

CHAPTER V.

Catherine instructed by Very Rev. Dr. Murray.—Mr. Callahan.—His portrait.—Mrs. Callahan.—Her generosity.—An unfortunate alliance.—Another.—A death-bed.—Catherine's godchild, Teresa.—Importance of prayer and deliberation before choosing a state in life..... 74

CHAPTER VI.

Dr. James McAuley.—Dr. William McAuley.—Table-talk.—Catherine's considerateness for converts.—Bigotry usually the result of early training.—Catherine's life at Coolock.—Her trials.—Her zeal for the poor.—Her views on the importance of the education of women of the lower classes..... 80

CHAPTER VII.

A soul in danger.—The Servants' Asylum.—The lost sheep.—Shadows of coming events.—Catherine's efforts to make the poor industrious.—Her moderate expectations.—The rich man and his heiress..... 89

CHAPTER VIII.

Conversion of Mrs. Callahan.—Her death.—Her husband's grief.—Rev. Mr. M— prescribes wine as a preparation to die well. The new gospellers and the old.—Mr. Callahan's conversion and death.—His will.—Very Rev. Dr. Armstrong.—His disinterestedness..... 93

CHAPTER IX.

Catherine's fortune.—Her charities.—Death of her only sister.—Mr. Williams' grief.—An exciting scene.—Catherine's midnight sortie.—The sentinels.—The reconciliation.—Her hair becomes 'gray, but not with years.'..... 111

CHAPTER X.

Beauty everywhere.—Something lovely in every one.—Mary Teresa McAuley.—She evinces a desire to become a Catholic.—Her aunt's devotion to the Blessed Sacrament.—The Mea Culpa..... 120

CHAPTER XI.

Projects of the Foundress.—First stone of Baggot-street House laid.—V. R. Dr. Blake's presentiment.—He is summoned to Rome to restore the Irish College.—Miss Fanny Tighe.—Miss McAuley's architects build a Convent.—Very Rev. Dr. Armstrong's illness and death.—Mr. Callahan's will contested.—The Institution opened.—Action versus contemplation.—Extracts from Ven. Archdeacon O'Brien..... 125