see that nothing is concealed about their persons, and also the work-benches, seats and drawers, in the shops, to see that nothing improper is hid therein.

199. Every keeper in his turn shall be named as officer of the night, and shall go on duty at eight o'clock in the evening, and remain until the Safety Bell is rung in the morning,

200. He shall have charge of all the night watch, and shall visit every post at least once every four hours. He shall make a tour of the dormitory wings every three hours, and shall see that the day clothes of the convicts are hanging upon the pegs in their cells, that the cell doors are properly fastened, and that everything is in a perfect state of security.

201. The keeper in charge of the night duty, shall especially see, that the workshops and other buildings and chambers where there is risk of fire, or where there has been fire during the day, are visited regularly during the night, and that all is safe.

202. He shall cause the first bell in the morning to be rung fifteen minutes before the prison is opened.

203. It shall be the duty of the keeper for the night to note everything which he finds irregular in the course of his rounds, and particularly he shall mark any want of vigilance on the part of any of the night guards, or any thing which appears to him to be suspicious. He shall every morning make report of his watch to the Warden.

GUARDS.

204. There shall be six classes of Guards, according to their capacity and length of service, at the following rates of salary per annum, viz.:

Guards Probationary for 6 months at.....	$320
Guards of the fifth class for 18 months at.....	350
Guards of the fourth class for 12 months at.....	375
Guards of the third class for 12 months at	400
Guards of the second class at	425
Guards of the first class at.....	450