The big event in the W. O. B. A. today is, of course, the Labatt trophy finals, with Langford, of the London Thistles, and Chambers, of Aylmer, mitted against each other. Both rinks !
are strong ones and it is hard to pick the winner at this distance. The game ! started sharp at 3 o'clock and a big crowd was present to witness it.
If the Langford rink wins, the Labatt trophy will become the permanent property of the London Thistle Club.
The Thistles have already captured the new trophy twice before and a win for Langford this time Would-make it three times. The new Labatt trophy was first but up in 1908, after the Rowing Club had won the old one three times. Charlie Abbott's rink was the first London Thistle rink to win the new one, and then two years ago George Nightingale captured it. Following the games in the Labatt semi-

Rain Fell in Afternoon. The weather was not so ideal yester-day as it was on the first two days of the week. The sky was clouded all day, and toward the evening, rain began to and toward the evening, rain began to fall. It did not pour down, however, but drizzled for a time, and while it made the greens wet, it did not seriously interfere with the play. A couple of the games were postponed owing to the wet, but the majority of those rinks play: during the rainfall, kept right on and this hed their matches.

Dr. J. N. Wood Out of it.

Among those who were put out of the mining for all three events yesterday Among those who were put out of the running for all three events yesterday were Dr. J. N. Wood, of the Toronto Canadas; J. Burkholder, of St. Thomas, and C. H. Sumner, of Ingersoll. Sumner was beaten in the Tecumseh by Dr. English, of the Hamilton Asylum. H. O. Hawke, of the Galt Imperials, succumbed in this event to Sir John Willison, of the Toronto Canadas. Summer got as far as the ronto Canadas. Sumner got as far as the fourth round of the McNee, but Dr. Wright's Rowing Club rink got a big lead on him in the early ends, and when the rain came the match was called off at the tenth or eleventh end, Sumner wishing to return to inversell last evenwishing to return to Ingersoll last even-

A., and a great race for the prizes should result. One of the peculiar parts of the draw was the bringing together of the two Insane Rinks, Ironsides and English, of the Hamilton Asylum, and Richardson and Thrower, of the London Institution. The Hamilton rink proved the winner by the score of 13 proved the winner by the score of 13 to 10.

George Gibson Celebrated His Birthday and Return to Game by Hitting Triple

George "Mooney" Gibson celebrated his thirty-third birthday on Tuesday by jumping into the game again with Pittsburg, after an absence of several weeks with an injured ankle. His injured ankle is recovering nicely now since the adium treatment was resorted to, and from now on to the end of the season his name should appear frequently in the Pittsburg box scores. Yesterday he was sent in as a pinch-hitter, but drew a base on balls.

CELEBRATES WITH A TRIPLE. On Tuesday he celebrated his birthday and his return to the game by geting two hits, one a triple. The Pirates lost by the score of 2 to 1. Unfortunately there was nobody on when Gibson made his three-cushion drive. drive was a long one, and only for his injured ankle, which still pains, Mooney might have made home on it. Damon Runyon, writing in the New York American on the game, says the collowing about Gibson's hit: That second game was a mighty pitching duel between Mathewson and the great "Babe" Adams, once hero of a world's series that is now well nigh forgotten.

The Old Master had held the slugging Pirates runless going into the eighth inning, and one was out when "Hack" Gibson, the stodgy backstop of the Corsairs, tripled to left centre. Gibson was out of the game for a long time this season with an injured leg, and he was limping as he pulled into third.
