Chicago. Ill., Jan. 25.—There was action in wheat today, and the price lost by the operation. The Government report, according to all rules and theories, should have brought about a different result, but when the bears found how inefficient it proved as a bull factor they hammered away merely, and forced out they hammered away merely, and forced out several large lines of long wheat. Bradstreet's report afforded no help, it giving a decrease in the world's available supply of but 1,137,000 bu, where upwards of 2,000,000 bu reduction was where upwards of 2,000,000 bu reduction was looked for. The Government in its summing up of the 1896 crop made the yield 427,000,000 bu. The guesses were that it would show from 435,000,000 bu to 450,000,000 bu. From the opening there were heavy offerings, but the full intensity of the weakness developed during the last fifteen minutes, within which period inside quotations were established. Liverpool cables quoted id to id decline, the closing ones giving a better tone than those received at the opening. Continental markets were generally lower. May wheat opened from 79c to 78ic:

John Charters, of the 4th concession, had known the prisoner for eight years. When Ballard moved to the Campbell farm first witness went over to see him. Hamilton Tisdale was present, and the prisoner offered witness $100 to burn down the Campbell barn buildings. The witness refused, and the prisoner told him that Tisdale was afraid to do it, too, and that they were both cowards. Ballard had only a trunk in the house, and the witness saw him piling firewood in one corner of the building, which he considered rather a strange proceeding. When asked what he thought the prisoner was piling the wood there for, he answered, "To burn both it

Hamilton Tisdale, on the occasion semi-monthly meeting of the W. C. T. mentioned by the previous witness, took the trunk mentioned over to the place for Ballard. The reason the trunk was taken, as explained ing was of a most interesting character, it being the annual Crusade Day.

A short time afterwards the prisoner wanted him to get the buildings insurerd, and he tried to do so, but failed. John Seymour, in July, 1893, made what he termed a sort of an agreement with the prisoner to buy the Campbell farm. The agreement was that the witness should get the property insured, and he was given to understand that the house was to be Witness failed to get burned. place insured, and Ballard was very much displeased.

Samuel Seymour, a brother of the last witness, told how about three years ago James Ballard offered witness and Frank Mulligan $10 to light up a house. They both refused. This evidence was confirmed by Frank Mulligan.

This closed the particular case for the crown, and no defense was offered.

THE INQUEST. It will be remembered that Edward Fenton was the victim of the burning of his barn on Jan. 4. The unfortunate young man, while attempting to rescue his stock from the flames, was buried in the falling ruins of the barn. Some of the prisoners who are now on trial are blamed by the people for having started this fire. At the inquest, J. J. Funstan gave the only important evidence. He stated that Fenton had frequently expressed to him a fear of being burned out, and had also said that James Ballard told him (Fenton) that if he could not afford to buy the farm, all he needed to do was to insure the barn and burn them down, and then he could get the deed of the farm in a few days. William Cherry heard Fenton say he was afraid that his place would be burned down some day. James Ballard asked the witness to burn up a barn on the old Fenton place, and promised to pay him well if he did. Ballard claimed the place was his. The inquest was adjourned.

South African Mines Being Abandoned

New York Engineering and Mining

Journal. From time to time rumors are diseminated that Mr. Barnato is acquiring gold properties in Canada, both in British Columbia and in Ontario, Our London corespondent often expressed doubts as to the correctness of these reports, and considering the state of South African gold mining, it would be surprising if Mr. Barnato could find time to devote to launching out into new expenditure and the purchase of interests in a new gold field. It is, however, a fact that a good many circles of promoters in London have recently abandoned South Africa as a field of research and development and turned their alttention to the Dominion Canada. A recent example of this is South African General Development Syndicate, which was formed or-iginally to explore some of the probelonging to the notorious perties Oceana Company.
