Mr. W. L. MacKenzie-King,
City.

My Very Dear Sir:-

I was at Morley yesterday but have been thinking of our conversation Saturday night and wish to thank you for the information you gave me and also for your very kind treatment of Mr. Morand and myself.

Having only ordinary talents, and without a college education or any special training along sociological lines, I can explain my selection for this place with its wonderful opportunities in no other way than that it is from God, and even then I am unable to understand why I should have been chosen, but have confidence that if He wants me in this place I will be given the wisdom and other necessary qualifications to carry it on. However, I must put forth my very best effort and will need all the help that it is possible for me to get, in order that I may measure up to the requirements and will certainly appreciate very much whatever suggestions you may feel inclined to give me and whatever else you may do to help me become capable of handling the position with, at least, a measure of success. Again expressing my deep appreciation of your kindness to me, I am,

Yours very sincerely,

W. E. Bragg
