

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1908.

A Man is Often Judged by His Clothes

Buy your Men's Furnishing from us and be up-to-date. We have a very nice stock of the following, and our prices are in accordance to values:

Clothing,
Hats, Caps, Shirts,
Ties,
Underwear,
1-2 Hose, 2 Pair for 25c.

UNION CLOTHING CO.,
26-28 Charlotte Street
Old Y. M. C. A. Building. ALEX. CORBET, Mgr

THE BLUE DIAMOND

BY ALICE AND CLAUDE ASKEW.
Authors of "The Student," "Eve and the Law," "Gilded London," "The Premier's Daughter," "The House Next Door," Etc.
Copyright 1907, by the National Press Agency.

"We shall be far away from every-where," so Vivienne wrote, "and it will be perfectly delightful. Roger has it for himself. We shall have started by the time you receive this letter, and I will write again when we arrive. You can't tell how happy I am, but, Patience dear, I hope you will be just as happy, for from what you told me there seems to be no doubt of Jack's love for you."

Patience bit her lip as she read on. Vivienne was so assured that before long her sister would be sharing her happiness. She wrote in such absolute ignorance of the turmoil that was harassing the other's soul. She did not know that Patience was suffering, and suffering, for her sake.

"You must write me a long letter, and tell me all about it," so the letter went on, "for it will be a long time before we meet again. And, in the meantime, you will have to put up with papa's vagaries as best you can. Thank heaven I have escaped from that. On the awful life that we used to lead, Patience! I thank Heaven every day that I have escaped from it for ever."

It was to this life that Patience had to go back, unless, in the alternative, she married Spencer Stern. But Vivienne knew nothing of this, nor should know until the sacrifice was complete.

"I'm at my wits' end," so Roger wrote. Vivienne's letter concluded, "for Roger is still out upon that wretched business of his. But I am expecting him back every minute, and I shall keep the letter open in case he has a message for you."

Here followed the signature, and then, turning over the leaf, Patience found that a few words had been scribbled on the back page, as if at a later period and in a terrible hurry.

Patience gazed at these words and then her eyes dilated with horror, for though she could understand nothing of them, they conveyed to her with appalling clearness the intelligence of some catastrophe that had befallen her sister.

"Oh, Patience, Heaven forgive me!" Such were the words that were scrawled in an almost illegible handwriting upon the back page.

Yet the words were written by Vivienne, these were written by Vivienne, carrying in their brevity, they followed a letter which had been full of happiness and hope in the future. What had happened? What was the meaning of this strange message? With a gasp of horror Patience turned back to the first page to see what address might be given, but there was none.

The letter had been written just prior to her departure from London, and Vivienne had not thought it necessary to write the address. Also in the letter, though the address, she had spoken of the Cornish village, she had not so much as mentioned its name. There was no other, no explanation, nothing that might be of assistance.

"What does it mean?" moaned Patience. She was in a fever of anxiety, and had partaken of a frugal breakfast, which had been brought to her room by Sarah.

These Medicinal Facts You Can Study With Profit

How few realize that twenty-five per cent of all disease has its origin in some interference with the function of elimination.

The whole body exists by reason of the transference of fluids through its component parts.

Up to a certain point the body has power to object to destructive elements, but this power is limited.

When it happens that the body is loaded with wastes and poisons which it can't eliminate, fermentation, decay, and germ life run riot through the blood.

Serious illness is the result unless nature is assisted by a cleansing tonic like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are purely vegetable, contain no mercury, no bismuth, no injurious metallic ingredients of any kind.

Such a medicine is the greatest possible assurance to every man and woman of health, spirits and contentment. Grand results are achieved, and famous cures made every day by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, as this letter proves.

From Newfoundland, Miss Lillian Anthony, of Upper Gullies, Conception Bay writes: "In praise of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I must say that I have used them with grand success for three years. They never fail to cure me of indigestion or constipation. Formerly my face was full of pimples, but now my complexion is clear and rosy. In more ways than I care to mention have Dr. Hamilton's Pills helped me; they would be good for every woman to use."

Thus, on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Pott & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

Store open till 8 p. m.

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

HOUSE GOWN OF COLLEEN POPLIN.

Empire modes which characterize fashions of the day are seen at their best in house gowns and negligees. Here is a very pale blue shade of colleen poplin, a silk and cotton fabric with a soft, rich lustre, is used for the skirt, which is pressed in wide, accordion pleats, the pleats graduating in width from an inch at the top to two inches at the hem. The skirt is long at the front and sides and trails some half a yard at the back. The waist is made entirely of valenciennes, each band of embroidery binding, each band of embroidery binding, each band of embroidery binding. The skirt is long at the front and sides and trails some half a yard at the back. The needed a friend, one who might steer her through the maze of intricacies upon which she had entered. And here was one, the truest friend she could desire, ready to come to her assistance. She would never marry him. She repeated this to herself over and over again. But Jack might help her in her other trouble, and it would be good, so good to see him go at once and make this inquiry. It was the only course open to her, for she could not bear to think that she must wait for long hours till an explanatory letter from Vivienne could arrive.

It was not until she was nearly ready that she thought herself of Jack's letter. It had been lying unopened upon her dressing table. She seized it up and carried it with her as she sped from the house, making her swift way, heedless of the wind and the driving rain, across the lawn to the little gate which communicated with the park of Radham House.

Her journey, as it transpired, was a fruitless one. There was none, not even the butler himself, who could give her the information she sought. Mr. Selbome had given special instructions that no letters were to be sent to him until he gave notice of requiring them. He had said that he did not wish to be troubled with business matters while on his honeymoon, and for a few days, at least, intended to put all such thoughts behind him. The butler had received no letter from his master since the wedding.

He had wished to put all matters of business behind him. With these words ringing in her ears, Patience had taken her departure from Radham House. How came it, then, that twice in her letter she had spoken of Roger being absent on business? What could be the meaning of this? Was it possible—how awful she thought—that Roger had made any discovery as to his wife's premeditation in the events of that night preceding her marriage? What were these words? Which Spencer Stern admitted having induced Vivienne to steal for him? From whom had they been stolen, and to what use?

There was a little summer-house close to the gate by which she had entered Radham Park. In this she took refuge from the beating rain, and here she sank down upon a wooden bench in order to rest and to try and recover something of her self-possession. She was tired and out of breath, for she had run most of the way, and she was not accustomed to very active exercise. She pressed her hand to her breast for her heart pained her, and then she felt Jack's letter, which she had thrust there when she ran wildly from the house. She took it from her dress and half mechanically tore open the flap and the envelope. If she had but someone to whom to turn! That was the thought that was in her mind as she drew out the letter from its cover and spread it open before her. If she could but have asked Jack for advice! But she had lost Jack for ever. His very pride must keep him from her in future. It was strange, even, that he should have written to her.

It was a letter half plaintive, half dignified—a boyish attempt to hide his true feelings by the use of unaccustomed words. The phrasing was stilted and unnatural—it might have been comic had it not been so infinitely pathetic. Towards the end, however, the boy's true nature came out, and he wrote as he felt—wrote straight from his heart.

"You don't care a bit, Patience, for that matter, I know you don't, and yet you are going to marry him and wreck your life. It is folly, arrogant folly, and there is something behind it which you won't tell me of. I've thought that once, and I should like to do it again. Oh, my darling, if you didn't care for me, you wouldn't have let me kiss you, and I believe that now more than ever, you need a real friend. I know I'm not of much use, but if you'll give me a chance I'll stand by you. If you don't really want me, don't answer this letter. I won't trust myself upon you what ever my feelings may be. But if you will see me once more—only once—send me a telegram, and I will come down by the next train. If you would rather I did not come up to the Lodge, I could meet you in the little summer-house outside the gate at Radham Park. We've had many a happy day there, Patience. I love the place. Could you not meet me there?"

And so the letter ended, with a slight return to the more stilted style of the beginning. Patience raised it to her lips and covered it with kisses. A great desire had come upon her to do as he asked, she needed a friend, one who might steer her through the maze of intricacies upon which she had entered. And here was one, the truest friend she could desire, ready to come to her assistance. She would never marry him. She repeated this to herself over and over again. But Jack might help her in her other trouble, and it would be good, so good to see him go at once and make this inquiry. It was the only course open to her, for she could not bear to think that she must wait for long hours till an explanatory letter from Vivienne could arrive.

It was not until she was nearly ready that she thought herself of Jack's letter. It had been lying unopened upon her dressing table. She seized it up and carried it with her as she sped from the house, making her swift way, heedless of the wind and the driving rain, across the lawn to the little gate which communicated with the park of Radham House.

Her journey, as it transpired, was a fruitless one. There was none, not even the butler himself, who could give her the information she sought. Mr. Selbome had given special instructions that no letters were to be sent to him until he gave notice of requiring them. He had said that he did not wish to be troubled with business matters while on his honeymoon, and for a few days, at least, intended to put all such thoughts behind him. The butler had received no letter from his master since the wedding.

He had wished to put all matters of business behind him. With these words ringing in her ears, Patience had taken her departure from Radham House. How came it, then, that twice in her letter she had spoken of Roger being absent on business? What could be the meaning of this? Was it possible—how awful she thought—that Roger had made any discovery as to his wife's premeditation in the events of that night preceding her marriage? What were these words? Which Spencer Stern admitted having induced Vivienne to steal for him? From whom had they been stolen, and to what use?

There was a little summer-house close to the gate by which she had entered Radham Park. In this she took refuge from the beating rain, and here she sank down upon a wooden bench in order to rest and to try and recover something of her self-possession. She was tired and out of breath, for she had run most of the way, and she was not accustomed to very active exercise. She pressed her hand to her breast for her heart pained her, and then she felt Jack's letter, which she had thrust there when she ran wildly from the house. She took it from her dress and half mechanically tore open the flap and the envelope. If she had but someone to whom to turn! That was the thought that was in her mind as she drew out the letter from its cover and spread it open before her. If she could but have asked Jack for advice! But she had lost Jack for ever. His very pride must keep him from her in future. It was strange, even, that he should have written to her.

It was a letter half plaintive, half dignified—a boyish attempt to hide his true feelings by the use of unaccustomed words. The phrasing was stilted and unnatural—it might have been comic had it not been so infinitely pathetic. Towards the end, however, the boy's true nature came out, and he wrote as he felt—wrote straight from his heart.

"You don't care a bit, Patience, for that matter, I know you don't, and yet you are going to marry him and wreck your life. It is folly, arrogant folly, and there is something behind it which you won't tell me of. I've thought that once, and I should like to do it again. Oh, my darling, if you didn't care for me, you wouldn't have let me kiss you, and I believe that now more than ever, you need a real friend. I know I'm not of much use, but if you'll give me a chance I'll stand by you. If you don't really want me, don't answer this letter. I won't trust myself upon you what ever my feelings may be. But if you will see me once more—only once—send me a telegram, and I will come down by the next train. If you would rather I did not come up to the Lodge, I could meet you in the little summer-house outside the gate at Radham Park. We've had many a happy day there, Patience. I love the place. Could you not meet me there?"

And so the letter ended, with a slight return to the more stilted style of the beginning. Patience raised it to her lips and covered it with kisses. A great desire had come upon her to do as he asked, she needed a friend, one who might steer her through the maze of intricacies upon which she had entered. And here was one, the truest friend she could desire, ready to come to her assistance. She would never marry him. She repeated this to herself over and over again. But Jack might help her in her other trouble, and it would be good, so good to see him go at once and make this inquiry. It was the only course open to her, for she could not bear to think that she must wait for long hours till an explanatory letter from Vivienne could arrive.

It was not until she was nearly ready that she thought herself of Jack's letter. It had been lying unopened upon her dressing table. She seized it up and carried it with her as she sped from the house, making her swift way, heedless of the wind and the driving rain, across the lawn to the little gate which communicated with the park of Radham House.

Her journey, as it transpired, was a fruitless one. There was none, not even the butler himself, who could give her the information she sought. Mr. Selbome had given special instructions that no letters were to be sent to him until he gave notice of requiring them. He had said that he did not wish to be troubled with business matters while on his honeymoon, and for a few days, at least, intended to put all such thoughts behind him. The butler had received no letter from his master since the wedding.

He had wished to put all matters of business behind him. With these words ringing in her ears, Patience had taken her departure from Radham House. How came it, then, that twice in her letter she had spoken of Roger being absent on business? What could be the meaning of this? Was it possible—how awful she thought—that Roger had made any discovery as to his wife's premeditation in the events of that night preceding her marriage? What were these words? Which Spencer Stern admitted having induced Vivienne to steal for him? From whom had they been stolen, and to what use?

There was a little summer-house close to the gate by which she had entered Radham Park. In this she took refuge from the beating rain, and here she sank down upon a wooden bench in order to rest and to try and recover something of her self-possession. She was tired and out of breath, for she had run most of the way, and she was not accustomed to very active exercise. She pressed her hand to her breast for her heart pained her, and then she felt Jack's letter, which she had thrust there when she ran wildly from the house. She took it from her dress and half mechanically tore open the flap and the envelope. If she had but someone to whom to turn! That was the thought that was in her mind as she drew out the letter from its cover and spread it open before her. If she could but have asked Jack for advice! But she had lost Jack for ever. His very pride must keep him from her in future. It was strange, even, that he should have written to her.

It was a letter half plaintive, half dignified—a boyish attempt to hide his true feelings by the use of unaccustomed words. The phrasing was stilted and unnatural—it might have been comic had it not been so infinitely pathetic. Towards the end, however, the boy's true nature came out, and he wrote as he felt—wrote straight from his heart.

"You don't care a bit, Patience, for that matter, I know you don't, and yet you are going to marry him and wreck your life. It is folly, arrogant folly, and there is something behind it which you won't tell me of. I've thought that once, and I should like to do it again. Oh, my darling, if you didn't care for me, you wouldn't have let me kiss you, and I believe that now more than ever, you need a real friend. I know I'm not of much use, but if you'll give me a chance I'll stand by you. If you don't really want me, don't answer this letter. I won't trust myself upon you what ever my feelings may be. But if you will see me once more—only once—send me a telegram, and I will come down by the next train. If you would rather I did not come up to the Lodge, I could meet you in the little summer-house outside the gate at Radham Park. We've had many a happy day there, Patience. I love the place. Could you not meet me there?"

And so the letter ended, with a slight return to the more stilted style of the beginning. Patience raised it to her lips and covered it with kisses. A great desire had come upon her to do as he asked, she

ROTHESAY COLLEGE CLOSING WAS ENTIRELY SUCCESSFUL

Large Number Present; Excellent Programme Carried Out.

Rothsay, June 11.—The sixteenth annual closing of the Rothsay College for Boys this afternoon was notable for the many prominent people in attendance, the large number of visitors from different sections of the province, the success of the athletic events and the satisfactory report of the principal, I. E. Moore.

The manufacture of the afternoon was the sports and the manner in which they were conducted, the promptness in calling the events and the good feeling shown in the contests reflected great credit upon the athletic committee—F. Malcolm McAvity, James W. Philips, Stanley E. Calhoun and James P. Adams. Their programme was complete and intelligible.

The senior pole vaulting was a fine contest which was unfortunately marred by an accident to James Philips, one of the most popular boys in the school, who had a bad fall because of a weak vaulting pole breaking. His wrist was broken as a consequence. Dr. W. W. White, who was on the grounds, attended the young man, who was afterwards hurried away to the city in Gordon Taylor's automobile and examined by the family physician. Philips was allowed to return to the college to receive his medal as the champion senior vaulter, and a lot of other prizes. He received a great cheer as he appeared upon the campus again just before the prizes were presented.

The showing made in the drill was most satisfactory and much praise was bestowed upon the boys. Col. White was present and the boys did well enough to please him. The City Cornet Band was in attendance and provided their usual sweet music.

After the inspection the presentation of prizes was made. Rev. Dr. Raymond was the first speaker and after a few opening remarks called upon Principal Moore to give his annual report. The principal after extending a warm welcome to the visitors, reported the slight decrease in the number of pupils this year, because of the increased fees.

He commented upon the good health of the school and in this connection paid a high compliment to the matron, Mrs. Stevens, who looked after the welfare of the boys so thoroughly.

He concluded by thanking the old boys for their interest in the school and in asking those present to pay a good word for the school and its needs, adding that he had today received a check for $600 from Dr. W. W. White for a trophy, the competition for which he had not decided upon, but would announce after consultation with the old boys and the senior class.

The winners in the afternoon athletic events were as follows: High jump, middle school—Stairs and Bates tie for 1st; Sandall, 2. 100 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 6,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 12,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 25,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 51,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 102,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 204,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 409,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 819,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,638,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,276,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 6,553,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 13,107,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 26,214,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 52,428,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 104,857,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 209,715,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 419,430,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 838,860,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,677,721,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,355,443,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 6,710,886,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 13,421,772,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 26,843,545,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 53,687,091,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 107,374,182,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 214,748,364,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 429,496,729,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 858,993,459,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,717,986,918,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,435,973,836,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 6,871,947,673,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 13,743,895,347,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 27,487,790,694,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 54,975,581,388,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 109,951,162,777,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 219,902,325,555,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 439,804,651,110,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 879,609,302,220,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,759,218,604,441,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,518,437,208,883,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,036,874,417,766,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 14,073,748,835,532,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 28,147,497,671,065,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 56,294,995,342,131,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 112,589,990,684,262,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 225,179,981,368,524,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 450,359,962,737,049,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 900,719,925,474,099,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,801,439,850,948,198,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,602,879,701,896,396,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,205,759,403,792,793,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 14,411,518,807,585,587,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 28,823,037,615,171,174,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 57,646,075,230,342,348,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 115,292,150,460,684,697,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 230,584,300,921,369,395,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 461,168,601,842,738,790,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 922,337,203,685,477,580,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,844,674,407,370,955,161,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,689,348,814,741,910,323,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,378,697,629,483,820,646,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 14,757,395,258,967,641,292,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 29,514,790,517,935,282,585,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 59,029,581,035,870,565,171,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 118,059,162,071,741,130,342,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 236,118,324,143,482,260,684,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 472,236,648,286,964,521,369,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 944,473,296,573,929,042,739,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,888,946,593,147,858,085,478,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,777,893,186,295,716,170,956,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,555,786,372,591,432,341,913,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 15,111,572,745,182,864,683,827,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 30,223,145,490,365,729,367,654,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 60,446,290,980,731,458,735,308,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 120,892,581,961,462,917,471,617,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 241,785,163,922,925,834,943,235,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 483,570,327,845,851,669,886,470,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 967,140,655,691,703,339,772,940,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,934,281,311,383,406,679,545,881,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,868,562,622,766,813,359,091,763,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,737,125,245,533,626,718,183,526,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 15,474,250,491,067,253,436,367,052,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 30,948,500,982,134,506,872,734,105,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 61,897,001,964,269,013,745,468,211,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 123,794,003,928,538,027,490,936,422,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 247,588,007,857,076,054,981,872,844,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 495,176,015,714,152,109,963,745,689,689,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 990,352,031,428,304,219,927,491,379,379,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,980,704,062,856,608,439,854,982,758,758,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 3,961,408,125,713,216,879,709,965,517,516,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 7,922,816,251,426,433,759,419,931,035,033,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 15,845,632,502,852,867,518,839,862,069,067,200 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 31,691,265,005,705,735,037,679,736,138,134,400 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 63,382,530,011,411,470,074,159,472,276,268,800 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 126,765,060,022,822,940,148,318,944,552,537,600 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 253,530,120,045,645,880,296,637,889,105,107,120 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 507,060,240,091,291,760,593,275,778,210,214,240 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 1,014,120,480,182,583,521,187,551,556,420,428,480 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 2,028,240,960,365,167,042,375,113,112,840,856,956,960 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 4,056,481,920,730,334,084,750,226,225,680,171,312,172,960 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 8,112,963,841,460,668,150,500,452,451,360,342,625,345,728 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 16,225,927,682,921,336,301,000,904,902,722,684,650,690,671,656 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 32,451,855,365,842,672,602,001,809,805,445,300,130,134,312,312 yards dash, middle school—Cudlip, 1; Peters, 2. 64,903,710,731,685,344,404,00