

THE following notice to the profession is extracted from a New Jersey paper of 1821: "To be sold, on the 8th July, one hundred and thirty-one suits at law, the property of an eminent attorney about to retire from business. (Note—The clients are rich and obstinate)."

EXCITED FEMALE.—"Say, if you have filed them divorce papers for me, I want you to go around and stop 'em right away."

Lawyer.—"Have you made it up with him?"

Excited female.—"Lord, no. I don't have to. He has just been run over by a train. I want you to sue the company for damages."—Express.

MANY of the "good things" which almost unconsciously drop from the lips of one of our learned Chief Justices at Osgoode Hall are unhappily lost in oblivion, or perhaps survive for a time only in the memory of those who happen to hear them. Here is a mot of his which, we think, deserves a more enduring fate. Speaking of the Act enabling county court judges to officiate in other counties than their own, he duly observed: "It is very hard on the people of a county to have a judge coming among them whose law they are not accustomed to." This may be a little hard on some of our judicial friends in country places, but they will excuse our inserting a joke at their expense. Have none of them some pleasant rejoinder? The same learned Chief Justice dearly loves a joke. One does not often get inside his armor; but he would not object to be pierced by an unpoisoned shaft neatly inserted.

This notice is designed to afford necessary information to Students-at-Law and Articled Clerks, and those intending to become such, in regard to their course of study and examinations. They are, however, also recommended to read carefully in connection herewith the Rules of the Law Society which came into force June 25th, 1889, and September 21st, 1889, respectively, copies of which may be obtained from the Secretary of the Society, or from the Principal of the Law School.

Those Students-at-Law and Articled Clerks, who, under the Rules, are required to attend the Law School during all the three terms of the School Course, will pass all their examinations in the School, and are governed by the School Curriculum only. Those who are entirely exempt from attendance in the School will pass all their examinations under the existing Curriculum of The Law Society Examinations as heretofore. Those who are required to attend the School during one term or two terms only will pass the School Examination for such term or terms, and their other Examination or Examinations at the usual Law Society Examinations under the existing Curriculum.

Provision will be made for Law Society Examinations under the existing Curriculum as formerly for those students and clerks who are wholly or partially exempt from attendance in the Law School.

Each Curriculum is therefore published herein accompanied by those directions which appear to be most necessary for the guidance of the student.
