GOSSIP.

"As long as others do it, I must do it," is like any other excuse we make for cussedness of one kind or another.—[Live-stock World.]

A newcomer from Missouri is Frank Morris, who has located at Rosewood (C. N. R.), Man., and will breed Galloways and race-horses.

MARTIN FLYNN ON THE FUTURE OF SHORTHORNS.

We must not, however, forget that our principal mission is to breed a class of bulls that will improve the common cattle and bring them to the point demanded by the butcher. We are not breeding our pure-breds for the butcher's block, but for the production of bulls to improve the beef qualities of the common cattle. Hence, we must not overlook that great essential now so urgently demanded of the stock-raiser, viz., size, because the sire put on common cattle must have size as well as smoothness.

I believe in the matter of scale lies the great mission of the Shorthorns as a beef breed. We know that sires of other beef breeds will, when used on the common cattle, produce smoothness and quality, but they will not sufficiently increase the size. The thoughtful range man who has been using sires of the other breeds is frequently heard to say, "My cattle are too small; I must use a Shorthorn cross to increase the scale." Can we afford to sacrifice the scale of the Shorthorns in an effort to breed sires that will produce the small, early-maturing baby beef class? Other beef breeds are putting forth their most strenuous efforts in this line, and we must admit, with average success; but is it not a fact that the field is very small, for reasons that do and must exist for many years to come? To successfully finish for market beef at from twelve to twenty months old, the calf must be kept growing constantly and never allowed to shrink or lose the calf fat. The calf must be a high-grade of good quality, and a strong beef type, and to be kept growing it must be fed much more carefully than the older steer, and a properly balanced ration must be fed, so that the bone, flesh and fat will be developed proportionately. Such beef can not be finished quickly by short feeds, and only the very best feeds of the farm can be used.

To economically market beef, it must be produced in carload lots. Now, how very few farms will yearly produce a carload of such calves. And here lies the great difficulty. From the very nature of the business, to be successful the feeder should have baby beef under his own management from the very early days of calfood until it is thoroughly finished. So we may conclude that, notwithstanding the knowledge that a given amount of feed will produce a greater gain in the young animal, so much care, thought, and technical knowledge is required and such feeding is surrounded by so many precise conditions that its production will be left to a few feeders whose location, circumstances and equipment make finishing baby beef successfully possible.

The great army of farmer feeders will still continue to fit the mature steer for market at from two and one-half to three years old, and the great bulk of the demand will continue to be for large steers of quality, weighing, when finished at this age, from 1,300 to 1,500 pounds. When we consider the farmer's conditions, this is the steer that pays him best. As a calf it is raised on skimmed milk (the butter-fat having been sold to the creamery) and a little grain ration. The second year's growth is made on grass and the roughage of the farm, such as cornstalks, straw, etc., that without stock cattle would go largely to waste. Therefore, I believe we should think this matter over very carefully and avoid the extremes of the baby beef proposition. My conclusions are based on my own experience. For more than thirty years I have fed steers for the market. I have always bought yearlings of the best quality I could find, let them grow on grass and the roughage of the farm until two to two and one-half years old, then put them on the feed lot with hogs to fatten, and from a grain ration—mainly corn—throughout the last six months, and as a result the best proposition has been a proposition to feed the best steers to good quality, and my large steers to good quality, and the best returns.

HAD TO GIVE UP ALTOGETHER AND GO TO BED.

DOCTORS DID HER NO GOOD.

By the time Miss L. L. Hanson, Waterside, N. B., had taken Three Boxes of MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS She Was Completely Cured.

She writes us as follows:—

"Gentlemen,—I feel it my duty to express to you the benefit I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working, and lie down for a while. I then got so bad that I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors to attend me, but they did me no good. I got no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I sent to the store for a box, and by the time I had taken three-quarters of it I began to get relief, and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured. I feel very grateful to your medicine for what it has done for me.—Miss L. L. HANSON, Waterside, N. B."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.35.
