Miss Marie Morrisey.

They concert held at "The Strand" on last evening was a unique affair. The guests, whose number included most of the music lovers of Kentville, society, assembled delighted at the prospect of hearing a recital by the celebrated Miss Marie Morrisey, assisted by Joel Belov, with his violin. But a surprise was in store for them. Not one Miss Morrisey, but two, sang to the spell-bound audience; and the violin selections were played by two Joel Belov's. And this phenomenon was brought about by means of a graceful cabinet, which stood beside the artists on the stage, and matched their performances, note for note and tone for tone.

The first performance of the miracle was in the initial number on the program, when Miss Morrisey, standing beside the cabinet, sang in unison with Mr. Edison's Re-Creation of her own voice. In the midst of the song, Miss Morrisey's lips ceased to move, but her song went on without a break. Slowly it dawned upon the astonished audience that the artist was no longer singing, though her voice came forth to them as clear and sweet as ever.

She sang again and the only perceptible difference was the motion of her lips. She ceased but her voice did not. Veritably it seemed that there were two singers upon the stage, two singers, but only one voice. For the tones which came from the New Edison matched those from the living artist so perfectly that it was impossible to detect any difference. The instrument produced not an echo or copy, but the real thing Miss Morrisey's voice unspoiled by any mechanical transformations: by untainted any metallic ring.

After the applause which followed this remarkable exhibition Joel Belov came forward to share the stage with his fellow musician, the New Edison. Again two artists were before us, for Joel Belov with his violin played in unison with the Re-Creation of his art: Only by watching him could we tell when we were hearing one Joel Belov and when his music came to us in double measure. The instrumental Re-Creation was as perfect as that of Miss Morrisey's delightful voice. It was identical with the original in every particular.

Successive numbers on the program proved that the field of the New Edison is not limited to vocal and violin records. An orchestra selection was Re-Created with such fidelity that it was possible to follow the notes of any single instrument throughout the piece, for the identity of each was preserved, contributing its special color to the ensemble. A Re-Creation of a number on the piano was a revelation to those who had decided after hearing talking machine records, that the piano tone could not be reproduced. Further numbers in which Miss Morrisey and Joel Belov, performed with themselves served to convince the audience of their inability to distinguish between Re-Created art and its original.

One of the most interesting novelties in this evening of unique experiences was when Miss Morrisey, sang a duet with her own voice. It was as though two artists with voices of exactly the same tone-quality, the same expression, the same timbre, were singing together. The effect was so no-how unreal and weird, as though one artist had been bewitched into two by some magician's art.

The climax of the evening's entertainment was when the room was darkened in the middle of one of Miss Morrisey's selections and the listeners were left with no means but their ears to determine when they were hearing her voice in double volume, and when it reached them only from the New Edison. At first everyone doubted his own ability to judge, but as her previous proofs were forgotten in the spell of the song they became more and more convinced that no instrument could sing as this voice was singing and that Miss Morrisey was making no more breaks in her own performance. Suddenly the lights were snapped on. The audience was astonished to discover that Miss Morrisey was not there at all and that the New Edison had furnished the song alone.

At the conclusion of one of her songs Miss Morrisey was presented with a magnificent bouquet of roses etc. and the audience showed their appreciation of such a presentation by continued applause.

Such miracles are indeed the work of a magician but a most benevolent one. For the wizard who accomplished this miracle of Re-Creation, is as anxious that it shall add to the comfort and joy of mankind, as he has been that his other inventions be used for the good of the race. Thousands of New Edisons, made up in a special form durable enough to stand the hard knocks of Army and Navy usage have been furnished to our boys on ship-board and in camps and are a proof of his generous interest in happying the world, without regard for personal gain for these Army and Navy Models of the New Edison are made and sold with no profit to Mr. Edison.
