Clobe Policy of Thirty Years to be Turned Upside Down-Bistory of the Change and Those Connected with it-

eth not, and for unlikely things the gods find ou Euripides in two places.

If the removal of Gordon Brown from the control of the Globe a week, ago yesterday was a surprise, the putting of John Cameron of the London Advertiser in his place-as was done yesterday-is a revolution. For it means : That the entire record of the Globe is to

That if there is to be much harmony the party, there is to be little independence session, the dominion soon will be and a in so far as the Globe is concerned. And that the Globe is to become the organ of a number of jobbers. This whole Globe change is a public question, and the World, in dealing with it, looks at it as such, and therefore if it has to say some things that are unpleasant, it says them from a public standpoint. Mr Cameron arrived in town on Saturday. On Sunday he was in close consultation with J D Edgar. The Globe directors met yesterday forenoon. Gordon Brown was at the meeting and emerged therefrom with a smiling face, and then ger by the board, John F Taylor (Don paper | found to his cost when he essayed it. mills) was made president, and Charley Taylor, the business back bone of the con- wide stretch ! MR. CAMERON'S POSITION. Well, what is really Mr. Cameron's position ? Is he all that Gordon Brown was ? His friends say he is, and no doubt Mr. Cameron thinks he is. But remember that Gordon was president and managing director, editor, business head, etc., and the official heir of George Brown. Mr. Cameron is as yet not a director, he is therefore neither managing director nor president, and Charley Taylor is not likely to play second to any one in the matter of financing the concern, and running the advertising. So there is a sort of vacant managing editorship and this Mr. Cameron is going to fill. And most important of all Mr. Cameron is no heir of the Browns, not of the family, but the failed rival thereof. None of the Brunonian prestige attaches nalistic experience. He is one of the firm that have built up the London Advertiser, a paper of some reputation, of some notoriety, a combination between the don't-givea-fig religious-daily stamp. Mr Cameron and his partner McIntosh (now holding a government berth at London) were selected part we do not believe that the controlling power at the Globe board is composed of the material necessary to direct such a news-Blake organ and a rival of the Globe. It lasted five months or less. It closed up at an hour's notice. Mr Blake consented to go in the government of Mr Mackenzie, and his organ was closed down. Mr Cameron and his partner have always been understood to have lost money by the venture. In some respects the paper was a good one, its editorial writer Christopher Tyner was without an equal, but he was left without a definite policy being given him, and he was as much surprised at the sudden collapse as anyone could be. Lighter in pocket, richer in experience, the westerners packed their valies and sought again the humbler walks of "London in the woods." Since then they have not been heard to complain of their Toronto losses. They were so sick of the Toronto business, however, that when it was suggested to them that there was a splendid field for them to begin an evening paper in Toronto with the in who and to tunderstand an evening the material for the performance of that work. The idea the force of which has easeed Mr. Brown's retirement is a political idea, by which we would convey the meaning of politics in the narrower sense. If they were called upon to give a reason, w lasted five months or less. It closed up at paper. The question asked yesterday was, Was this joint stocking all a part of a plan welltion of Gordon Brown and the positing there We know nothing beyond what, is made of Mr. Cameron? Events will tell.

The Political Bearing of the Deal.

The London Advertiser has been a Blake rgan out and out, of rampant free trade doctrines, and the sworn foe of tall chimnics and home manufactures. MORE PRESS COMMENTS. From the Cornwall Freeholder (Liberal).

The Globe has undergone a change of nanagement, whether for the better or the worse remains yet to be seen. There is said not to be any unpleasantness consequent upon this action-that it was under stood all round ; but Mr. Brown's refusal to resign and his forcible removal take away all claim to belief from that story. Mr. Brown still remains on the board of direcors, but that is probably because as executor to his brother's estate he could not help it or he could not be removed. In the history of the Globe this change marks a great era. Heretofore the Globe and the Browns were inseparable. Their and the Browns were inseparate. Insir ability and energy made the Globe, and the Globe in turn made them; each ruised the other to greatness. That the future of the Globe newspaper will be as fruitful of distinction as the past we take leave to loubt, nothwithstanding that the old management had everything to provide out of their own mental and physical capacity, whereas the new have the great re-sults of the old to start with. For our have much to learn at its expense. Assuming that those who took it upon themselves ing that those who took it upon themselves to judge were right when they took the ground that there were grievances to be remedied, they will yet find out that they were far wrong if they thought that in

The extremely bitter personal attacks made by the Globe not infrequently will never be forgiven by many of its enemies and cannot be justified by its friends. It is said by some of the most pronounced of the management has not been recently in full accord with the policy of the liberal party, of which it was the accepted mouth-piece. We know nothing beyond what is made public by that party of its political ideas, political enemies of that newspaper, that its Mackenzie as it is on his old friend Mr

The cause of Gordon's hilarity was doubtless the thought of his successor. How he voted is not known, but he saw the whole thing through and it tickled him. Mr Cameron was voted in as general mans. ation there has gradually been growing a new order of parties. The development thereof has been hindered to some extent the old leaders of Canadian parties
John Macdonald, on the one hand sought by specious contrivances to assume the direction of liberal ideas by tory methods.

On the other hand we find Mr Blake representing an unadulterated liberalism seeking the fruitton of a national aspiration by patriotic methods. He knows the condipatriotic methods. He knows the condi-tions which have secured the temporary success of the Macdonaldite party, but he success of the Macdonaldite party, but he is equally aware of the nature, extent, and inevitable outcome of those conditions. The "boom" that has turned so many heads must play itself out before very long. The season of common sense must return, and with it sober reflection and the restoration of honest methods in government.

Therefore, it is above all necessary that the great organ of assured liberal thought should be in perfect accord with the leader of the party who must, and is, the centre round which the elements of the party gather. By him it is directed and through him it aspires to put in practical shape those ideas which are its common bond of union. If the change in the management of the Globe newspaper helps in this direction, the movement is one on which the directors may justly be congratulated. The fact will likewise be satisfactory to the pub-lic, while the result must be beneficial to

The Globe under the control of Gordon Brown was not sufficiently devoted to Mr. Blake; hence without doubt the reason of his being thrown overboard. Mr Blake means to be master, and to have an organ which will take from him the word of command, instead of seeking to impose it upon him. That is his own affair and no one can blame

The Changes in the Northern Railway. nanagement of the Northern and Hamilton and Northwestern railways for some time has been brought to an end by the appointment of Mr. Barker, late solicitor of the Great Western railway, to the general managership of the united companies. The World endeavored to find out last night whether the two roads still retained their integrity, and whether they would be strictly neutral as between the Grand Trunk and that Mr. Barker would be independent of the two great rivals. How long this state of things will continue is of course doubtful.

In reference to Mr Barker the Hamilton Spectator has the following:

The announcement of the appointment of Mr Samuel Barker to the general management of the Northern and Northwestern ment of the Northern and Northwestern railways will be gratifying intelligence to that gentleman's friends and fellow-townsmen of this city. Mr Barker is a thorough railway man, possessed of clear and penetrating judgment. He has successfully conducted some of the most delicate railway negotiations that have taken place for years past, an experience which will be of much advantage to him in his new position. Mr Barker's manner is unaffected, his disposition obliging, and in short he possesses all the characteristics of a thorough gentleman in an eminent degree, and he is, besides, a man of extensive reading and ripe culture. The appointment is a most excellent one and will be thoroughly satisfactory to all concerned.

The Times also speaks highly of Mr. Barker and says he is the right man in the right place. It further adds: "Taken as a sign of the times, Mr. Barker's acceptance of the new position may be read in this way—He does not change his base with the expectation that the position of manager of —He does not change his base with the expectation that the position of manager of the N. & N. The Litta Concert.

A fair sized audience attended this concer last evening in spite of the threatened rain. The concert opened with a selection on the piano by the accompanist, Mr Joseph Harrison, which was very well rendered. Then followed a song by the basso Bereghy, which was loudly applauded. Mr Blumen-berg on the violoncello delighted his audi-ence with his handling of this instrument, and was loudly encored. Next came Litta, who was of course the chief feature of the who was of course the cheft relative of the evening. She sang with unwonted vigor and power, and certainly deserved a better audience than was at the Gardens last night. The other artists of the concert were the tenor Ba'danzı, and Miss Annie Beere. The latter sings very sweetly indeed, and her rendering of "I love my that gentleman still exercised on the Globe; all of which is perfectly legitimate.

Both of the Napoleons had been identified with anti-Christ, and the reasons for so doing were so clear that the speaker was inclined to believe that the real anti-Christ would prove to be one of that family. You must remember that I am now speaking of new lands, not the well-known lands of Southern Manitoba or of the old province. The country lying between Alexander station and the western boundary of Manitoba I consider as third choice. The land can be described in a few words, as the soil being of a somewhat light nature, has a fair percentage of gravel intermixed in the surface and subsoil.
