Winston Churchill Makes Statemen on Swettenham Affair.

London, May 1.—In giving a definite final refusal to furnish the House with further correspondence exchanged between the ex-governor of Jamaica, Sir Alexander Swettenham, and the Colonial Office, the Under-Secretary for the Colonies, Mr. Churchill, stated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that the only point upon which fault was officially found with Sir Alexander was in regard to the propriety of his letter to Rear-Admiral Davis.

In regard to the propriety of his letter to Rear-Admiral Davis.

The propriety of the governor's action in dispensing with the services of the American naval contingent was never called into question, and therefore to set forth the governor's reasons for so doing would not serve any useful purpose, but rather the reverse.

Mr. Churchill was asked to publish Rear-Admiral Evans in regard to the Swettenham incident, which, the questioners intimated, entirely exonerated Swettenham from the charge of having quarreled with Davis, but the Under-Secretary pointed out it obviously was not within the province of the British Government to publish letters exchanged between officers of the United States navy. Eventual Recovery of United States by England.

London, May 1.—The Standard yesterday morning says that among the aspirations in the will of Cecil Rhodes to which Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, referred in his speech at the National Arbitration and Peace Congress banquet in New York, April 17, were the ultimate recovery of the United States by Great Britain, British occupation of the whole of Africa and South America and of the seaboard of China and Japan. This action is the result of a visit which Geo. W. Guernsey, one of the jurors, paid to the scene of the shooting without the knowledge of the court or his associates on the jury.

When Mr. Guernsey revealed the fact in court on Monday that he had looked over the scene of the shooting of Simon, the court and the prosecuting officers were considerably disturbed, and told him he should not have done so. In speeches, articles and "sich"
We like to throw things at the rich
And find in them, you may suppose,
The cause of nearly all our woes,
A plague spot and a lot of things
That never think of sprouting wings
But when they are around, oh, say,
We wish them quite a pleasant day!

When on the rostrum making noise And throwing speeches at the boys We take the wealthy but forlorn And hold them up to public scorn, While intimating that we would Not have their money if we could, And then we meet them and explair We need a fund for the campaign.

We sit around the country store
And calmly talk the matter o'er,
Agreeing money must be checked
Or else the country will be wrecked;
That if the people would be boss
That wealth must get the double cross
But, meeting some one with a pile,
We pass him out a pleasant smile.

Though wealth a monster may appear, We tolerate it when 'tis near; Though we berate it day and night, We turn around and treat it right; We bow and scrape and crook the knee And friendly make with it and free. The reason is not hard to guess; We need the money more or less.
