SPREAD THE NEWS.

In the management of the St. John public schools there is a very annoying weakness. Parents have no means of if a bath was included. knowing whether one session or two lack of information. Often it is decided, to $2.75 per square foot. on account of inclement weather or for missed at one o'clock, instead of at had to face figures such as these. twelve, the lower grades being closed a half hour earlier. When such decisions are reached, messengers have to be sent to all the schools conveying the intimation from the superintendent's office. But of course the pare: ts are not notified. They may be preparing dinner for the boys and girls, but unless the day is decidedly pleasant they have no certain knowledge of the control of t whether that dinner is to be eaten on time, or to spoil by being left in the oven for an hour after it is cooked.

Yesterday for instance, in some secions of the city the walking was very bad. Youngsters had to flounder through slush up to the tops of their boots, and although the day was fine and mild there was good ground for To Pere Monsabre, the distinguished construct his refinery on the land to be transferred to him by the city, but rather on property which he is said to have secured from the government. This is a new feature, and while it creates a condition which should be carefully studied by the council, it does not necessarily imply any attempt or desire on the part of Mr. Durant to secure an undue advantage over the city. There is not as yet any reason city. There is not as yet any reason once upon a time a Richland doctor told a young friend of his he ought to study medicine. The young man replied that he liked the idea, but he had no confidence in himself, and was afraid that when human life hung in the balance he would get rather raticed and make mistakes. "Never mind that," said the doctor. "We all make mistakes, but no one finds it out for they're all covered up north of town." why aldermen should become panicky, and even though as Ald, Elkin intimates , there may be a nigger in the ant, coming here as a stranger, was generously received, and has been most fairly treated. He has been given full advantage of St. John's desire to encourage new industries, as well as of all the looseness usually found in civic utions. He has no cause for complaint, nor indeed should anything be expected from him but absolute fairness and honest adherence to the spirit of the agreement arranged. If it is learned in the future-which certainby has not yet been found—that Mr. ant's course is other than this, the city may very justly proceed as speed-mcdation. The "to let" ads in the papers show a fairly large list of dwellings, and although the people who take them may protest at what they have to pay, yet almost every flat will be W. J. KELLY OFF TO engaged by the first of May.

The fluctuation in price owing to the relation of supply and demand is felt as strongly in real estate as in any other commodity and as long as the other commodity and as long as the demand outruns the supply the landlords have the upper hand. People can fight the price of beef by doing without it, but that solution is not a practicable one for the rent problem.

same place and their ability to get a ocation in the choicest district is measured only by their pocket books. A glance over the classified ad. column of a New York paper might make St. John people better satisfied with what they are now paying in the way of rent. How would you like to pay from $45 to $300 a month for a house in Harlem, or from $1,000 up to anything for a small house in a more central loas your bank account would stand for a cosy little flat in the city? A couple of rooms and a bath are offered for $50 a month, and in an apartment house you could get a room for $10 a week.

and mild there was good ground for the supposition that the second school session would be cancelled because of the sloppy condition of the streets. Under this impression, numbers of mothers postponed the preparation of dinner, and were surprised when their children arrived promptly after twelvo, looking for the meal which was not ready for them.

There is no criticism of the judgment displayed by the superintendent in deciding whether there will or will not be two sessions. The complaint is

THE ORCHESTRIZATION OF TOMLINSON

A suggestion is made that the plan adopted in some other cities might easily be applied here, that of ringing the fire bells at a certain hour and with a definite number of blows. Were such a plan in operation, parents and teachers alike would, on doubtful days, listen at that particular time for the sound of the bells, and could make their plans according to what they heard or failed to hear. It would be a very easy matter to convey the desired information by this method, and certainly the results would be worth the trouble.

THE DURANT AFFAIR.

A number of the aldermen appear to have received something in the nature of a nervous shock during yesterday's discussion of the Durant agreement. It developed that Mr. Durant might not construct his refinery on the land to be transferred to him by the city, but rather on property which he is said. "P fiat!" he screamed. "Sound the land manufacture of first!" he screamed. "Sound the land manufacture of the plant to be transferred to him by the city, but rather on property which he is said. "P fiat!" he screamed. city may very justly proceed as speedily as possible, to eliminate him as a possible factor in its development.

REINTS, HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

House hunting in St. John is no joke, but it is consoling to know that the difficulty of finding a suitable home at a reasonable rent is not quite as bad as it might be. There is hardly a person who pays rent in this city who is not complaining of the outrageous amounts charged for limited accommodation. The "to let" ade in the national speed as possible, to eliminate him as a possible factor in its development.

Sir,—In answer to a letter of H. L. McGowan in the Standard newspaper, in re Craig lease, I may say that I never at any portion of my speech in Keith's assembly rooms touched upon that important matter, and may say that I am in favor of the lease granted to Mr. D. Craig—as the man who has made good elsewhere can make good in his native town, and he deserves every encouragement. I sent a letter such as the above the day the letter appeared in Standard, but they do not seem to find room to "correct" and do justice.

With thanks for your valuable space, Editor of the Star:

Yours faithfully, D. McARTHUR.

The Evening Chit-Chat

"Baby-saving organizations have been springing up everywhere like the cockleshells in Mary Contrary's garden. Isn't it about time now that second childhood received some consideration?"

I saw that query in a magazine the other day and heartily approved of it, only—before second childhood gets its share I want to put in a word for an other class—the least considered folk of all, I think—the middle-aged peo-

Childhood and youth are always in the limelight because of their happiness and their romantic quality. And old age gets more or less into the limelight by reason of its infirmities, if in no other way, but the middle aged folk—the people who are neither romantically old nor romantically young—they seem to be perpetually cast t for the parts of scene shifters or at best of chorus and supers.

And I think it's a shame, and a stinging reproach on the younger generation, to whose selfishness the eternal colorlessness of their elders' lives is usually due. A woman came to see me the other day with some manuscript that she wanted me to look over. She had written more or less in a small way for years, and I know that her literary attempts represent to her romance-lo ving heart the one element of personal romance in a life mostly devoted to her children, of whom she has two grown-up daugnters.

"And what do Alice and Edna think of the article?"

I asked as I handed the manuscript back to her.

A look of terror came into her eyes and her hands actually trembled as she reached for the papers,

"Oh, please, don't say anything about it to them," she pleaded. "They don't know anything about it. They don't approve of my writing. They think it is all nonsense anyone as old as I trying to write. You won't say anything to them, will you?"

to them, will you?"

Of course I reassured her, but I should have very much liked to have said something about it to them.

And the something would have been a vigorous expression of my opinion and the something would have been a vigorous expression of my opinion their lack of sympathy with their mother's attempt to have a little life ments in Make on Th's Fad.

of their lack of sympathy with their mother's attempt to have a little life apart from theirs.

One day when I was at a suffrage meeting a woman told me of a neighbor who would like to come, but "doesn't dare to, because her daughter disapproves so of the meetings."

A young girl also said that her mother disapproved, but how little difference that made was evidenced by the fact that she was there.

The way the younger generation in sists upon dominating the lives of the older people is positively wicked.

They expect perpetual sympathy and interest to be shown in all their process and pleasures, but it apparently never occurs to them to repay in kind.

There is a great range of fancy in new scrafs. One of the newest is composed of two different shades of chifion, one over the other, or of black over green, apricot, hortensia, ochre, rose or the mustard color.

The progress of the winter season has emphasized the earlier verdict of fashionable dress creation that one's entire costume must be of one color—and this includes the hat, too—though not of necessity of one piece.

TUBLIN, Feb. 11.—In a forceful address on the political situation John Redmond, the Irish leader, stated last night that he believed Premier Asquith would carry out his promises of home rule for Ireland. Mr. Redmond declared that the home rule question was the most important in old country political affairs. He paid a tribute to T. P. In umbrella handles a novelty may be described as in the form of a mush room. The narrow handle turns slightly at the top and enlarges into a round, rather flat head, which sometimes takes the form and color of a flower.

So many of the skirts are cut so that an opening may be made at the seam that one would consider it a vertiable craze. Sometimes jewel work is let in about these little openings, which have the air of a lapse of goods, only, however, to show a more charming interior of the lining.

The late fur toques are made of the same material as the stole and not of similar fur to the coat. Naturally the skunk toque takes the lead.

Many filet and bandeau ornaments accompany the new coiffures, strings of pearl and gold and silver gauze being twined in with the braid.
