THE VEGETABLES THINNING OUT

Only Cabbages, Onions and Celery Were in This Morning.

A FEW LOADS OF HAY

Price of Dressed Hogs Remain Steady at $9.00 per Hundredweight.

There was a fairly large Thursday market today. Vegetables are thinning out to a great extent, and outside of a few cabbages, celery and small onions, there was little in evidence this morning. The prices remain unchanged. There was about ten loads of potatoes, but the price is the same as on Tuesday.

There was a small quantity of hay, about half a dozen loads, but the price is the same as yesterday. The majority of loads selling at $12.50 per ton. The demand is very quiet, but the supply is abundant and tomorrow ought to see more in.

About a dozen loads of oats went at prices ranging from $1 to $1.07 per cwt. This is a higher price than has been paid for over a week. The buyers are evidently taking no chances in waiting for sales on the market, as the loads in this week have all been sold previous to their coming.

Wheat is coming steadily, and the half dozen loads sold at 90 cents per bushel. The quality is very good, and the demand is still greater than yesterday. Many of the buyers are waiting for future delivery.

One load of straw was brought in, but was sold before it reached the market. The demand for straw is becoming very strong, but the farmers are evidently taking no chances in waiting for sales on the market, as the loads in this week have all been sold previous to their coming.

The price of dressed hogs is fairly steady at $9. The quantity in this week is smaller than usual, but the demand is fairly brisk.
