Hon. G. J. McIlraith (President of the Privy Council): Mr. Speaker, I should like to take advantage of this moment, before moving that the House adjourn, for the purpose of doing something that is particularly delightful for me, that is, to wish all hon. Members of the House a very pleasant summer recess which has been well earned and is, if I may be permitted the licence, much needed. I should like each Member of the House, no matter where he may sit, to return to the pleasant surroundings of his home and his constituency and, in spite of whatever the work ahead of him may be, to have in the meantime a well earned holiday and recess so that he may refresh himself. I hope that Members of the Opposition will do so in a way that will not give them too much energy upon their return to this place, but will at least make them feel very pleased about their return. In the case of Members on this side of the House I hope, of course, that they will be refreshed in a way that will give them much energy for the fray that may lie ahead after the 27th of September.

Hon. Michael Starr (Ontario): Mr. Speaker, may I take a moment to thank the President of the Privy Council and House Leader for his good wishes. We on this side of the House wish him and all his colleagues in the Government a good rest. I hope they will not be called to Cabinet meetings too soon, and that they will all be given an opportunity to get the cobwebs out of their heads, because the presence of cobwebs has been noticeable in the last few weeks. We promise that when we come back we will endeavour to guide the Government along a path different from that which they have been following in the past few years, a path which will bring prosperity to this country.

Mr. Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre): Mr. Speaker, we too should like to thank the Government House Leader for his good wishes. We too would like to reciprocate by extending our best wishes to Your Honour and to all Members of the House and to the staff, whom we have perhaps overworked during the past year or two. We welcome
