LITTLE BUT BLAME FOR HOUSING PLAI

General discontent with the Ontario General discontent with the Ontario Government housing scheme prevails in this city. Those who are familiar with the workings of the blan declare that it would be better if the city issued debentures to obtain the money to lend the people who wish to construct homes, rather than borrow the money from the Provincial Government. This would mean that a vote of the people would have to be taken on the matter. "Why worry about that though?" ask city hall officials, "if the city council acted over the heads of the citizens on the street railway question it can do it again. The bylaw for the debentures could be passed and the people could be asked to express their opinion on the matter in January."

foreshadowed for some time. The other possible appointment to the finance minister's post is Hon. Arthur Meighan, but it is understood that further objection has been raised to his appointment by certain strong financial interests, especially in Montreal, who doubt Mr. Mairhan's ability and experience to Meighan's ability and experience to cope with the large and complex financial problems now pressing for solution

In the event of Sir Henry's Drayton's acceptance of the financial portfolio, it is possible that the Government will leave the post of chief of railway commissioner unfilled for the present. Under the new railway act passed last session, provision was made for the appointment of Commissioner S. J. Mc-Lean as assistant chief commissioner, the provision hereto obtaining requiring that both chief commissioner and assistant chief commissioner should be members of the bar of at least ten years' standing was removed by the revision at last session in respect to the qualifications of the assistant chief commissioner. The logical successor of Sir Henry as chief commissioner would be Commissioner McLean, but a strong amending revision to the railway act would be necessary at the coming session in order to provide for this. Leave Post Unfilled.
