

A TIGER STORY.—You will be sorry to hear that the tiger shooting party has been broken up by a dreadful accident. James Ferris, Captain Hodgson, and young Wroughton, of the 12th, went out; they commenced with splendid sport; up to the 14th they killed eleven tigers. On the 14th, after they had come home to tillia, intelligence was brought of a tiger which had just attacked a man; they got ready and sallied forth. Captain Hodgson was a head of the party when he saw the tiger; he fired and wounded her. She charged the elephant, sprung into the howdah, seized Hodgson by the arm, and carried him out on the other side. Wroughton came to the rescue, and saw the tigers standing over Hodgson, and succeeded in killing her. When they went to Hodgson he was insensible; his right arm was fearfully lacerated and the thumb bitten off; the back, body, and shoulders much scratched; he had in all nineteen wounds. They did all that they could at the moment, and immediately made arrangements to take him into Snettapore, where he now is in a rather precarious state, although not in positive danger.—Calcutta Star, April 10.

FRUGALITY IN HUMBLE LIFE.

“Of the extraordinary frugality with which some persons in humble life live, even where prices are high, I may as well in this place as any where, give an example which came under my observation. In Arbroath, near the magnificent ruins of the Abbey of Arbroath, I heard the movements of a hand loom, and I took the liberty, with due ceremony, of going in. A middle-aged Scotch woman, of pleasing appearance and neatly dressed, was weaving. I asked her how much she was able to earn. She replied, if she rose early, at five o'clock, and worked all day through the week, after paying for the use of the loom and the cost of winding her spools, her week's work would amount to four shillings. She paid three pounds sixteen shillings for the rent of her house. Her fuel cost her ninepence per week; and out of the remainder—less than two shillings—she had to support and clothe herself and an aged mother, who was infirm and incapable of helping herself. What the support that either of the poor creatures could have under such circumstances, must be difficult, but she made no complaint; and present an example of true Christian philosophy which would have done credit to a superior education and the highest condition in life.”

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

On Saturday week, Edward Jeffrey, of Devonport, who in 1837 was on board the schooner Ebenezer, which was lost in the North Channel, and who has for the last six years been mourned by his family as dead, arrived at Portsmouth, in the cruiser Arrow, from the coast of Africa. Mr. Jeffrey was a passenger in the Ebenezer, and when she was wrecked, he and a companion clung to the rigging, and were taken off by a foreign vessel bound to India. They were put ashore at the Cape; but being destitute of money, Jeffrey entered on board the Arrow, which, after a cruise of several years, having taken two large slavers, has returned home. All hands on board the Ebenezer were supposed to have perished.—Jeffrey's family went into mourning for him, and his father died about three years ago. The joy of his surviving friends may be conceived
