

Ottawa,
September 22, 1941

Dear Major Lindsey:

It was very kind of you to send me the wire of congratulations which I received on the 18th, the morning after my address before the Ottawa Canadian Clubs. I am indeed pleased to know that you thought so well of that particular speech.

It is exceedingly kind of you to have also wired me of Jennie. Without mentioning that I had received any word from you, I telephoned at once to her urging strongly that she do not delay her visit to Toronto, or having a specialist come to see her. I have, of course, been in touch with her right along and doing what I could from this distance to have her realize the importance of not postponing an opportunity to get the best of medical advice. She has had a very anxious time - indeed, an exceptionally hard time for a year or two past. I am not surprised that her anxieties are beginning to tell upon her. She knows that I am only too anxious to be of whatever assistance I can. It is extremely kind of you to have been
