

BRITISH AND FRENCH SMASH THE GERMANS

Total Number of Prisoners Taken by His Troops to Date 3,500
—Germans Admit a Retirement

British and French smash the Germans. London, July 2.—The "big push" of the allies continues with unabated energy and increasing gains. Throughout the day the Germans have been pushed steadily back until to-night the French are within six miles of Peronne, a vital point on the main railway line between the Germans and the centre of a system of radiating highroads. They have recaptured the villages of Curly and Frise, and have broken into the German second line of defences at a number of points. The British, operating on a fifteen-mile front to the north, have captured the village of Fricourt and pushed farther eastward toward the Baume-Peronne highroad, which now is less than seven miles away.

In the first thirty-six hours of the Picardy drive the French and British have captured more than 9,500 German prisoners, cleared fifty square miles of French territory of the invaders, and have carried eleven villages and a complicated series of entrenchments and redoubts which the Germans have been more than twenty months constructing.

"Situation is Favorable." The situation at the end of the second day is summed up in a sentence by the British Headquarters. "The general situation may be regarded as favorable," says the report received in London to-night from Gen. Haig in France.

The day was one of consolidation rather than of the surging rushes which yesterday carried the allies more than two miles deep into German lines at some points. The greatest progress during the day was recorded south of the Somme, between that river and Arras, by the French and east of Albert by the British centre.

On the northern end of the British front, around and below Gommecourt, the Germans are offering the strongest resistance. Berlin's first official word on the fighting, received here today, announces heavy losses for the British from Gommecourt to Lo Boisselle and "no advantages worthy of mention."

British Take Fricourt.

In front of Albert, however, despite strong German resistance, the British to-day completed their capture of Fricourt, which had been practically surrounded in the first rush of the offensive, by the capture of La Boisselle and Mametz. The town was strongly defended, being in reality a small field fortress, defended by an elaborate system of redoubts and entrenchments. Pressing through the village the British made an advance toward the east. The extent of this advance is not made clear by despatches so far at hand.

Germans Admit Reverse.

The Berlin statement, admitting that the Teutons were forced to abandon their entire system of first line trenches on both banks of the Somme for some distance north and south, states that the troops withdrawn took up specially prepared positions some distance to the rear.

It is likely that it is this series of trenches into which the French report having penetrated during to-day. Over the twenty-five-mile battle line the air fleets of the opposing armies are unusually active. The French have carried out a series of raids on important points held by the Germans behind the front.

London, July 3.—To-day's news is again a tale of the continued progress of the Anglo-French offensive. Heavy fighting is proceeding all along the line. The British maintain all their positions south of the Ancre River, where the battle still rages. They have captured La Boisselle, the garrison of which surrendered, and are fighting successfully around Ovillers and north of Fricourt.

The French on the south of the Somme captured Herbecourt, Assevillers, Feuillères and the second German line as far as the outskirts of Estrees. Continuing their advance in the afternoon, they passed beyond the second German line and took possession of Buscourt and Flaucourt. The ground conquered to-day extended to a depth of three miles, making a total depth of six miles since the drive was inaugurated. The total unwounded prisoners taken by the French alone exceed 8,000, and they have also captured seven batteries, three of large calibre, several sheltered in casemates not being counted.

The non-committal character of the German official statement issued today is considered in London as a virtual confirmation of the success of the Anglo-French operations. The Germans admit that the division of the forces abutting both banks of the Somme, which was partially withdrawn on Saturday, has now been brought back to the second line. No data are yet forthcoming from either side as to the casualties suffered. According to the German communication, the Anglo-French losses were "extraordinarily heavy." According to unofficial British reports, however, the British casualties were less than had been expected.

All reports emphasize the tremendous nature of the British bombardment. The gunners worked so incessantly as almost to fall asleep at their guns, and when there was a slight recess in the firing they slept easily amid the thunders of the battle.

Great importance is attached to a newly-invented mortar which plays havoc in the German trenches. Aircraft are taking an important role in the operations.

Thus far the new offensive appears to have had little influence on the battle around Verdun. The Germans are still showing undiminished vigor in the Meuse region, and the French are as steadily resisting.

THOMAS KELLY FOUND GUILTY

Of Theft, Receiving and Obtaining by False Pretences.

A despatch from Winnipeg says:—Thomas Kelly has been found guilty of theft, receiving, and obtaining money by false pretences. A verdict of guilty on four out of the five counts in the indictment on the charges arising out of the contracts for the erection of the Manitoba Parliament Buildings, was found by the jury in the Assize Court on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, after it had deliberated for three hours.

PRUSSIAN LOSSES APPROACH 3,000,000

A despatch from Amsterdam says:—The latest Prussian casualty lists covering the period from June 8 to 20 bring the total of Prussian losses to 2,740,196. This figure is not believed to include the losses at Verdun.

BERLIN EXPECTS CLIMAX OF WAR ON BRITISH FRONT

Impressed by Great Activity of Haig's Forces, Which Includes Several Attacks With Gas.

A despatch from Berlin says:—The intensified artillery activity on the British front is believed here to herald the long-expected great British offensive. If the British mean business at this time they should find the Germans in a state of preparedness. The correspondent is in a position to know that the German line in the far west has not been weakened as the result of having to rush help to the Austrians, and that operations at Verdun are being continued systematically in the face of the possibility of a British offensive.

KEEP POOR KITCHENS OPEN INDEFINITELY

A despatch from The Hague, via London, says:—The municipality of Berlin has decided to keep open indefinitely the municipal poor kitchens, which in previous years were open only during the winter months, closing at the end of March. This year the closing has been postponed, month after month, under pressure of the need of the poor people, and it has now been finally decided to keep the kitchens open for an indefinite period. The Vorwaerts says the kitchens are crowded as in mid-winter and that there are many complaints regarding the insufficiency of the rations served.

TURKS DRIVEN BACK IN BAGDAD DIRECTION

A despatch from Petrograd says:—The Russians continue to make progress in the Caucasus. "South of Lake Urmiah we pushed back the Turks from the region of Bann toward the Turco-Persian frontier. In the direction of Bagdad we have defeated the Turks, driving them toward the fortified region of Kalavstrahine."

RUSSIAN REFUSE FOR GERMAN COWS

A despatch from Amsterdam says:—German newspapers received here contain an order of the Federal Council compelling towns and communities exceeding 40,000 inhabitants to collect kitchen refuse from all households. The refuse is to be sent to a Government factory, there to be converted into condensed food for milk cows.

In the expectation of perhaps decisive military events on all fronts, peace talk has never been so dead as it is today.
