

AUSTRALIA THE REBELS LOOKS FOR EARLY CAPTURE OF

Measures Taken By Commonwealth to Protect Overseas Customers.

Strict System of Inspection Prevents Overtaking of Inferior Goods - Canadian Describes Methods.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Aug. 2.—The Department of Trade and Commerce is publishing in its weekly report a series of articles dealing with the systems of packing, marking and supervising agricultural products exported from other portions of the British Empire.

The first thing to observe is that the Australian system is exceedingly drastic. The second thing is that it is working well. At the outset, Mr. Ross says, there was friction, but improvements were made and examining officers became proficient in their work.

Any modifications in the regulations governing exports, Mr. Ross says, "have been in the way of a more strict interpretation and greater efficiency. The value of this legislation is now appreciated alike by producers, exporters and oversea buyers."

The objects which the Australians have set before themselves are: 1. To maintain and increase the reputation of the primary industries of the country by preventing inferior goods from bearing trade descriptions applicable only to the best qualities.

2. To protect oversea buyers; manufacturers must indicate on the goods the nature of the ingredients or materials employed.

3. To protect traders from competition with inferior articles; a man who makes leather adulterated with glue or borium cannot expect it under a description indicating that it is the best produce of the commonwealth.

4. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

5. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

6. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

7. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

8. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

9. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

10. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

11. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

12. The label or brand shall specify the net weight or quantity of the goods, except in the case of carcass meat.

LOOK FOR EARLY CAPTURE OF TWO GUNNEERS STILL AT LARGE

Police Hot on Trail Of Remaining Gangsters

PLANS A THOROUGH PROBE

Assistant District Attorney Moss States Apprehension of Men at Head of System is First Consideration Now—Becker Still Refuses to Talk.

New York, August 2.—With Whitey Lewis and Dago Frank locked in the Tombs, as two of the four gunners who murdered Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, on July 16, police headquarters professed tonight to expect the capture of any number of the gang.

The two gunners missing are in hiding in the same region where Lewis was picked up. It was reported that a squad of detectives still scouring the neighborhood are hot on their trail.

Mr. Moss took charge of the case today in the absence of District Attorney Whitman, who left for Boston early in the day, expecting later to return to Manchester, N. H., over Sunday with his family.

Directing his attention to the police graft phase of the case, brought into prominence by the allegations of "Jack" Rose and "Bridgie" Webber that the annual levy of blackmail by the police on illegal resorts amounted to $2,400,000, Mr. Moss had brought before him a number of gamblers and other characters of the underworld.

Mr. Moss added that he expected to go very deeply into the graft feature of the case in the course of the grand jury investigation, but it will resume did not meet today but it will resume the inquiry next week.

Police Lieutenant Becker, locked in the Tombs on the charge of instigating the murder, still maintained his attitude of silence today when efforts were made to elicit a story from him.

Mr. Philp, chief engineer of the Helvetia, said there were four engineers on the Helvetia, one on duty during the day, before the accident, the ship brooked at full speed, ten knots in the clear weather, but five or six knots when there was fog at half speed.

Witness heard horn and then saw the bows of the Empress. She came from the north, and the parish church, St. John, N. B., were going at the time.

CANADA GETS DELEGATES SET OUT FOR CONVENTION

Unique Historical Rarities Presented to Dominion by English Lady.

Impressed with Loyalty of the Canadian People as Evidenced in Rejection of the Reciprocity Agreement.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Canada's historical collection under the direction of Dr. A. G. Doughty, Dominion Archivist, is to be greatly enriched by a gift received by the Canadian government under curious circumstances.

The donor is Mrs. E. M. Mastin of 2 Chestnut Walk, Stratford-on-Avon, whose father-in-law Stephen Mastin was for sixty years a page in the royal household of the Duchess of Kent, and of the late Queen Victoria, a godson of the former and afterwards one of the Queen's private almoners.

Mrs. Mastin has written to express her deep interest in the loyalty of the Canadian people as evidenced in the rejection of American reciprocity, and to state that she proposes as a mark of this interest to bestow, for the benefit of Canadian museums, her collection of rare objects given by Queen Victoria and others in connection with the royal household.

The collection includes a life of the Prince Consort, in five volumes, with an inscription in the hand written by Queen Victoria; an album with photographs of the Queen and family, including one of the late Duchess of Cambridge and the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and the present Queen as a child; an album with the last photograph of Victoria and Queen Victoria at the age of 10; a portrait of the Prince Consort in Highland dress; a photo of the Duke of Albany; a blue Worcester service of eleven pieces, given by the Duchess of Kent; three pieces of gold and royal blue china, the gift of the Duke of Edinburgh; a ring, once the property of Queen Victoria; a silk box used for sending wedding cake on the occasion of royal marriages; a silver medal of the Princess Christian and her husband; and two portraits of King Edward and his consort, taken soon after their marriage and framed in uncolored English oak.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—The Redemptorist Order as far as Canada is concerned is no longer subject to control from the American mother house in Baltimore, Md. This change which has been under consideration for some time past at Rome, was finally decided on the feast day of St. Alphonsus, founder of the order, which occurred on Thursday last, and was celebrated in this city.

Heretofore the Redemptorist Order in the United States had control of the Canadian churches, but also appointed the fathers to perform the functions of their priestly office in the Canadian churches.

The rule in this respect is altogether Canadian, and students for entrance into the order will no longer novitiate in the United States. They will novitiate in a central location in Canada, in the meantime all American priests at present will remain in the United States and their appointments from Rome, but also appointed the fathers to perform the functions of their priestly office in the Canadian churches.

THREATS FAILED TO PREVENT WITNESSES FROM TELLING TRUTH

Three Swear They Saw Carlo Battista Shoot Sabatore Mac Aruso on Crowded Montreal Street Recently.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Despite the fact that witness after witness swore to having received letters threatening death as the penalty for testifying against the accused, three persons today positively identified Carlo Battista as the man who shot and killed Salvatore MacAruso on the corner of Latour and Genesieve streets, some two weeks ago. This took place at the preliminary hearing on the murder of Battista who is charged with the murder, gave himself up to the police recently when he heard that he was wanted.
