HAWAII'S CRISIS

Fresh Instructions Despatched by Cleveland

TO MINISTER WILLIS AT HONOLULU

They Are Said To Be Peremptory Notification.

To Foreign Powers Represented There That no Interference Will be Tolerated—Troops to be Landed Only to Protect American Interests—London Globe's Opinion of the Matter.

Washington, Jan. 10.—President Cleveland has issued new instructions to Minister Willis, and they are to be sent by the revenue cutter Corwin, which has been ordered to Honolulu. They are believed to be that representatives of foreign powers at Honolulu are to be notified that no interference will be allowed as to the present situation on the islands, and that the Monroe doctrine will be enforced. Willis, it is also understood, is not to use force to restore the queen unless foreign powers interfere or riots occur, which would then shore to protect American interests.
Secretary Gresham, announced this morning that everything received from Minister Willis was sent to Congress as soon as received, and all instructions sent to Willis, and the whole question turned over to Congress. Up to noon Willis' report had not been received.
Immediately before the house began business Boutelle again precipitated a heated discussion in regard to the Hawaiian resolution. Then Hopkins took the floor to conclude his speech on the tariff bill.

Jan. 10.—The Globe, commenting on the Hawaiian situation, after referring to the fact that Cleveland has pointed out the fact that the queen was deposed through misdeeds of the power of the United States, says:
"Some American writers like to adopt the course that will lead to annexation of the islands, but others will have something to say to that solution of the question."

Howland (N. Y.) will present in the house tomorrow a resolution designed to be to the policy of the United States concerning Hawaii, by which the United States will assume a protectorate over the islands.

Bothwell's Report Book Stolen.
Paris, Jan. 10.—A pocketbook containing 14,000 francs at the railway station at Tonlon on Saturday.

Seven Rioters Shot Dead.
Rome, Jan. 9.—Last evening troops were compelled to fire upon a mob that threw stones at the office of the mayor of Genoa making disorderly demonstrations. Seven rioters were killed and many wounded.

Friendly With the Spirits.
Tom's River, N. Y., Jan. 10.—William Brotherton died here yesterday, aged 82.
He claimed to be a spiritualist medium and asserted that he was guided in every event of his life by his spirit friends, and although a man possessed of great wealth he lived all alone in his large house, refusing the service of either servant, nurse and physician when dying of dropsy and old age. His nearest relative, a pastor of the Baptist church at Pemberton, N. J., who will probably inherit his money.

Wool Men Alarmed.
San Francisco, Jan. 10.—The convention called by the Wool Growers' and Wool Dealers' Protective Association to protest against the Wilson tariff bill now before Congress, which threatens the very existence of the wool interests on this coast, assembled in Pioneer hall at 10 this morning. Delegates are present from all portions of the state, and Oregon, Arizona and Nevada are also represented.

APPAIRS AT RIO.

A Considerable Amount of Bad Language Exchanged.

New York, Jan. 10.—Sailor Mullick, of the steamer Herschell, from Rio, refused to talk about the Stanton affair, but on the back of his duty and apart from the conservatively dated entries there was one which had perhaps overlooked when he placed his book at the disposal of a reporter. If it states truth it adds an interesting and hitherto unpublished chapter of the Stanton episode. Here it is: October 22—The admiral's orderly reported to Admiral O. F. Stanton that Admiral Mello was approaching and about to board our ship. The admiral at once dressed in full dress to meet Admiral Mello at the steamer gangway. They met with smiles and pleasure. Admiral Stanton showed Admiral Mello to his stateroom. They stayed within about one hour. As they were going toward the gangway Admiral Mello requested that no salute be given him, but Flag-Lieut.
Smith, who had already given shot the word to the officer of the deck to salute Admiral Mello. The admiral was just leaving when the salute was given.
Capt. Terry, after the salute, gave orders to stop firing. The second and third shots had by this time followed and the salute was given at 2 p. m. to visit was fired Admiral Mello stopped his launch and took off his hat till the salute was finished. On Oct. 23, between 12 and 1 o'clock, Admiral Stanton told Capt. Terry on the quarter-deck that he wanted him and Flag-Lieut. Smith to accompany him at 2 p. m. to visit Admiral Mello aboard the Aquiduan.
Capt. Terry said he would be glad if he would. They then parted. At 1:30 p.

m. the admiral called his orderly and asked him if his boat was ready. The orderly told him it was just being maneuvered. The admiral came out and was met by Capt. Terry. They had a few words, when Admiral Stanton requested the captain to put on his full dress and be ready at 2 p. m. The captain said he would be glad if he would.
Then, said Admiral Stanton, "I shall take steps to force you." They parted, the admiral going to his state-room and giving his orderly to let him know when it was ten minutes to 2. Capt. Terry waited about the quarter deck and then went to his room. At about ten minutes to 2 o'clock Admiral Stanton, Capt.
Terry and Flag-Lieut. Smith met on top of the ship and exchanged a few words, when Capt. Terry remarked that Admiral Mello was a d-d scoundrel.
Then the admiral said he was no such thing; that he was a good and educated gentleman. They went to the gangway and got into the boat. When they left, and they arrived about 15 minutes later.

A Lighthouse Keeper's Adventure.

Whitby Island, Jan. 9.—While Mr.
F. Demison, keeper of the Smith's island light, was on his way to the Smith's island (seven miles distant) last Tuesday with his sister, Mrs.
Boise, and her four small children, they were met when within two miles of the light by a northerly gale of wind.
In attempting to beat against it, the sloop and after broke. The only alternative for their lives was to turn about, and try to make a landing somewhere on the west beach of the island.
To do this required the reefing of the sail, which was no easy job. Having no one to steer, and the boat half filled with water, out of which Mrs. Boise was with difficulty holding her babe, Mr. D. threw over the anchor to make a drag to keep the boat's head to the wind while reefing. After succeeding in this he seized an oar and attempted to keep the boat before the wind. The sea was running fearfully high, so that when on top of one wave he would not reach the other, and he was consequently in a very perilous position. He was struck with his oar, consequently he would broaden to the next sea, striking her broadside, throwing water over and into the boat. Exerting all his strength he would again get her before the wind, only to have the same repeated. In this way they managed to shore. The children were crying and nearly exhausted with cold, water and fright; but their danger was not over, as making a landing with such a freight and in the surrounding was an undertaking that required a level head. If the boat came side on the waves would sweep her away, and with the chance of all being drowned.
To avoid this he threw over the anchor, hoping to retard the boat's progress downward, until he could make the beach. As soon as there was any likelihood of making shore, Mr. D. threw over the anchor, and the boat came to rest. Mr. D. with his babe climbed up the beach, while struggling shoreward he placed backward and saw the boat coming side on. Dropping Mrs. B. he hastily returned to the rescue of the children. He found them in the boat, which was full of water, which he saved. A favorable breeze of the boat he secured the two younger ones under each arm, while without any urging the older sprang on his back and all were safely landed above the merciless element. Feeling their clothes from a portion of the water they went down the beach, where they were met by Joseph and Henry Arnold, Mr.
D.'s cousins. Finding no one at home Mr. D. made an entrance through a window, and soon had a fire going and the children were dry. No doubt they owe their lives to Mr. Demison's cool head and ability to do the right thing under trying circumstances.

The next day, accompanied by Henry Arnold, they arrived home, to learn that a husband, brothers, sisters and mother had watched them the day before through a glass from the light-tower, with what feelings can better be imagined than described. Mr. D. says that is his last trip with such a freight.

Midwinter Fair.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—The last 60 hours have made great changes in the appearance of the interior of the manufacturers' and liberal arts building, where on Saturday last there was scarcely an exhibit in place. Here are now at least a score of platforms, pavilions and other structures, in which exhibits are being rapidly arranged, and by the end of the present week the empty appearance of this great exhibition building will be entirely lost sight of. The exhibit which has made the greatest progress, however, is that of the Ceylon tea garden and count, which is located near the northwest corner of the building. This exhibit occupies a space of 2,400 feet, which is larger space than that occupied by any other exhibit in the manufacturers' building, and in the woman's building at the Columbian exposition. These two exhibits have been consolidated in this instance, with the result that the display made will be very much superior to that made in Chicago. The old proverb that made in ill wind that blows no good has been illustrated. In fact, that the necessary delay in the ceremonial opening of the exposition is going to result in many things that they could have been if the general opening had taken place on January 1. Some of the countries felt that the time was too short for carrying out every plan they had in view, therefore they are now taking advantage of the delay, and giving them time to add attractions which they could not otherwise have had. The delay has also afforded an opportunity to the county buildings committee to get their exhibits further along. The Southern California exhibition, and that of the northern counties, for instance, have needed all the time at their disposal, but both of these will be perfectly complete for the opening of the carnival fairs at the dates which have been made.

FIERY DOMINICANS

Curious Experiences of an American Planter

DOWN IN SAN DOMINGO REPUBLIC

All Went Very Well Until the Hogs Interfered.

Barbed Wire Fences Would Not Keep Them Out—Two Dead Hogs Arose the Colored People's Ire—Deadly Threats Induced the Americans to Flee—Fever Outs Him Out.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 11.—Geo. Shilcross, a Delawarean, who died recently of yellow fever at San Domingo city, had undertaken to grow tropical fruits in the black republic. He obtained nearly 200,000 acres of land from the government, enclosed 4,000 acres with a wire fence, seven strands high, and planted lemons, oranges, bananas, coconut palms and guavas. But the swine of the natives invaded the plantation, and after they had been driven out many times two were found dead near the fence. Mr.
Shilcross was accused of the matter, but was declared innocent by a native court. Two members of the court rendering this decision were thereupon imprisoned, and a British subject who advised Mr. Shilcross was ordered out of the country. Threats against Mr. Shilcross became so alarming that he sought safety in San Domingo city, and rode there on horseback through dense jungles, only to be attacked with disease a few weeks afterwards. A demand will now be made by his heirs upon the Dominican government for $800,000, $300,000 on account of the loss of his property and $100,000 for his arrest without cause.

Vaillant's Trial.

Paris, Jan. 11.—The trial of Vaillant, the anarchist who threw the bomb in the chamber of deputies, was opened yesterday. Police closely guarded the Palais de Justice, where the trial was in progress. Vaillant was guarded by soldiers with fixed bayonets. The prisoner was the object of intense interest. He was evidently entirely self-possessed and gazed about unconcern-edly. He gave his age as 32 and answered questions calmly and readily.
Judge Casses, who presided, reviewed the history of Vaillant's crime. He said the people who had been hurt most were not members of the chamber of deputies, but spectators of the proceedings.

European Obit Chat.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—The Vossische Zeitung publishes a dispatch from Metz stating that the comely and fine family will probably visit Alsace-Lorraine at the beginning of June.
Berlin, Jan. 11.—Professor Virchow, the well-known medical authority, is seriously ill with influenza.
Paris, Jan. 11.—A bill will be introduced in the chamber of deputies to abolish public executions. An amendment will also be offered for abolishing capital punishment.

London, Jan. 11.—The widow of William Makepeace Thackeray, the great English satirist, died this morning at her home in Leigh, Lancashire, aged 75.
Vienna, Jan. 11.—It is reported from Buda Pesth that Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, is dead, but no confirmation has been received up to a late hour.

Paris, Jan. 11.—Clemenceau will ask Carnot to grant a reprieve to Vaillant.
The majority of the ministers will oppose the granting of a reprieve.

London, Jan. 11.—A meeting was held today of the holders of securities in the Aitchison railroad company. A resolution was adopted in favor of the appointment of a committee to co-operate with the American committee for the protection of bondholders.

London, Jan. 11.—The Pall Mall Gazette, commenting on the Vaillant verdict, says it is a significant sign of flaccidity in the Times people to praise Vaillant's courage in rendering such a verdict upon Vaillant, who confessed and boasted of his crime. The Westminster Gazette says Vaillant is a specimen of the modern type of the literate criminal.
His career was the result of criminal instinct. Education does not eradicate the taint.

Cool, Daring, Successful.

Mexico, City, Mex., Jan. 11.—The National Bank of Mexico is the victim of a remarkable robbery. On Tuesday evening a hidden thief, who was waiting for a job on the street corner, was seen by a policeman. The thief, who was carrying a package, leaped into the alleyway and ran. The policeman followed him, and he was seen to enter a house.
The policeman searched the house, and found the package. The package was opened, and the contents were found to be a large sum of money. The thief was seen to enter the house, and the policeman followed him. The thief was seen to enter the house, and the policeman followed him. The thief was seen to enter the house, and the policeman followed him.

TRADE WITH CANADA

Astonishing Decrease in British
Imports.

FROM THE DOMINION LAST YEAR

Thousands of Pounds Sterling Below Average.

In All Canadian Staple Exports—Great Drop in the Cattle Trade—Criticism on Hon. Edward Blake's Conduct—The British Pacific Cable Scheme Strongly Endorsed.

London, Jan. 11.—The board of trade returns for the last year, just issued, afford a striking comment on the alleged growth of Canada's trade with the British market for food products. The statistics prove that British imports of Canadian wheat and flour were $100,000 less during the year; ham, $100,000; butter, $60,000; eggs, $7,500 sterling.
Canadian cattle were $20,000 sterling less, partly owing to the board of agriculture embargo. The total decrease in imports from Canada is 12 1/2 per cent, $1,500,000 sterling. This is especially notable, as the decrease in imports from all countries is only 4 per cent.

Hon. Edward Blake's letter to the Globe, in reference to the Irish party, which was noted in the cable news here, is criticized in the Evening Star and otherwise it has produced no comment.

While no official action on behalf of Canada has so far been taken to secure the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle, a movement is on foot in Scotland to bring the matter under the attention of the board of agriculture. The Dundee harbor trustees propose to take joint action with Glasgow, Aberdeen and other points to urge the case upon President Gardiner.

Miss Shaw, the Colonial officer of the Pacific, addressed a large audience at the Colonial institute last night. She said the Pacific cable meant a big step in the direction of imperial unity. Sanford Flaming also addressed the meeting on the same subject, and was loudly applauded for his untiring efforts in pushing the scheme through. The Times' editorial today says: "If we could have but just enough imagination that the enprise to lay a Pacific cable would soon be in progress, our acquaintance with South America would be greatly accelerated."

London, Jan. 11.—At a meeting of the legislative council to-day a member of the council asked whether the government meant to impose an import duty on silver. A public declaration, he said, ought to be made to relieve the anxiety of those engaged in mercantile business.
The government refused to make any statement of its intentions.

Taken by Force.
Trenton, N. J., Jan. 11.—Democratic senators with a gang of followers again took possession of the senate this morning. Republican doorkeepers who had been on the watch all night in the chamber were ordered out and departed quietly. There was no excitement. The Democratic senate adjourned until tomorrow morning without doing anything.

Gambling in Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 11.—Attorney-General Cunningham yesterday filed an injunction suit which was granted by the court against the Louisiana lottery. The defendants are the persons who have been conducting daily lottery drawings since Jan. 1st in violation of state and city laws, among the defendants are several stockholders in the new lottery bills of D. C. O'Malley, who previously secured several who took heavy testimony in connection with the Hennessy trial. The state's petition asked that all the paraphernalia of the club be seized.

Wedded a Cunard Captain.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Jan. 11.—Miss Elizabeth M. Swan, daughter of Edward H.
Swan, was married yesterday to Capt.
Horatio McKay, commander of the Cunard steamer Lucania. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents on the Sound shore at Cove Neck. About 50 friends and relatives of the couple were present.

Storms on the Atlantic.

New York, Jan. 11.—The Muskoka from Hamilton arrived to-day after a stormy passage. On Dec. 7th, during a hurricane, several of the crew were knocked about by the high seas and injured. Three of the crew were washed overboard but held on to the ropes and were saved. One of the crew slipped from the top of the forecastle deck and was drowned.

Failure of Beck & Co.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—In an interview Walter F. Beck, of the commission firm of W. F. Beck & Co., said: "I believe we can pay dollar for dollar to our creditors. The truth will come out to-day when we go over that balance sheet again. You want to know the real cause of our failure? Well, I can give it to you in a few words. A balance sheet was handed me yesterday, and I found that something like $85,000 was lacking. That was the cause of our failure. I cannot tell you who took my money, because I do not know just now. There is something wrong somewhere. The failure is for much larger figures than is shown in the assignment. I estimate that we have failed for $750,000 at the least. We have assets to cover it, but I cannot say how much.
We are badly tied up in real estate. It is impossible for me to say who is responsible and what are the reasons."

from Hamilton arrived to-day after a
deck and was drowned.

view Walter F. Beck, of the commission
firm of W. F. Beck & Co., said: "I be-
again. You want to know the real cause
in a few words. A balance sheet was
$750,000 at the least. We have assets
to cover it, but I cannot say how much.

Imports.

returns for the last year, just issued,
market for food products. The statis-
dian wheat and flour were
