REVEREND AND DEAR SIR,—The occasion which brings us together this evenemploying the church's approved methods for winning mon from sin that they changefulness of lifeas well as of its shortness. "We bring our years to an end as a tale that is told." How expressive and how true it is. We journey on, and as we pass the milestenes on the public highway, so we pass through the blossoming the degeways, the violets and roses of the springtide; tomerrow, clouds and rain storms assail our path, and all look sad and desolate; then again the sur comes out ike a clear shining after rain, and so out grees on, notil man takes his last look upon that glorious orb, and his own sun sets, though not in darkness.

The occaping the church's approved methods for winning mon from sin that they and fitted to join in and enjey the inimitable liturgy rendered in the House of God. While that liturgy has neither peer nor rival for united public worship, the Church never intended that it should be the sum of our worship than our Lord did that the Lord's prayer should be, when he said, "after this manner therefore pray ye." I was very much of the relief will be sure to be attracted, and desolate; then again the sur comes on the relief will be sure to be attracted, and cut you out before any harm has congregation who were ever ready to conduct them in his change.

The occaping the church's approved methods for winning mon from sin that they may be brought in and fitted to join in and enjey the inimitable liturgy rendered in the thouse of God. We would, however, turn our thoughts for a little space from this aspect of things, and dwell upon the brighter side. You have, dear sir, as the ambassador of Christ, labored among up for the short space of a little less the new oyears. In that imited time yen have, by numerical hard work, by love and gentleness, by your patience under all circumstraces and under all difficulties, and also by your faithful preaching to use of the Gospel of the Kingdom, and group upsterving conscientionsness in regard to your duty to your neighbor, won the esteem of the kingdom, and group upsterving conscientionsness in regard to your duty to your neighbor, won the esteem of the England is but a part. As you are now about to leave us for another base of operations, another part of the Lord's vineyard, we take this opportunity of testifying to what you have done among us, and to shew our appreciation of it. The biessed Saviour has said that the disciple is not above his Master, nor the servant above his lord, and so we find it in the actual experience of life. Christ, the Great Exempler, has said furthermore that "it is enough for the disciple that he be as his master." So we know, the Great Exempler, has said further, more that "it is enough for the disciple where the said and the said of the said o that he be as his master." So we know, dear sir, that as His disciple and as His countenance may so continually rest up both you and the that our hearts may be minister of the New Testament you are satisfied to be, nay more, that you feel is your heart that it is even a cause for beautiful present tonight.

FOR TWO WEEKS, COMMENC-ING TUESDAY, 12th APRIL.

Paralytics and other Invalids, beyond the reach of ordinary skill, are all benefited and some of them marvelously cured by his treatment. No medicine used. Help for all. The imost sceptical convinced. No case hopelers. The blind can be made to see, the deaf to hear and the lame to walk. Charges very moder atc. Remember only three weeks.

For the benefit of people similarly afflicted, I wish to state that Prof. Gustin has restored the use of my hands, which have been partially paralyzed and almost powerlees for the years, defying all other treatment. James Streetton, Sr. Queen's Hotel, Brussels.
