

Get yer Handbooks

by Cam McCulloch

Are you looking for a handy guide to on- and off-campus services available to students?

Could you use a compact date book to cover every day from registration to convocation?

Then make sure to pick up your own free copy of the 1986-87 Student Handbook. They are available at any Student Union information desk or at the SU office on the second floor SUB.

In the past, the yearly handbooks were distributed at registration. This year, due to manpower shortages at the SU booth, approximately 2,000 of a total of 15,000 handbooks were given out to students. If you didn't register during the first couple of hours on September 2 you likely didn't get your copy.

If you would like to explore potential activities from across campus, or wouldn't mind somewhere to keep track of those important luncheon dates, pick up your copy of the Student Handbook today.

Quebec universities ask for more pluggability

MONTREAL (CUP) — An ad-hoc coalition of five student groups is launching a mega-media campaign to find alternative solutions to the problem of education underfunding in Quebec.

The coalition is trading in tried-and-true methods of strikes and demonstrations for a slick media campaign, complete with mauve and canary-yellow billboards.

Representative Francois Desrosiers said the group will spend about $25,000 during the campaign on subway billboards, posters, and radio and television advertisements.

The slogan of the campaign is "Dans un monde branche — des universités branchees", which implies that universities will have to become more in step with society, or — taken literally — more "plugged in".

The group advocates better management of funds, access to quality education, and a practical evaluation of professors.

The group, which includes the student governments of McGill, Concordia, Universite de Montreal and Ecole Polytechnique, are proposing the following alternatives to tuition fee hikes and incidental fees: *adequate government subsidies; *better management of human resources; *easier tax breaks for potential donors.

"In a changing world, we have to have universities that are in step," said McGill council vice-president Ian Brodie. "We can't push ourselves into the next generation of technology without keeping up."

"If we are crippling our universities through inadequate funding, we're crippling our future," he said.

The coalition believes the public is generally unaware that the government has made substantial funding cuts for the past five years and that the loans and bursaries system is totally inadequate.

"Contrary to popular belief, raising tuition fees is not the solution to the underfunding problem," said Desrosiers. "There are many other ways that have not been properly studied."

"Tuition fee hikes are not the solution and they won't solve the problem," said U de M Secretary General Luc Trepanier. "If the government maintains such a narrow-minded view, the problems will be back and worse in years to come."

Desrosiers said government subsidies should reflect university needs. He points to the per capita formula subsidy which has decreased from $6,300 in 1981 to about $4,100 in 1986.

Life in the fast lane.
