

ORIGINAL PLANS

Prepared Specially for The Western Home Monthly
by V. W. Horwood, Architect, Winnipeg

The accommodations in this house are clearly shown on plans, and the sizes given of the principal rooms. There is a basement under the entire house, with two stairs, for private and service use. There would be floors on ground floor, basement floor cement, the staircase would look well in oak and finished weathered, on first and attic floors all trim and floors to be fir, all oiled. The wall and roof shingles dipped a sinks in kitchen and pantry, laundry in basement with tubs, W. C. in basement, bath room on first floor, open fire places in parlor, library and bed rooms. The main hall is large and handsome. The attic has room for three bedrooms, and a billiard room. The heights of stories, cellar 8 feet, ground floor 10 feet, first floor 9 feet, attic 8 feet, 6 inches. The exterior is built of stone to ground floor window sills, above that bricks and stone to first story, then shingles. Inside the plaster to be three coats, with a hard wall finish, maple reddish brown stain. Trim to be white, sashes dark green, outside doors oiled and varnished.

A new guest arrived at a New Hampshire farmhouse where a Boston gentleman happened to be holding forth on the piazza. The newcomer was much impressed by the speaker's fluency. "I declare," he remarked to the landlord, "that man has an extensive vocabulary, hasn't he?" The landlord was mightily pleased. "That's so," he said. "That's what mountain air will do for a man. He ain't been boardin' with me but two weeks, and I know he must have let his waistband out much as four times."

If the mind be evil, it makes every thing else so, too; but if it be right and sincere, it corrects what is wrong, and mollifies what is hard, with modesty and courage.

You will find, as you look back upon your life, that the moments that stand out, the moments when you have really lived, are the moments when you have done things in a spirit of love.

However good you may be, you have faults; however dull you may be, you may find out what some of them are; and however slight they may be, you had better make some effort to get rid of them.

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, pure and good without the world being the better for it, without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of this goodness.
