WEEK-END NOTES.

(L. C. M.)

The question of cold storage has been before the public more or less for some years past, and like most enterprises it has had to suffer its share of delay, and pass through the usual vicissitudes of expediency. In turn it has suited the different political parties to support it, and in turn it has suited them to oppose it; thus the issue has been well played for party gain, but badly played for the scheme itself.

But now the game seems to be up, and practical business men have taken a hand in, and have put their shoulder to the wheel. This should be cause for rejoicing, and for congratulations on all sides, for it indicates that the days of suspense in this respect are past, and that at last something practical is about to be instituted. It means that this long-continued process of preserving and marketing a portion of our great staple is to have a chance to prove its worth; and further, it means also that we have capitalists in our midst who have faith in this process, and who have liberally subscribed in order to test its possibilities. Nor has this been done in haste; but rather has mature consideration been given it, and the inquiry made about it.

Of course there are more ways than one in which to look at the problem of cold storage; hence we find that quite a diversity of opinion exists about it. Some look upon it as being of great benefit to the trade of the country; and they see great good in it; others take an opposite view of it, and see serious loss in it. But like marriage, whether for better or worse, the day of cold storage has come for Newfoundland, and it will elude and get its portion of trade.

our is the chief basis of the earning power of the people, and anything which threatens to invade their interest in this direction must of necessity arouse opposition.

But, as already stated, objection or no objection, cold storage is coming, and coming to stay. It seems to be the order of things that it should come, and thus help forward the new day which is in store for Newfoundland, and which has yet to burst upon her.

To those of us who have studied the history of Newfoundland, and who, for the last half century, have been in touch with her trade and commerce, and who therefore understand its conditions, it seems very evident that a much larger volume of trade should have been done than was done. It is also evident that the best was not done for Newfoundland generally, and that neither her capitalists, nor her working classes, got their rightful share. Somehow, there was a narrowness which often resulted in financial loss to business men and therefore loss to the people. But there is now a safer medium for all concerned, and many improvements are already with us, and our condition to-day is better than ever before. These conditions will continue to improve and the newer ideas of the age, and the advanced methods of the times, will have much to do with our future prosperity, and amongst these methods that of cold storage will have a place.

Canadian Freighter

Sunk

The Durley Chine Collided with British Steamer Off Sandy Hook.

The Canadian freighter, Durley Chine, bound in ballast from a Canadian to an American port, was rammed and sunk yesterday morning in collision with an outward bound British freighter about sixty-five miles east of Sandy Hook. The latter vessel returned to New York with her bow stove in leaking badly forward and brought in the Captain and the twenty-eight men of the crew of the Durley Chine. She will probably discharge her cargo and go into dry dock for repairs.

According to the Captain of the damaged vessel, he left New York on Saturday afternoon. His vessel struck the Durley Chine amidstships and almost cut her in two. The Durley Chine was a single screw steamship of 1,318 gross tonnage, built in Sunderland in 1913 and owned by the Canadian Government. She was 279 feet long, 40 feet 1 inch beam, and 18 feet 4 inches depth of hold—N. Y. Times, April 23.

The Durley Chine was a freight carrier well known in St. John's and was here a couple of times last year with general cargoes.

Clergyman Has

Recovered

Was Unable to Fill Appointments and Greatly Discouraged by Continued Ill-health.

Gananogue, Ont., May 5th. — The many friends of Rev. George Alton are pleased to learn of his recovery after a long period of ill-health from biliousness, stomach troubles, and severe headaches.

Mr. Alton had become very much discouraged over his inability to obtain relief, and thought he would have to quit the ministry, when fortunately he read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and began their use. He tells the particulars of his case in this interesting letter:

Rev. George Alton, Gananogue, Ont., writes: "I had been suffering from bilious attacks for four years. I was very weak, had headaches, and my stomach was so bad that I could hardly eat anything without being troubled by it. I had tried many cures, herbs, pills and salts, and was under the doctor's care for some time, but instead of getting better I seemed to get weaker. I was unable to fulfill my appointments on Sabbath and to get secure help. I used to take dizzy spells and could not walk across the floor straight. I had almost given up all hope, and my wife said that if I did not get better we would have to quit the work of the ministry. However, in looking over the 'British Whip', the well-known Kingston paper, I saw Dr. Chase's advertisement in it, and read how Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills had helped others who were troubled as I was. I resolved to give these Pills a trial, and I must say that in a short time I obtained relief. I continued taking them for some time, and now I am able to resume my work again. From the benefit I have obtained from these pills, I would recommend them to all who suffer as I did."

Rev. C. Cunningham, 124 First Avenue, Toronto: "This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Rev. George Alton of Gananogue, and believe his statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be true and correct."

Broke His Neck.

Particulars, though meagre, of how a young man named James Chaytor met his death at Grand Falls, as previously alluded to, are contained in an official message from the Magistrate there. The tragedy occurred on Wednesday afternoon last. Chaytor, an employee of the A. N. D. Co., was engaged repairing a wood conveyor. A board, which he had been resting his weight against, gave way and he fell a distance of about sixty feet, death being instantaneous. An examination of the body showed that his neck, both legs and arms were bruised, while other parts of his body were badly battered. Deceased belonged to Greenspond, was only 24 years of age and had been married less than six months. Magistrate Fitzgerald of Grand Falls is conducting an enquiry.

Little Stephano Launched Yesterday.

The little namesake of the once proud ship Stephano was launched at Shelbourne, N.S., yesterday and was christened "Little Stephano," according to a message received by her owner, Capt. A. Kean, yesterday afternoon. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Irwin, wife of Mr. R. Irwin, M.P.P. The schooner will be in charge of Capt. Wes. Kean, who left a few days ago with a crew to take charge of the vessel.

What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Cares.

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture.

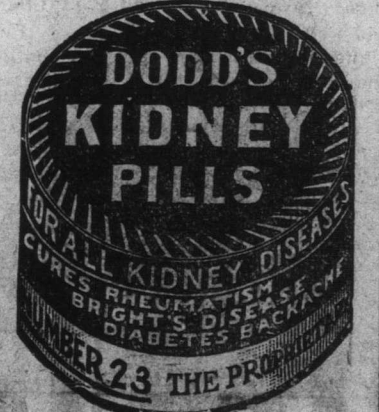

Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and best of all, for the cost it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

S. MILLEY.

THE WARRIOR.

When I begin to kill off Germans, my motives will be just; no thirst for blood my course determines.

I slay because I must. I prayed for peace while there seemed chances of gaining such a boon; but now I grind my swords and lances, and hum a martial tune. Long, long I hoped the nutty kaiser would see where he was wrong, that he'd have counsel, saner, wiser, than he has had for long. But he is drunk with blood besotted, in carnage he would swim; he'll have no sense till I have swatted the sauerkraut out of him.

We've smooled and looked on bloody murder, by lying "notes" explained, until the thing could go no further, if honor were retained. The patience of this mighty nation made no appeal to Bill; so now we tire of "explanation," we load our guns to kill. No more I'm preaching tiresome sermons on peace, and kindred boons; I'm out to shoot a bunch of Germans and swipe their pantalons. I'm done with peace, O men and brothers, until this war shall cease; and I have little use for others who still are prating "Peace."

Outlashed the Huns.

We learn from the twenty-two Royal Naval Reservists that returned yesterday and whose names appeared in the Telegram on Thursday, that on leaving the Old Country the troopship on which they travelled was steaming directly in the track of a German submarine, which however, was fortunately seen by the British destroyers which had accompanied them on the start of the voyage. The captain of the transport received a wireless shortly after from one of the destroyers saying that the Huns were now resting on the bottom and not likely to rise before the war is over.

Every living room should have a large table to hold books, magazines and a reading lamp.

Remove the odor of onions from a cooking dish by boiling strong soda water in it.

The separate sewing room should have as large a table as possible for cutting out.

Big Advance in Price of Coal.

Coal has made an enormous advance in price, according to the quotations given us by some firms in the city. Messrs. A. J. Harvey & Co., Ltd., and H. J. Stabb & Co. are now selling at $14.20 a ton a sudden increase of almost $3 on a ton. Where is it all going to end? Is such an enormous jump in price warranted and justifiable? Has the price of coal advanced at the times recently to such a staggering extent?

The Infam

(From the Boston Herald.)

The rule about a good of the dead is suspended in the case of the late President. He has won which his death in tyranny cannot be said in passing's deeds is that they, he was more. But that he was obey these orders, prove on them a stain of rapine, of snatching and slaying plainly apparent, to the bar of judgment of his own. An odious task was set before him, his duty at Potsdam; he was from the moment a sian foot was set on the burned and innocent citizens' fences of ne'er-do-women and girls, sent from their homes, them into bitter and he sent Nurse C. squad; he has no
