The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I want to tell you something about a library which a friend of mine possesses. It is not a large library—is contained in three medium sized bookcases. It is not a rich library. It has no rare editions or bibliomaniac's treasures.

And yet I consider it a rather unusual library. In this way—no, I'll let my friend tell you about it himself. "No, Miss Cameron, this isn't a very large library, but I'll tell you why I'm sort of proud of it. Every book behind those glass doors, except the encyclopedias and the book of quotations and the dictionary, has been read from cover to cover. Yes, Miss Cameron, I read every book thoroughly before I put it there. That's my rule. I don't buy my books by the yard and get my pleasure looking at the titles through the glass doors, the way some rich folks and some others that I know do. "You see, except for the Shakespeares and the encyclopedias and the Emerson—I have to have all of him because he's my best book friend—I haven't a single set of books. I don't believe in sets. There's some people take a heap of satisfaction in saying, 'I've got a set of Kipling, and a set of Thackeray and a set of George Eliot, and a set of Stevenson.' "Well, me—I've got what I like best of all of them, but I haven't got a set of a single one. You see, I haven't time to read everything that those to-morrowers wrote, and so it seems to me that it's better to read the best of all of them than all of some and none of the rest. They can't any of them be at their best all the time, and why shouldn't I take the cream of each? "And the same way with buying. I can't afford all the books of all the authors that I like. I can't afford all of Thackeray and all of Jane Austen, so it seems to me it's better instead of getting a set of Thackeray and letting Jane go altogether, or vice versa, to get 'Vanity Fair' and 'Pendennis' and 'The Virginians' of Thackeray's, and 'Sense and Sensibility' and 'Pride and Prejudice' and 'Mansfield Park' of Jane Austen's, because those are my favourites. "I might want to look up something in one of the other books, you say? Of course, I might, but if I do, I go to the public library. I haven't the means to build up a reference library, so I don't try to. "How can I afford to have the books I want? But I can afford to have all I need. Ever since I've had my salary at all I've put aside three dollars a month for books, and can just about keep up with myself on that. Do you know what I mean? I can just buy all the solid reading I can manage in that month. See those three books on the table—there's Dickens' 'Nicholas Nickleby'—I haven't read anything of Dickens' for a long time—and a volume of Stevenson's letters and a new book about a method for increasing the efficiency of the workman. During the rush season of our business I got a little bit behind my self, and those books are waiting for me to read them before they go onto my shelves. "Yes, Miss Cameron, it isn't a very big library, but I certainly do have a sort of proud and friendly feeling for it which I think some of those folks that have the big ones don't."

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles. Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge, and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalid Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy. The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL. The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1908 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address as above.

Fads and Fashions.

The sack of the moment frequently has its long ends, or even its single one only gathered into a plaque or pliable beaded or embroidered motif as a finish. Sailor collars with or without jabots are being shown by all the leading blouse shops. Materials are varied, and trimming is applied in many ways. Extremely large collars of heavy laces are being worn on many suits and dresses. Some are called the "Charlotte Corday" collars, and all are charming. Lace gowns, lace coats, lace tunics, lace overwaists, lace scarfs and mantles—lace abundant is going to make a prominent part of the summer's wardrobe. Bordure silks are extremely fashionable. Borders are of every width and design and suggest endless possibilities of applying them to bodice and skirt. One of the new cotton voile waists embroidered in color and lace and trimmed with lace in the yoke has the entire lower part and sleeves laid in quarter-inch tucks. Parasols of white silk edged with a narrow band of white ostrich feathers, with stick and handle of Parisian ivory, are charming, and will, without doubt, find great favor. One of the new white serge gowns has emerald green marquisette chemise and cuffs, green sash and closes in cross-over effect to below the knees with buttons. In all the coiffures there is the same tendency to cover the ears. Sometimes just a deep wave in the hair fills this mission; again, a little curl or puff is employed. The cobweb or shadow veillings are still very popular, but let the veiling with a blotch in the form of a butter-

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure. Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many sores were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him. "Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment, and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering." As a cure for eczema and itching skin diseases there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.

Three Sealers From the North.

Two With Small Trips—Typhoid Fever on the Neptune.

S. S. AURORA.

The S. S. Aurora, Capt. D. Greene, which arrived here at 1.30 p.m. Saturday had 9,200 young seals, which included 2,100 young harps, 4,100 young hoods and 3,000 old harps, equal to the weight of 20,000. The Aurora after leaving Westville with the rest of the fleet on March 13th met very heavy ice which greatly retarded her progress, and when she reached the patch which the steel steamers took their seals from it was pretty well cleaned out and she only secured about 2,000. Going off to the eastward the ship struck the hoods with the Bonaventure, there was plenty of old seals about and enough was killed to load the vessel but 57 pans were lost or in all between 4,000 and 5,000. The ship then went after bedlamers and harps but could not do much the ice being open and the young seals had taken to the water. The past week the weather had been very stormy. The crew are well.

S. S. NEPTUNE.

The S. S. Neptune, Capt. Alpheus Barbour, arrived here at 5 p.m. Saturday with about 7,800 old and young seals. This ship also was delayed by heavy ice, had to do much butting and when she reached the harps secured only 5,000. The ship then searched for hoods, secured about 3,000 old and young and went after more. She saw many but the ice was loose, the seals were "wild" and very little could be taken. The ship bore up for home on Friday and had a good run up. The spring was very stormy and often the men could not go on the ice. The ship went down as far as Round Hill Island on the Labrador Coast. After being sick for about 21 days one of the men, named Abel Crewe, of Ellison, died on Spy Wednesday, the 12th inst. Mr. Kennedy, the druggist, of St. John's, who was doctor on board, did all possible for him but without avail. The body was confined and was covered with salt as a preservative and will be sent home by the first steamer. Six others of the crew also became ill shortly after Crewe died, and not till the ship called at St. Anthony, on Thursday evening, and was visited by a doctor who rowed on board, was it found to be typhoid of a virulent type. One of the men has completely recovered and the others were landed at the King's Wharf yesterday forenoon and placed in the ambulance being then driven to hospital. Mr. Fred Kennedy, druggist, after the ship arrived landed, and he also is pretty ill; and was taken to his brother's residence where a doctor attended him. The men were allowed to come ashore yesterday afternoon and the ship will be disinfected and then allowed to discharge her cargo.

S. S. ALGERINE.

The S. S. Algerine, Capt. A. Bishop, arrived here at 9.30 a.m. yesterday. She has about 4,000 old and young, or the weight of 9,000. She was with the Eagle to the 27th March, could not force through the ice which was very heavy and close packed, and when they reached the rest of the ships all the harps had been cut up. She then went out to the Eastward after the hoods and secured 4,000. The ice was heavy in her subsequent search for seals and very few were taken. She went into Seldom, Friday last, for water, and also called at Westville where Dr. Jamieson visited her and found all the crew well. She was also visited on arrival here by Dr. Campbell and given a clean Bill of Health. The spring was very stormy and the ice heavy. When the Eagle was seen two weeks ago she reported for 5,000 young harps; the Ranger had 13,000; the Diana, 10,000 and the Erik, 14,000.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, April 24, 1911. We have filled our centre window at the Water Street Store with two very reasonable things—which are in each case samples of a line of successful articles. In the western window you will find Pine Tree Lozenges—one of the best of a variety of pastilles and lozenges we have for throat troubles, hoarseness and colds. In the eastern section we show our Toilet and Household Ammonia, indispensable at house cleaning time. We have also most of the things needed at that period. Toilet and Household Ammonia is put up in two sizes—at 20c. and 35c. a bottle. Don't forget us for Sutton's Garden and Flower Seeds.

The S. S. Morien with a load of coal for Bell Island arrived there to-day and is discharging.

BANKER DOES WELL.—By the Fortin we learn that the banker Gordon Hollett, Capt. W. Hollett, of Durin, which only bailed a "candle" of weeks ago and went to Quoro Bank, secured 500 qtls. of fish. She had some stormy weather but received no damage and sustained little loss of gear. If she had had a good supply of bait she might have secured 1,000 qtls. She is taking more bait in Connaigre Bay and should sail for the Bank again to-morrow.

the depths of poverty, and helped her as well as their circumstances would warrant. They were surprised therefore when a few days after she was taken to the Asylum a Savings Bank Book was found in a nook showing that she has to her credit in the Bank the sum of $140. This has been taken charge of by friends who will keep it to pay for her burial expenses if she should die.
