Pure Tea
Hygienic Packages

Users of Grand Mogul Tea pronounce it the beverage of good health. Grown on the sun-kissed mountains of Ceylon, it has the delicious and mellow flavor of purity.

¶ Prepared by machinery from plantation to cup. The packages, lined with air-tight paper, protect it from store dust and microbes. Never sold in bulk nor in poisonous lead. The effort to substitute some other tea to be "just as good" is the desire of some dealers for an excessive profit on an inferior article.

Grand Mogul Tea

¶ Sold at 25c, 30c, 40, and 50c per pound. Look for the premium coupon and list of premiums in each package.

Humor and Philosophy

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The people who are always letting things go are apt to be quite satisfied to take them as they come.

If Mr. Rockefeller were not so exclusive in his giving, there would be lots of people enterprising enough to find effectual means of deodorizing his coin.

Hot water seems to enter early as a factor in the life of the czarling.

It is sort of discouraging to think of making money, as those millionaires seem to have such a time in getting rid of what they have made.

Thinking is to be recommended as a good exercise, and those who practice long enough have even been known to evolve an idea.

Whoever else he may quarrel with, a man should strive to keep on good terms with his liver.

Nothing but experience will teach a boy that it is not worth while to remain to the concert.

It is very seldom you will find an alderman who doesn't know why he is there.

For light, healthful exercise for an old person there is nothing like drawing a pension.

Forced Him to Sleep.

"He was terribly troubled with insomnia, but he is all over it."

"How did he get cured?"

"They raised his room rent, and he had to sleep more to get his money's worth."

It Is Everywhere.

To eat the festive new laid egg
And eke the charming yellow leg,
The butter from the gentle cow,
Prepared as no one else knows how,
We journey to the countryside
And put up with a dusty ride

Through villages and farming land
To get the produce at first hand.
And then it drives us most insane
To find that on the selfsame train
Come butter, eggs, canned fruit galore
In boxes from the city store.

May Be the Climate.

"I suppose they will soon get busy on the isthmus."

"That is what they claim."

"You know I think there is a good deal of hot air about that canal."

Degrees.

"Yes," said the pious man; "all flesh is grass."

"That may be true," replied the flippant one, "but you must admit that grass widows are more so."

When He Lapsed.

He lived on thirteen cents a day,
On buttermilk and malted hay.
He said a diet of this kind
Developed muscle, bone and mind.
But when another man stood treat
You should have seen him gobble meat.

A Surer Way.

"He has discovered the secret of making gold."

"From sea water?"

"No; from suckers."

Noticed the Big Signs.

"Why is he taking so much patent medicine?"

"He has been reading the handwriting on the wall."

Better Proposition.

The glories of a sunrise
A man will gladly lose
And feel ahead if in his bed
He can remain and snooze.

Still More Important.

"He can order his meals in three different languages."

"Yes, but he can't always pay for them in one."

Different Kind of Pressure.

"Why is he so anxious about having his suit pressed?"

"He wants to press his suit tonight."

Getting Even With Them.

"He mortgaged his place to give his daughter a musical education."

"It is awful when a man has it in for the neighbors as bad as that."

Naturally.

"He is writing a story about the wheat pit."

"Will it run as a cereal?"

A Mystery.

If art is long,
As some report,
Why should some artists
Then be short?

Sea Water.

Sea water is a complicated mixture of a great variety of substances. Roughly speaking, it consists of 96½ per cent of fresh water plus 3½ per cent of mineral salts. Three-fourths of these salts are chloride of sodium, or common table salt, and the next largest constituent is chloride of magnesium. After these come sulphate of magnesium, sulphate of lime, sulphate of potash, bromide of magnesium and carbonate of lime. In addition to these substances sea water contains minute quantities of quite a variety of elements, including iodine, phosphorus and arsenic. It also contains some silver, copper, zinc, nickel, cobalt, iron and gold. There is said to be 2 cents' worth of gold in every pailful of sea water, but as yet nobody has found a way to extract it. Copper and zinc are found in some seaweeds, and certain species of coral is three-millionths silver.

Stonewall Jackson's Battles.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

The Vice-President Independent Order of Good Templars.

An experience which many women have was related by Miss Agnes Stebbings, of 231 East 30th Street, New York City, as follows: "I had very poor health for a year until life looked dark and dreary to me. Had headaches, backache, also pain, my sleep was broken and fitful. I longed for health. Tried several medicines but none were of any lasting benefit until I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I soon realized that I had found the right remedy. It helped nature to throw off the poisons that saturated the system, removed all pains and strengthened the digestive organs, and brought the roses of health back to my cheeks. This medicine if taken occasionally keeps the system in perfect condition, helping it to throw off the disease and consequences of exposure to dampness. I am pleased to give it my endorsement."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

AN EVARTS FEE.

Showing How It May Sometimes Pay to Be a Poor Writer.

Not many lawyers write legibly, and the late William M. Evarts wrote such an execrable hand that it was very often difficult to read it. This caused a mistake at one time which resulted in the eminent lawyer receiving a retainer for ten times the amount he requested. The late William Allen Butler, an eminent member of the New York bar, was counsel for one of the legatees in the celebrated Stokes will case years ago, in which the late Dr. Henry P. Stearns was one of the expert witnesses. Something like $15,000,000 was involved; and Mr. Butler told his client that he would like an associate in the conduct of the case. He was asked whom he would suggest, and he said he thought Mr. Evarts would be the best man owing to his superior knowledge of the law and his great reputation as an advocate. The client agreed, and Mr. Butler was instructed to see if Mr. Evarts would come into the case.

Accordingly Mr. Butler wrote to Mr. Evarts and invited him to be associated in the case and name his retaining fee. In due time he received a reply, which he saw at a glance was in the affirmative and, without stopping to read it further, slipped it into another envelope and mailed it to his client. In a day or two he received a call from Mr. Evarts, who inquired what sort of a man his brother lawyer's client was.

"Didn't you hear from him after I sent your letter to him?" queried Mr. Butler.

"Yes," replied Mr. Evarts, "but he sent me a check for $25,000, and I only asked him for $2,500."

It was apparent that Mr. Evarts' chirography misled the client. This is the story as told by a lawyer who was familiar with the facts, but it is not known whether Mr. Evarts returned the difference of $22,500 or whether he worked it out.

THE KALLIMA BUTTERFLY.

An Insect That Perfectly Imitates a Dead Tree Leaf.

A moth usually rests with his fore wings outspread over the prominent pattern of his hind wings, says Waldemar B. Kaempffert in the Booklovers Magazine. In any other posture he would inevitably meet a swift death. A butterfly, on the contrary, rests usually with his wings uplifted and pressed together. Otherwise, the gaudy upper surface would be as conspicuous as the black ink on this white paper—a signal for attack by relentless and voracious foes. In order to hide himself the butterfly has, therefore, lavished all the resources of his imitative art on the under surface of his wings. By far the most astonishing instance of this kind is afforded by the East Indian Kallima butterfly, the blue upper surface of which is richly and ostentatiously adorned with a stripe of orange, but the under surface of which bears a truly staggering likeness to a leaf, when the wings are drawn together. Here we have an insect that apes not merely the approximate shape and color of a dead leaf, but also the midrib with the delicate veining, the sharp point, and the short stem common to many tropical leaves.

It might be supposed that this imitation of an ordinary object is sufficiently minute to protect the Kallima from its enemies. Self preservation apparently demands not merely a dead leaf simulated, but in touches even more exquisite, for the resemblance has been so craftily carried out that the lighter colored varieties, a dead, shriveled leaf flecked with parasitic growths, stained and spotted to give the appearance of holes eaten by caterpillars.

How Owls Catch Chickens.

When I was a chunk of a boy I shot a horned owl, the spread of whose wings was four and one-half feet, and, to the surprise of the boy who had carried it for several miles, the weight was only four pounds. They were rather numerous at that time in that section of the country and were troublesome about carrying off chickens, which mostly roosted in apple trees about the farm buildings. The belief that they could carry away full grown hens was a common one. It was also commonly believed that an owl never picked a chicken off the roost, but, alighting on the limb, crowded the chicken off and as it flew toward the ground caught it on the wing.—Forest and Stream.

Bacon and the Fishers.

In "Aubrey's Lives" this quaint story is told of Lord Bacon: "His lordship, being in the garden looking on fishers as they were throwing their netts, asked them what they would take for their catch. They answered so much. His lordship would offer them not more, but so much. They drew up their nett, and in it were only two or three little fishes. He then told them it had been better for them to have taken his offer. They replied they hoped for a better draft, but, said his lordship, 'Hope is a good breakfast, but an ill supper.'"

A Paper House.

"Only think," exclaimed Fenderson, "of the many uses to which paper is now put!"

"I know," replid Bass, "I was at the theater the other night, and I was told it was all paper, and it was a fine, substantial looking structure too."

The Hole In the Roof.

No man is belittled by having a decent roof over his head, and no bishop is made a saint by living in a hovel.—From "The Bishop's Niece," by George H. Picard.

It is really the errors of a man that make him lovable.—Goethe.

Ex-Mayor Blain of Galt Dead.

Galt, July 17.—The death occurred Saturday morning of Richard Blain, ex-Mayor of Galt, a resident here for 62 years. He was a native of Bowness-on-Solway, Cumberland, England, and came to this country in 1830. For many years he was associated with the milling industry, his large flour mills, now occupied as power house by the Galt Electric Light Co., serving a district from lake to lake. He retired from active business over 20 years ago. His death at the age of 84 was not due to organic disease. Preserving his faculties up to the last, he simply fell into the sleep that knows no waking. Mrs. Blain died in 1899

CHILLS PROVE FATAL!

If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nerviline on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill in two minutes. By rubbing freely over throat and chest it prevents colds. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to kill pain and inflammation. Nearly fifty years' record has proved the value of Polson's Nerviline. You should get a bottle today.
