IRENE CASTLE SEEN AT THE STAR AGAIN

"Best Known, Best Dressed Woman in America" Attraction at North End Theatre

At the Star Theatre today Irene Castle has for her leading man Elliott Dexter in Francis Lynde's, popular novel, "Stranded in Arcady."

The picture has all the elements of popular appeal. It is a fast moving story of the great outdoors, dealing with the adventures of a young couple in the North woods. It contains many thrilling stunts, including a jump from a high cliff into the river below and the rescue of the hero by the heroine in the perilous waters of rock-infested rapids.

Irene Castle, the best known, best dressed woman in America, wears beautiful clothes and accomplishes amazing feats, all with the charm and grace that made her famous.

The story has a very strong love interest and the plot deals with the scheme of an adventurer to marry a young man and a young girl, who are strangers, in the wilds together in the hope that they will marry and thus forfeit an inheritance of which neither is aware.

A particularly interesting feature of this picture is the fact that Mrs. Castle's role is that of a young girl who teaches society how to dance, to this extent paralleling the story of her own life. The picture works up to a thrilling climax, when the young people realize that they must get to Montreal before noon on a certain date or see a large inheritance go to the grasping secretary of the man who left it to them.

The race for a fortune occupies the rest of the story. "Stranded in Arcady" is a splendid, clean feature with amusing and thrilling situations intermingling in such a way as to make it delightful entertainment.

Lonesome Lake in one of his great two-reel comedies made a howling wind-up to this extraordinary show.

You can pay more than 7c for a cigar but you can't get a better cigar than the Pippin.

We claim it the best 7c cigar in the land.
