Mr. Pritchard purchased the Thames. Efforts to popularize the river route failed, and the electric railway has for the time being destroyed the chances of its success.

The Winnipeg Nor'wester of Feb. 9 says: "There died yesterday at his late residence, 119 Gladstone street, late resident of London, Ontario, Mr. Gibson Wright, aged 74 years. Deceased came to Winnipeg from London, Ont., of which city he was a native. The body will be taken to London for burial in the family plot there. Two daughters and two sons survive him, the latter being Messrs. M. E. Wright, grocer, 549 Main street, and J. K. Wright, of the firm of Wright & Co., 183 Dundas street. Deceased was a native of London township, and was a son of the late Quaker Wright, who at one time owned the Sheriff Glass farm. He resided for many years in West London, and officiated as collector of taxes for several years. He was a gentleman of undoubted probity, and very highly thought of by a large circle of friends."

North Middlesex.
The Young Liberal Club of Ailsa Craig Addressed by Mr. W. H. Taylor, M.P.P., G.T. Thompson and Others.

A Rousing Meeting of Electors—Addresses and Music in Plenty.

In response to an invitation from the Young Liberal Club of Ailsa Craig, Mr. W. H. Taylor, M.P.P., of the Liberal standard-bearer in North Middlesex, and Mr. G. T. Thompson, of Parkhill, delivered spirited addresses to the Young Liberal Club at their rooms in that village on Friday evening last.

The club rooms were nicely decorated for the occasion, superb portraits of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Premier Harcourt, the honored leaders of the Liberal party in Canada, occupied the place of honor on the walls of the room; the wains and ceilings were draped with the British and Canadian flags, and festooned with streamers bearing appropriate mottoes. The audience, among whom were a large number of ladies, was thoroughly representative, and filled to overflowing not only the club rooms, but the ante-room and hallways.

The speakers were well received, and the frequent applause was so genuinely enthusiastic that the candidate may reasonably expect to be re-elected on March 1 with an increased majority.

A number of Young Liberals chased away the possibility of dull moments with vocal solos and quartets, and instrumental selections on organ, harmonica and violin, and a most enjoyable and profitable evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem and hearty and prolonged cheers for Mr. Taylor, the Liberal party, the Liberal leaders and our most glorious sovereign.

The president of the Young Men's Liberal Club introduced Mr. G. T. Thompson, Parkhill, who delivered an able address. He hoped that many of the young Liberals present would grow up to serve their country with the silvery eloquence and broad statesmanship of a Laurier in the parliamentary halls of Ottawa, or with the eloquence and progressive ability of a Mowat or a Hardy in the legislative assemblies of this fair province. The speaker called attention to the fact that in 20 years the Liberal Government of Ontario had expended over $3,000,000, of which expenditure the application of less than $100,000 had been questioned by the Conservative opposition, and not one single dollar of the $3,000,000 had been corruptly or improperly expended, a record for honesty and integrity unmatched in the annals of this continent—a record which of itself entitled the Liberal Government to the continued confidence of the electors, and a record which the speaker believed would continue the Liberal in power not only for the ensuing four, but for not only 25 years, for "their hands are clean."

Mr. Taylor, the sitting member, was a worker, not a drowsy member, was a legislative hail to draw pay without curbing the passage of one act very beneficial to the dairy interests of the farmlands. He was now actively engaged in promoting the passage of the act which the speaker believed would be still more beneficial to the farming community. Canada was now on the eve of an era of prosperity, of a properity unprecedented in the annals of the Dominion, and if we were wise we should continue in power that government which has in the past proved itself so able and so honest, and with a good Liberal Government at the helm, the good ship of our country would go on and make better and more material progress than ever before, and if we remain true to ourselves and our country we shall continue to prosper and to prosper. Liberal government insured good government, nations with and by the people.

MR. W. H. TAYLOR, M.P.P., the next speaker, was received with a spontaneous outburst of applause, which must have been most gratifying to him, as it showed his popularity to have increased with better acquaintance. Mr. Taylor was much pleased to meet with so many young men—their presence and the interest they had evinced in the remarks of the previous speaker inspired the speaker that honesty of purpose and integrity of action on the part of a man, a party, or a government met with its proper reward—the continued and ever-increasing confidence and the most pronounced indications of success in the coming contest. Wherever he had been, Liberals enthusiastic, cool and confident, willing to work, and determined to exercise their franchise according to their conscience, and that demanded their support by vote and influence support the Liberal government. Elected as an independent supporter of the government, he had always voted with the government, and his conscience, his intelligence and the good of his country demanded that they should receive his support. Their measures were well conceived, and always in the true interests of the province. Where A. S. Hardy, a worthy successor to Sir Oliver Mowat, and fully the equal of his predecessor at every point in which there had been opportunity offered for the display of his abilities: Hon. George W. Ross, an educationalist without a peer, the bulwark of a system of education which all nations were copying to a greater or less extent; Hon. Richard John Dwyer, an ideal minister of finance; Hon. John Dwyer, a practical and successful farmer, in his department stands the finest and best experimental and training station in the world—the agricultural college at Guelph—and so with the other members of the Ontario government. Each an adept in his own department, Mr. Taylor then spoke at some length on the question of finance, and remarked that if the government of Ontario must not surplus the Conservatives, must have been very foolish to pay to this province interest on $4,000,000 at 5 per cent per annum for so many years. Mr. Taylor resumed his seat amidst loud and continued applause.

The meeting was also addressed by Messrs. Smith, Alexander Gillies and others.

Dr. McWilliam at Crumlin.
A Lively Meeting in the Liberal Interests.

Which Mr. Hodgins Failed to Capture Mr. Elliot Nicely Trapped Speakers Pro and Con.

Dr. McWilliam, the Liberal candidate, and his supporters stormed the once Conservative stronghold at Crumlin Saturday night, and held a rousing meeting, which was two to one in the doctor's favor. In the expectation of capturing the meeting, Messrs. T. D. Hodgins, H. B. Elliot, barrister, London, and J. G. McNeve, appeared in the Conservative interest, and, though the sympathies of the majority were against them, they secured a fair hearing.

The hall was filled, and Mr. Frank Ashman was voted to the chair. He asked that his friends in the opposition be given a fair hearing.

Mr. R. S. Fisher, barrister, of London, made a telling address in Dr. McWilliam's behalf. He raised a great and reckless extravagance of the late Liberal government in its management of public institutions, and compared with the Ontario government's economical policy. He reviewed the latter's many good acts, and refuted the charge of wrong impression. He exposed the hollowness of the cry about a school book monopoly, pointing out that the independent commission appointed to examine the matter, composed of Conservative as well as Liberal experts, had reported that the books could not be sold at a lower price.

Mr. J. G. McNeve devoted much attention to the pigsty issue. He said that the government had lived by the wits of the opposition. He insinuated that Mr. Meredith was not smart enough argued, is. After attacking Sir Oliver Mowat, he alluded to his ram, and said he would ride into power on a faster animal than that.

Mr. John Gilson, who was loudly cheered, said he would not speak long, as he did not wish to encroach on the Sabbath. He showed that the original grants promised by the Sandfield Macdonald Government.

Mr. Hodgins denied this, and insisted in interrupting Mr. Gilson, in order to stir up his supporters. However, Mr. Gilson delivered his hot shot at midnight with the usual cheers.
