

GERMAN NAVAL OFFICERS ENTERTAINED BY PRESIDENT.

GERMAN NAVAL OFFICERS, ON WASHINGTON VISIT, LEAVING NAVY DEPARTMENT

Admiral von Reuber Paschwitz and the other officers of the visiting German squadron were lavishly entertained during their stay in Washington. They were given a dinner on the White House terrace and the President chatted informally with them. The German officers had many words of praise for the American navy, especially for the battle ships which they had seen at Hampton Roads.

Woodrow Wilson Democratic Choice For U. S. Presidency

The 46th B.C. of Found the Convention Delegates Almost Unanimous for the New Jersey Governor --All Breaches in the Party Healed and the United Ranks Closed Against Dissention--The Nomination for Vice President Today.

Baltimore, July 2.—Governor Woodrow Wilson was nominated for President on the fourth ballot at the Democratic Convention. The forty-third, forty-fourth and forty-fifth ballots had shown steady Wilson gains and the other nominees withdrew releasing their delegates.

The results of forty-fourth ballot: Wilson, 628; Clark, 306; Underwood, 99; Harmon, 27; Foss, 27.

Forty-fifth ballot: Clark, 306; Wilson, 633; Underwood, 97; Harmon, 25; Foss, 27.

Forty-sixth ballot: Clark, 84; Wilson, 590; Harmon, 12; Absent, 2.

The Democratic National Convention became a love feast tonight when it next to select a running mate for Governor Woodrow Wilson. The intense bitterness of the past week seemed to have disappeared.

When the convention suspended the regular order of business—the nomination of a vice-presidential candidate—shortly before 11 o'clock to make way for the reading and adoption of the platform six candidates for the vice-presidency had been placed in nomination. They were Governor Burke, of North Dakota; Governor Marshall, of Indiana; Elmore W. Hurst, of Illinois; Martin J. Wade, of Iowa; Jas. H. Preston, of Maryland, and Champ Clark for second place on the ticket was the feature of the evening's performance. The sentiment of the convention was strongly in favor of giving the Speaker the place if he would accept it.

The Clark leaders held excited conferences and the Speaker himself was called on the telephone. Despite a speech by former Governor A. M. Dockery, of Missouri, withdrawing Clark's name, and a telegraphic statement from the Speaker himself, declaring he would not take the place, the convention was still hopeful of his final acceptance, and one of the reasons for the suspension of the vote on the nomination was the desire of the leaders to make sure of Clark's position.

Governor Burke, of North Dakota, assembly was backed strongly for the second place. His name was roundly cheered when it was placed before the convention.

The reading of the platform commenced nearly an hour. It was listened to with careful attention by the delegates and the few spectators who remained in the hall. When the reading concluded Senator Kern moved the adoption of the report, which was done by viva voce vote.

When the vice-presidential nominations were again taken up it was after midnight.

Hickory Limb Robbed And Girl Dresses in Fish Net

She Makes Her Way to a Quarry and Borrows Overalls, Shirt and Hobnail Shoes from Men Living in a Camp Near by

St. Louis, Mo., July 3.—Mrs. Joseph Rain, a Woman's Christian Temperance Union worker, who lives near Hop Hollow, north of Alton, by heroic remedies has put a stop to the practice of young women bathing in a hop-sol pool unless the young women have proper bathing suits and provide themselves with temporary dressing rooms.

Only one application of the heroic remedies has been found necessary. That was when Mrs. Rain removed all of one swimmer's wearing apparel which had been hung on the classic hickory limb—and then the swimmer to wait until dark before she could go home.

It is said this particular swimmer, Miss Maggie Thurston, was already in the bad books of Mrs. Rain. Although the pool is in a secluded spot and the casual passerby is not likely to run across it, Mrs. Rain has two sons who are familiar with the neighborhood. Mrs. Rain feared one of these sons may stray toward the pool at an inopportune time. The mother had spoken of this danger, but Miss Thurston had not heeded the remonstrance.

Mrs. Rain saw Miss Thurston going toward the pool. The mother waited awhile and then stole to the pond. She watched until Miss Thurston had finished her plunge and had found a grassy place on the bank for a sunbath. As Miss Thurston dozed Mrs. Rain gathered up all of the swimmer's clothing and took it to her own home.

When Miss Thurston awoke she found herself in a serious predicament. She sprang into the pool, and, submerged to her chin, screamed for help but no help came. She waited there for upward of an hour. Then she saw a fisher's net where it had been stretched in the sun to dry. She draped this about her as best she could and made her way to a quarry some distance away.

The workmen were all foreigners. Their astonishment was so great it took them several minutes to realize the situation. There were no women in their camp, but one of the men offered to lend Miss Thurston his overalls. Another proffered his shirt and a third his hobnail shoes. It was the best she could do, so she had to accept.

She waited until dark and started home. As she hurried through the streets some one observed her and telephoned the police a woman was prowling around in man's clothes. A patrolman investigated. When Miss Thurston explained the policeman escorted her home. There were no arrests.

Some Very Practical Advice For Poultry Raisers of N. B.

Harcourt, June 28.—The practical character and great value of the addresses being delivered by the speakers at the agricultural demonstration train now touring the Province may be judged from the following synopsis of the talk given by Seth Jones at Harcourt on Thursday to an audience composed almost wholly of women. Following an inspection of the poultry exhibit the women assembled in one of the cars and Mr. Jones introduced his subject by remarking upon the unsatisfactory market there was right at home for all the poultry products that the Province could raise for many years. New Brunswick instead of exporting eggs and poultry is importing thousands of dollars worth every year and the demand is increasing. One subject sought by the Department of Agriculture was to interest the people and stimulate them to invest in this pleasant and profitable branch of farming. As off farms are at present conducted the care of the hens and poultry products is left almost wholly with the women. The work is light, pleasant and when rightly carried on yields great profits.

DESOLATE SCENE AROUND REGINA

Financial Aid Coming from All Quarters—Banks Will Help the Business Men.

Regina, July 2.—Since the dead have been buried and the injured are being well cared for, the chief work of the city is the effort to clear the debris away and find other homes known to be missing. The next step of chief importance, is feeding the 3000 homeless and rehabilitating the business of Regina.

The banks are coming to the aid of the business men and have prevented paralysis by extending the necessary credits.

Many men worth a quarter of a million last week are practically penniless today. What accounts they have been hurried from their homes by the wreckage. The Manitoba government today added ten thousand dollars to the relief fund and from as far south as Chicago and as far east as Halifax a steady stream of money is pouring in.

The handsome residence of Lt. Gov. Brown on Cornwall street is badly damaged, although the building is still intact. The residence of W. M. Martin, M. P., next door is also badly shaken but is also still standing.

A large scuttling drove a hole clean through the roof of the residence of W. M. Duncan, 2 Cornwall street, when he saw the storm coming, gathered his wife and three children into a small room. None of them were injured. Part of the roof was blown off and everything in the house is turned topsy turvy.

Mrs. J. H. Syman had a most exciting experience. She and the family were sitting on the porch when she saw the storm coming. She says a great funnel-like cloud which swept everything before it was seen. With the first gust of wind, they rushed into the house and locked the doors. The house party started to bend over on them. They were absolutely covered with plaster and were caught in the hall and unable to get out for some 20 minutes. They finally climbed out of the front window. The house was twisted in every direction and they were unable even to get into it. Large wind twisted the bed in the upper bedroom and smashed it entirely to pieces. Mr. Syman was in an office down town at the time, and hurried home frantic, fearing his wife had been killed.

The residence of A. K. Morton, 220 Sixteenth Ave., is badly damaged, but the house is still standing. The new $20,000 residence of L. V. Kerr which was in course of construction, is unroofed and part of it smashed in. The house is still standing. Large street, is literally tossed to pieces. He and his wife and infant child had a miraculous escape. They are slightly injured but otherwise escaped.

The home of J. McPherson, formerly city commissioner, is in ruins. J. L. Pearson's home is almost as badly smashed. The handsome home of Mr. 1810 Lorne street, is an absolute wreck, but the inmates escaped slightly hurt.

The brick residence of H. M. McCallum lies flat, nothing but the front steps being left. All escaped injury. Mrs. Guthrie, who came from Peterborough, and her two daughters, were living in a small cottage next door to the McCallums. There is no sign of the cottage today.

Miss Ella Guthrie was instantly killed in bed while asleep. Mrs. Guthrie's collar bone was broken and Miss Annie Guthrie is in the hospital with a badly injured back. Next door to Mrs. Guthrie lived her son-in-law, J. Gibson. Their house likewise is levelled to the ground. Mrs. R. W. Harris, rooming in the house, was carried out of the ruins. She was a terrible sight. She was literally smashed to pulp and beyond recognition. She was caught in a mass of timber and crushed to death. Her husband is slightly injured.

Dr. Stevens' home is demolished but parts of the wall are standing.

For the establishment of an airship school in the Government of Tausidea the Russian Duma has voted £105,000.
