Mildred Leo Clemens, F. R. G. S.

Mark Twain's Cousin to Lecture Here

All of the talent in the Clemens family seems not to have been centered in Mark Twain, the famous author and humorist, for his cousin, Mildred Leo Clemens, the well-known lecturer, is rapidly gaining an eaviable reputation with her lecture-entertainment, "Happy Hawaii"

To the freedom of childhood days spent on a western farm Miss Clemens attributes her delight in nature. Training in the keen observation of human nature and life in its varying phases was early acquired through newspaper and journalistic work, a work, too, that even before high school days were over, had led her into the scenic places of the Great Northwest.

Through extensive travels, Miss Clemens has become intimately acquainted with the American West, its scenic wonderlands, the Canadian Rockies, the Hawaiian Islands, Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the western world. Armed with her faithful camera and notebook, the young lecturer, writer and transide has a restrated to regions. To the freedom of childhood days with her faithful camera and note-book, the young lecturer, writer and traveler has penetrated to regions where it takes real courage to go, seeing things that most travelers have not, and her lectures never fail to present, both by picture and story, her vivid impressions of the scenic places or vitally inter-esting scenes of life, customs and

and story, her vivid impressions of the scenic places or vitally interesting scenes of life, customs and activities in the lands where she has traveled.

Of her lectures it has been said that they compress into an hour and a quarter a story which artists have endeavored to tell with a brush, and writers with pen, but most of these efforts do not measure up to the effectiveness of the motion pictures and colored photographs and the story as told by Miss Clemens. She carries her audience with her and makes them feel as though they are in the midst of the scenes she pictures and describes, bringing a priceless recollection to those whe have traveled, while to those whe have traveled, while to those whe have not she stimulates fresh ideas and broadens the mental horizon.

To her pictures and story, Miss Clemens adds a charming personality, a clear, penetrating voice, the attractiveness of youth, the culture of a college we.nan, a wealth of Clemens' humor, a fresh and original style, and a sympathetic understanding of her audience. All of which combine to make what critics I ave been pleased to term a rather unusual equipment for the lecture platform and travelogues which do not in any way correspond to the stereotyped travel talks.
