

Talbot was greatly struck. The realization of her beauty came home to him very forcibly in this cold, envious light of open day. "Stephen's not such a fool, after all," was his inward comment as he went forward to meet them. As he lifted her from her pony and bid her welcome to the cabins and the west guich, she smiled down upon him. What a mysterious, magic thing human beauty is, and the human smile! It seems to light the dreariest sky, people the loneliest landscape there is a human smile to reflect one's own, not even a deser seems desolate, not even a prison cell seems coid. Talbot felt this very strongly in that moment. As the warm, bright, laughing, youthful face looked into his, the sun seemed have suddenly burst out upon that dreary snowy plain, and as the two men escorted her over the threshold, it seemed to both that they were throwing open the door not only to her concrete self but to the abstracts warmth and light, and gayety and laughter, and that these all flowed in with her into the simple rough interior transforming and illumining it.

Katrine was delighted with her new home; she walked about examining every detail and showing her joy and pleasure in each little 'rifle that had been prepared for her. She had had very soft voice and manner when she chose-she was too young yet for her gambling, drinking, and rough associates to have spoiled-and Stephen stood in the centre of the rocm, flush ed and silent with the fullness of his pleasure, following her eagerly with his eyes. After all, in this world of everything stands in such close relation to its surrounding objects and circumstances that there is no absolute-ness left. Or you may consider it the other way, that the feelings are abso lute and always the same. A million aire bridegroom could not receive more pleasure from the pleasure of his bride when viewing the mansion he had prethan Ste from Katrine's approval of his log hut and her thanks and smiles were as sweet over a little wooden shelf tacked against the wall, as if a two-thousand ollar chandelier had called them forth Then Stephen took her arm and drew her into the next room, and here was so shy and nervous she could not look about at all. Stephen took off her cloak and her outer wraps, and then made her come and see her re-flection in a little square looking-glass that he had obtained for her at quite a high price; but Katrine could face the mirror, and hid her blushing cheeks and downcast eyes on his shoulder instead. Stephen put his arm round her. "You don't regret what you have done?" he asked, in alarm, pressing her close to him.

"Why, what does that matter? I do not mind, I have you to protect me. You will always now, Steve, won't you, from everything? I don't want ever to go back to that gambling life again." He drew her into his arms. "Of course, of course I will," he said, kissing her. "I will always take care of you." Her arms were interlaged about, his Beck, they looked into each other's eyes, and neither knew any more whither it was a storm or a caim in the night outdide the night outside.

For the first few weeks after their marriage, Katrine was more than hap-py, and it seemed to those fonely beby, and it seemed to those ionely be-ings, sheltered from the savage siege of Nature only by those frail little cabins built by their own hands on the edge of the snow-filled guich, that a new life had plossomed for them suddenly—a perfect spring in winter. The girl's wonderful health and un-failing spirits were in themselves a delight, and she was possessed of such a sweet and even temper, that it eemed to smooth out and round off the hard edges of their rough, com fortless existence. Nothing seemed to have the power to disturb her, the most irritating and annoying incident never even brought a frown to her face; it filled her with consterna-tion for the men, and an immediate desire to smooth it over for them, if possible, to prevent their being ruffled by it. For herself, she seemed above by it. For nersell, she seemed above the reach of any circumstances to dis-concert. One morning the men had an instance of this. They were all three living together in Stephen's cabin now. That is to say, Talbet took all his meals there, and used it see his own home in over way way concern as his own home in every way, except that he still went back to his cabin to

It had seemed cheerless te Katrine and Stephen for Talbot to be eating alone a few yards from them; though it gave the girl and more work-and for that reason Talbot was slow to accept the arrangement—she herself coaxed him into it. They came in late from the claims to lunch, and found her bending over the fire with flushed cheeks and happy eyes. She was stirring a great sancepan of inviting looking and smelling stew, smelling stew, that she had spent the whole morning in preparing. The large handle of the pan protected from the stove some distance, and as Stephen threw mand off his overcoat he managed in some way to tip up the saucepan with a sudden jerk that sent the contents half into the fire, half over the girl's bare arm, from which the sleeve was rolled to the elbow. She did not ut-ter a sound as the scalding liquid ran burning over her / flesh, but Talbot rface grow deathly pale with saw he rface grow deathly pale with the sickening pain. After a second of agony, when she found her voice, and Stephen was remorsefully spread-ing fat over the blistered, cracking flesh, the first thing she said, with her eyes full of disappointed tears. was, "Oh, dear, how unlucky! Now you move the art on with for it get anything hot for And as soon as a bandage you won't lunch." A was twisted round her scalded arm, she was over at the cupboard collect ing all the best of her cold supplies and laying them out on the table. Her one idea, the sole thought that occupied her, was to make these two ment. men happy at any cost to herself. All day she studied how she could make their life, so hard and rough, smoother for them, how she could alleviate the labor and monotony of it. She

THE SEE ATRENS TROUBLES

roae in the mornin- 'ong before either was awake, and had the fires blasing, wood brought in, water mailed out, and the coffee made by the time they came into the sitting-room, looking white and alcepy in the flare of the common candles. All the housework they had formerly found hard, when counted in addition to their outside labor, she took entirely upon herself, and insensibly they both felt the re-lief very great. There was no com-ing home now, worn out and frozen, to a cheerless cabin, and being ob-liged to chop wood and light fires and split ice before they could get warm and rested. A glowing hearth, a laid table, a smiling face always awaited them. Often coming up from the dump at the lower end of the clain, they could see the square patch of red they could see the square patch of red light flung out from the window on the snow, bidding them hurry in to the welcome warmth and light inside. The daylight only lasted them now from ten to two, and for three hours the men worked out-of-doors. During their absence the girl went out on shooting expeditions of he rown. Size had invented a modified snow-shoe, broad and short, with slightly curvedup ends, and with these strapp ed on to up ends, and with these strapped on to her lithe feet, her fur coat fastened up to her chin, and her fur cap drawn over her ears and to her brows, sne defied the fall of the mercury, and skimmed over the snow as silently and swiftly as a shadow moving. She enjoyed these long, lonely ex-cursions, with her heart kept warm by the hone of discovering something th could bring down with her pistoi or her shot-gun and carry back as a surprise and a treat for the men for sup-per. There was not much indeed to be found; but a small breed of snowbird was prevalent, and quite a floci of these would very often follow of precede a snow-storm, and whenever Katrine's keen eye caught sight of the little dark patch that a cluster of shooting expeditions of her own. Sho would glide swiftly over in that dires tica, and have eight or ten of the swinging at her belt to take home. They were small, but cooked as she knew how to cook them, they were a knew how to cook them, they were a delicacy beyond price to the men who for months had tasted little but beans and hard bacon. Katrine felt quite happy if she could return through the suddenly falling gloom of the after-noon and cross the darkened thresh-

Bear Island, Aug. 26, 1903

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,-Your traveller is here to-day and we are getting a large quantity of your MINARD'S LINIMENT. We find it the best Liniment on the mar-ket making no exception. We have been in business 13 years and have handled all kinds, but have dropped them all but yours; that sells itself; the others have to be pushed to get rid of. W. A. HAGERMAN, old just as the men came back, half frozen, from the creek, and show her cluster of victims swinging by them long-necked heads from her waist. She thought of them, planned for their comfort and worked for them all day; while to her husband she was absolutely devoted, and one would think that for such devotion a few smiles, a kiss, and some kind words was a small price to pay. Yet after the first few weeks, and even during them. Stephen, who worked all day to se cure his mining gains, would not even exert himself to that degree to retu: the affection that was worth all his claims put together. One kiss given before he went out to his work in the morning would have made Katring happy all day, one tender inquiry on return would have amply rewarded her for all her habors, yet he invariably went out to the claims with-out bestowing the one, and returned without making the other. Hard work, privations, lonsliness, and even the absence of all the amusements she had delighted in. would not have broken her spirit; she would have cepted them all cheerfully, if her hushad only thrown the little light them the little light and warmth of his affect on that she longand ed for. Each day she hoped it might be different; but no, he grew more and more absorbed by the gold fever that was eating away his heart brain, and the girl grew more and more depressed and resentful. "It would be no trouble to him," she mur-"It mured to herself, over and over again, as she stood at the wash-tub, wring ing out his shirts, or knelt on the floor of the cabin scrubbing the boards—"just a kiss or a smile." She did not in the meantime relax any of her attention to him. Her smile for him was always as sweet when he returned. her efforts to he returned. her please him as untiring, but in her heart her thoughts turned more and more constantly day by day to the idea of leaving him, of returning to her own life, where at least she had not been tormented by this perpetual hope and expectation and disappoint-One evening when Stephen was ont in the shed at the back of the cabin, stacking up some wood by the "...t of a candle stuck in a chink of the logs, Talbot and the girl were sitting idle on each side of the stove, and, somehow, thou h Talbot seldom open ed his lips on such matters, seldom in his life offered opinion or advice to others, they had now been speak-ing of her marrise, and Stephen's attitude toward her.

re and After Str (Marnified).

It's the stropping that counts!

Any razor is soon ruined by unskilled stropping. There is one and one only razor that sharpens itself — the AutoStrop Razor. You can't strop it wrongly-just slip the strop through the trame and a few strokes to and fro will renew the blade edge.

Any dealer will demon-strate the AutoStrop Razor to you, guarantee satisfaction, or refund of purchase price.

Only $5.00

complete with strop and twelve blades in an a "tractive assort-ment of cascs to suit, any utoStrop Safety Razor Co., Limited rop Building, Toronte, Canada AutoS 201

You can't reac. him through it."

"Have men nothing like affection in them?" she said, after a minute. "Have they nothing between their mad bursts of passion and a cold incivility? bursts of pession and a cold incrinity: What do they do with all the charming ways they have before they possess a woman? Stephen was so gentle, so nice, so interested, when he used to visit me down-town, and now you see visit Why did they change? I have not changed. I am still as attentive, as eager to please him, more so than when he came .o my cabin. Oh, the added, after a minute, "I'm getting so tired of it all, I feel like I'd like to throw it all up and go tack to my own life and freedom. All the men are so civil an so nice and so devoted as long as a woman does nothing for them," she said simply, not fully realizing, perhaps, the terrible ironical truth she was half unconsciously ut-(To be continued.)

tering.

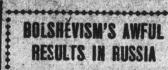

A Constipation Cura Sold on Guarantee DR. HAMILTON BAYS HIS

Mine is a marvellous remedy. There are others, but not one pos ses the peculiar merit so prominent in mine.

REMEDY NEVER FAILS

TO CURE QUICKLY.

With my remedy I guarantee to cure stipation. TRIFT OF

The London Times publishes a leter that throws fresh light upon the orrors of Bolshevist Russia. It was written by Miss Hertle Adams, who lived for sixteen years in Russia and was in Moscow in 1919-1920 as a member of the British Red Cross. She writes:

"I visited houses in Petrograd where there were two and three degrees of frost in the rooms. There was practically no lighting and total absence of sanitation. Many people absence of sanitation. Many people lived through the severest winter months in bitter coid, hunger and sickness, with no electric light, no oil, no candles, only miserable night lights when procurable. Such a lux-ury as clean underciothing was un-known. There was neither water nor-soap with which to wash clothes, and they simply had to be worn till they became too horribly dirty, and were then burned, with no hopes of obtain-ing a fresh supply. then burnen, when the state of the state of ing a fresh supply. If children receive one (totally in-adequate) meal a day they some lucky. The wan, pinched and stricken faces one sees in the streets give one an idea of the misery they are suffering. They are no longer children, but care-worn, listless, wisened human beings, old long before their time: ill, hun-gry, cold and miserably clad, they are obliged to stand for many hours in the streets in order to obtain some pitifully small ration of milk or other in the streats in order to obtain some pitifully small ration of milk or other supplies. In Moscow I save hun dreds of women and children stand-ing waiting for many hours in the streets in the terrific cold, so as to receive one log of wood each, of about three feet long and five inches thick. This log they had come miles to fetch, and would have to dress it home and would have to drag it home through the deep snow as best they could. All this misery to obtain bout one hour's warmth.

CHILDREN BORN IN PRISON.

Many children have been born in Bolshevis' prisons. I give as an instance the case of a Russian lady who was arrested with her husband in the town of Vologda. They were taken to Moscow, and there kept in a criminal prison for months, the reason for this being that they had given hospitality to English people. About a fortnight after their arrival in Moscow a little girl was born in prison, and only after two days' hard work were we able to collect a small bun-dle of suitab's clothing, which, through the kindness of a sister in the

In Vinland three weeks ago I talk-ed to a "olish dodtor who had just escaped from Petrograd, and who had been working for many months in the hespitals in that stricken city. He told me that infantile mortality there has reached the most terrible proportions; 75 per cent. of the children are still-born, and few of those who are born alive live beyond a few

This is the outcome of Bolshevist This is the outcome of Holabevist culture, and it were surely well for any who think Bolshevism a fine thing for a country to ponder these matters, as in no way do they arise out of the blockade, but are the direct result of the systematic cruelty prac-ticed for years by the so-called "saviors" of Russia. If that is the treatment the young suffer, what of the Bolshevist attisuffer, what of the Bolshevist atti-tude toward the old and infirm? I venture to think the two following examples will suffice to give one a fairly clear idea. I went with a friend in Petrograd to distribute a very small quantity of food to some 50 or 60 old Russian for her. In no way can the above examples ladies, who were under the care of the of the Bolshevist attitude toward the old and infirm come under the headhad all been mercilessly dragged from ing of atrocities. They are purely and the charming and peaceful alms-houses where they had been ending simply Bolshevist methods put into practice, and the soldiers in my story their days under the particular care of the Empress herself. They were all s merely practicing what his task of them educated women and had filled posts in connection with the courts, posts which only gentlewomen could fill. sixteen years, and I know it is not he who speaks, but that he has tempora ALL IN ONE BARRACK ROOM. en infected with this systematic We found them in the most horrible and callous cruelty. He has seen everything he once reverenced, loved and respected, dragged through the mudlace one could imagine; all crammed into one barrack of a room, bec against bed, with only space between each for a four-legged stool. The only place they had to wash in was a terhis church, his zzar, his country, the sanctity of marriage, home ties. Every thing thing which could have a refinning and softening influence has been deribiy cold, damp outhouse with a trough running down the middle of it and taps at intervals over the trough. liberately and systematically ridiculed and degraded in his eyes, and this, added to the despotism and tyranny of The floor was swimming in water. Until one was able to calm them down the Bolshevist rule, has rendered him and help them to talk quietly it was hard indeed to realize that they were apparently case-hardened and brutal

Pastor Reed; Wife Also Rid of Neuritis

fered Tortures For Years-No Telling Good News To Others.

"Don't Believe That Old Humb About 'Uric Acid' Being the Cause of Rheumatism-It's Not Sol" of Rheumatism--It's Not Sol" Emphatically asserting that thousands of unfortunate sufferers have been led in-to taking wronk treatments under the old and false belief that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. Pastor W. H. Reci says: "As do some of our highest medical cuthorities. I now aknow that "Iris Acid" never did and never will cause rheumatism! But it took me many years to find out this truth. I learned how to get rid of my rheumatism and recover my health and strength through reading "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism." a work written by an authority who has scientifically studied the cause and treat-ment of rheumatism for over twenty years. It was indeed a veritable revela-tion!"

ment of rheumatism for over twenty years. It was indeed a veritable revela-tion! "I had suffered agony for years from rheumatism and associated disorders, and Ms. Reed was torbured with the demon neutritis almost beyond endurance. We had read and talked so much about Uric Acid' that our minds seemed pois-oned. But the 'Inner Mysteries of Rheu-matism', made it all clear to us and now we are both free from the suffering and missfy we endured so many years. I believe I was the hardest man in the world to convert! For me to discard the old 'Uric Acid' theory, and what I now know to be absolutely false for the new, scientific understanding of the causes and cure of rheumatism, was like saking me to change my religious be-liefs! But I did ohange, and it was a fortunate day for me and mine when I did so."

fortunate day for me and mine when I did so." NOTE: "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" referred to above by Pas-tor Reed lays bare facts about rheumat-ism and its associatiated disorders over-iooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past. It is a work that should be in the hands of every man or woman-who has the slightest symptoms of rheu-matism, neuritis, fumbago or gout. Any-one who sends name and address to H. P. Clearwater, 55-K Street, Elallowell, Maine, will receive it by mail, postage paid and absolutely free. Send now, lest you forget the address! If not a sufferer, cut out this explanation and hand if to some afflicted friend.

corting a roughly made' sledge con-sisting of two planks on runners, and on it a miserable coffin, through the abiling of two plannes on runners, and on it a miserable coffin, through the gasping chinks of which I could see a dead body. This was being pulled along by a woman and pushed by a man—an ex-Russian officer. They had several miles to walk to reach the cemetery, and the road was so slip-pery that it meant going very, very slowly, at the risk of getting feet, ears and hands frost-bitten. Suddenly they were stopped by a "Re<sup>A</sup>" soldier. "Where are you going?" "To the cemetery." "Who-ve you got in that coffin?" "My mother." "How old was she." "Over 70," "Over 70? Why, man, you must be a fool to go all that way and risk dying of cold for the you must be a fool to go all that way and risk dying of cold for the sake of burying that old hag. Throw her on the dust heap, that's the pla masters teach-teach at the point of the sword. I have known the Russian peasant and workingman for the last

'No, oh, no, dear Steve; only it's all so strange; let's go back to the other room

They returned, as she wished, and found that Taibot had laid the dinner for them—a dinner he had spent all the morning in preparing—and they sat down to it with a gayety that made up for the shortness of supplies After dinner they drew in close close round the fire and prolonged the roasting and eating of chestnuts and drinking whiskey throughout the af-ternoon-for whiskey was there, strongly as Stephen objected to see her drink it; still it was their wed-ding-day, and he let it pass. As darkness came down, a whirling snow-storm swept through the gulch; they could see the thin sharp flakes fly past the window on the cutting wind, and hear the whistling roar of the storm as it struck and beat upon the They only flung more logs cabin. into the stove, and gave a backward glance over their shoulders from time to time toward the window. By nine in the evening, when Talbot was leav-ing them to go to his own cabin, it had calmed down a little, though the wind still moaned in the hollows of the gulch.

Stephen and Katrine stood at the window a second after he had gone, looking out into the curious misty whiteness and blackness commingled of the night.

'I am sorry there should be such a storm the first day you are here, darling," said Stephen, softly, put his arm round her waist.

There were tears in her great eyes and her under lip quivered and turn ed downward like a wet rose leaf. "He is very wrapped up in all this digging bushness, why if he want to marry me at all?" she said in a sort of helplers childish worder. Talbot was silent, !coking at her and then, instead of answering her question, said : "Why don't you make him notice you more? Why can't you .ppeal to him ?" him

Bender to-day. Crimsonbeak-That's what I did. "And did he take you into his confidence?" "He did-and "Appeal t- him," she rereated; "it's no use. Why, Le is rold-plated eyes, ears, touch, everything all plated over. into his cellar."-Detroit Free Press.

My preparation, which is in pill form twos tone and regularity to the howels that quickly rids the system of effete matter, accumulations of bile and other injurious results of costiveness. I call my pills Dr. Hamilton's.

I am sure they are safe because com-bosed of such health-giving vegetable extracts as Mandrake, Butternut, Hyoscamus and Dandelion.

My pills are not harsh or drastic. They cause no pain, no distress; they are prescribed by physicians because of their mildness and certainty to cure. For women and children I know of no better medicine for keeping the system healthy. For men they are per-

I have proved their merit in bilious ness, constipation and headache, and can strongly recommend them in these troubles.

My personal guarantee stands be-hind every box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; and this means much to you women of education and culture; they seem to have lost all semblance of civ-ilized human beings. They kissed one's clothes, they clung to one, followed one about talking, crying, laughing in selecting your remedy. Every dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's been brought, withdrew and sat hud-dled up dejectedly on their beds, re-"The clergy had to work far more than forty-eight hours a day, their pay was quite inadequate. told us of how nearly every day some one of their number passed away in that room of pandemonium and hor-ror. How one of them had been so Local paper. We don't see how it would be pos sible to give adequate remuneration for such a feat.

Every dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 250 per box.

> WOULD BE DIFFICULT. (Punch.)

ONE-SIDED CONVERSATION.

desperately hungry she had actually chewed and swallowed the leaves of her prayer-book and had finally gone quite mad. They were all starving to desch "I don't like Mrs. Womba!. Wants death to talk about her poodle all the time. progress. Each of these old ladies had to go out in many degrees of frost to a kitchen across the yard, where they bowl of soup. This latter was literal-ly nothing more than dirty potato peelings in hot water. The "soup" was brown because of the earth oft the peelings, and had a most revolt-ing smell. They were given this and hot water twice a day and the was Yes, and branches and stems as well. Can it be cured? Yes, by ap-plying Putnam's Corn Extractor; it's painless, safe and invariably satisfac-tory. Insist on only Putnam's Ex-tractor, 25c at all dealers. ing smell. They were given this and hot water twice a day, and that was all.

"He did-and

Yeast-I understand you called on DUST HEAP FOR THE DEAD.

procession passed me; they were eshysterically-trying to tell one of the horrors they were suffering. I noticed how several of them, seeming sudden-ly to realize to what depths they had been brought withdrew and say hund fusing to talk to one any more. They

While I was there a meal was in were given the smallest imaginable

AN EXCELLENT MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Owen Tablets are an excellent medicine for little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative which sweeten the stomach and regulate the bowels thus bringing relief in cases of constipation, indigestion, colic, colds and simple fevers. Concerning them Mrs. L. J. Chiasson, Paquetville, N.B., writes:--I have found Baby' Own Tablets excellent for my young baby in the case of constipation and colic and it gives me great pleasure to recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BOTH USEFUL.

(Louisville Courier-Journa).) (Louisville Courier-Journa).) "The government ought to establish cooking schoois all over the country." "Yes, there's only one thing more im-ucriant than the cooking school." "What's that?" "There ought to be schools for teach-ing poor girls the rudiments of bridge whist."

-----

The Chairman (Mr. Bones, the butcher)--Well, now, after these few cur-On a horrible cold day I was walk-ing along one of the almost descrited streets of Petrograd when a sad little procession passed me: they were esmy life .-- Passing Show.

"Is that so?" "Yes; never cares to hear about my canary. HAS A CORN ANY ROOTS?