"BULBUL" PLEASED

Ladies of St. George's Church Pleased Clever Entertainment.

A well-filled house greeted the second performance of "Bulbul" last night, when once more the amateur thespians of St. George's Anglican parish made evident their very decided abilities for singing and dramatic action. Many of those who attended the first presentation of "Bulbul" in May last, were present again last evening, and brought their friends, and that everyone was well pleased with the evening's entertainment. The evening was opened by a song, "Bulbul," by the soloists and chorus.

With one or two exceptions the members of the cast were the same as on the previous occasion. Mr. Sid Sims, as King, and Mrs. E. S. Sims, as Ida, the court chaplain, showed themselves capable of some clever acting, and their solo parts were well taken. As Bulbul, the beautiful, broken-hearted daughter of the king, Miss Lillian Finnegan scored a success, her sweet soprano being heard to special advantage in "I Know a Land," and "Such a Funny Man." Miss E. S. Sims, contralto, in the capacity of Lilla, friend to Bulbul, gave a pleasing interpretation of her role, and delighted her hearers with several songs, among others, "Croon, Song," "Meeting with special favor, Mr. Chas. Griffiths' presentation of Caspian, the wooing prince, was all that could be desired. Mr. Griffiths is possessed of an excellent tenor voice, and was heard to good advantage in several songs. The solo work of Mr. Jack Pope was also highly appreciated, being one of his best numbers being "I Want To Be a Soldier."

The chorus work was excellent and reflected great credit upon the training of Miss L. Gregory. The entire presentation was very pleasing to witness and was well received.

The remaining members of the cast were: Maids of honor, Misses Hazel Gibson, Hilda Stevenson, Kate Bowles, Elma Hodgson; keeper of the royal cash box, Mr. G. Martin; keeper of the royal spectacles, Mr. Harold Brown; courtiers, Messrs. James Bryant, Frank Copp, Robert Stevenson, Alfred Bradley and C. E. Pettie.

Progressive Plans For Boy Scouts

Local Officers Were Addressed by the Assistant Commissioner.

Mr. H. G. Hammond, assistant provincial commissioner, of the Baden-Powell Boy Scout movement, was in the city recently in connection with the annual meeting of the local Scout officers held in Croydon Hall. Mr. Hammond, who has been called "the Baden-Powell of Canada," had some encouraging remarks to address to the officers and others interested in the movement, and plans were made for a progressive program during the coming year. The membership of the Scouts in this city is nearly 200 at the present time, and it is confidently hoped to increase it to 500 before the summer.

If this can be accomplished, the Scouts of Ontario will be in the front ranks of all towns in Ontario. The Province of Ontario has been congratulated by Sir Baden-Powell on having the finest organization in the world. There are 5,048 Scouts of all ranks in the Province, and proficiency badges to the number of 3,263 were awarded last year.

The Farmers and Electrification. To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The farmers in some sections west and north of London, Canada, are proposing to spend $700,000 on the London and Port Stanley Railway as most absurd. I believe it would be infinitely more valuable to the city to spend that money on a radial line through Lobo, Adelaide, Williams, and on to the Lake Huron section around Arkona and Forest. The section between London and Port Stanley is already well served by railway and the source and not upon such an undertaking upon such a questionable undertaking seems to be the utmost folly for the city. We who live in the city are not of the Province, but remote from railroads and the line of the Province, and London's future prosperity depends upon a wise use of her financial resources, and not upon such an absurd undertaking as the present proposition. Surely London is too wise to tamely be led to the fatal chair.

Rev. Mr. Kaiser, who has taken Mr. Peters' work for the past five Sundays, delighted the people with his very practical and well-behaved discourse.

Mrs. Sutherland, of Woodstock, is the guest of Mrs. Robert Matheson.

Mrs. Wells, who is visiting with friends today at Brainerd.

Mr. and Mrs. David Murray, of Crosswell, are spending a few days with their aunt, Mrs. J. McKay.

Mr. George Duncan has arrived home from the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray, of Lakeside, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Murray, this week.

Mr. J. A. McKay, of London, was a guest at the home of Mr. Graham McKay on Thursday.

SLEEPING PEACEFULLY.

Henry Ward Beecher (says the British Weekly) wanted to visit his old friends once a year for many years, but in the latter part of his life he was not able to do this. In his very last year, however, he was able to spend a day in Indianapolis and went round the place. That evening he was received by the ministers, and the chairman in welcoming him said:

"Doubtless you find few of your old friends here in Indianapolis after so many years of absence, but we who are here to welcome you just as warmly."

Mr. Beecher, in reply, said: "Your chairman has said that I have found few of my old friends here in the city. It is true, I found only Mr. —, Mr. —, and Mr. —."

He then said: "I have found few of my old friends here in the city. It is true, I found only Mr. —, Mr. —, and Mr. —."

But this afternoon we drove out to Cedar Hill (the cemetery), and I found them. They are all there sleeping just as peacefully as they used to do under my ministrations."

NEW RECORD NEEDED.

At a political meeting in the town of A— the candidate was complimented by the opposition, who had attended in strong force. But after smartly turning the interruptions to his own advantage for some time, a little man in the middle of the hall stood up and shouted: "You speak like a gramophone."

Instantly the candidate replied: "Yes, my friend, I speak like a gramophone. I speak from that which is within me."

Like a flash of lightning the retort came back:

"Yes, and you want a new record very badly."

WHAT A GOOD.

The second-hand bookseller was recommending a volume showing how to be one's own lawyer.

"Nonsense," said the customer. "If the book showed me how to be completely one's own lawyer, I might take it. But what's the good of teaching me how to bleed myself?"

ENGINE CREW SAVED LIVES BY JUMPING FROM THEIR CAB

Rear-End Collision at Ingersoll Station in Dense Fog Resulted in Damage to Rolling Stock That Will Amount to Several Thousands.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Oct. 4.—Damage amounting to several thousand dollars was caused here shortly before midnight, when a fast special mail train, east-bound, in charge of Engineer Ferguson and Fireman Lockhart, of Sarnia, crashed into the caboose of an east-bound ore train, which had stopped at the station for orders.

The crash occurred in a dense fog, and the engineer and fireman had barely time to jump and escape with their lives. The big mogul, going at a fair speed, plowed through the caboose and reduced it to matchwood in a second, and tore on half-way through the big steel ore car, which is so badly buckled that it is almost a wreck.

The caboose took fire at once from coals from the firebox of the locomotive, and only the prompt arrival of the Ingersoll fire department prevented many cars being burned.

The tender of the engine hauling the meat train left the rails, and whose brother was killed in a Black Hand fight there two years ago.

Ralph Pasqua, the undertaker, who brought the body to the morgue, declared that he had been intimidated by the man with a revolver into taking the body in charge.

"I killed her," the undertaker said of one of the men told him. "She woke up in the night and wanted to see her mother, whom I had with my list. I didn't mean to kill her."

A general police alarm was sent out today for Joseph De Puma, from whose flat the body was taken.

So dense was the fog that it was impossible to see even the reflection of the burning caboose more than a few yards away.

Both Were Out.

The conductor and brakeman of the ore train happened to be out of the caboose at the time of the crash or both would have been instantly killed.

The battered mogul as soon as it is extricated from the buckled-up steel car will be sent to Stratford for repairs.

So dense was the fog that it was impossible to see even the reflection of the burning caboose more than a few yards away.

Men Brought Her Body in Macaroni Box and at Point of Guns Forced Undertaker To Take It—Fled Hurriedly From Their Apartments.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 4.—The delivery in a macaroni box of the body of a golden-haired little girl, apparently murdered, to a Harlem undertaker last night, set detectives at work on the theory that the child had been kidnapped for ransom and murdered when hope of obtaining the ransom failed.

The child's head was badly bruised and blackened.

Three men and a woman, who had custody of the child, who was about three years old and in whose flat in the Bronx she died, fled just before the detectives reached the place.

Early this morning Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and his defectives had gone far enough to say that they were seeking a man who is known as a "gun man" in the "Little Italy" section of Harlem, and whose brother was killed in a Black Hand fight there two years ago.

Ralph Pasqua, the undertaker, who brought the body to the morgue, declared that he had been intimidated by the man with a revolver into taking the body in charge.

"I killed her," the undertaker said of one of the men told him. "She woke up in the night and wanted to see her mother, whom I had with my list. I didn't mean to kill her."
