Juvenile Oftenders.

In his lecture on Tuesday night Rev. Mr. Hemmeon spoke of the sentence of imprisonment passed recently on a lad of 13 years, deploring the situation which made this immature boy a companion of hardened crimin als instead of being sent to a Reforma tory or industrial school, where the necessary correction and development could take place. The question of a Reformatory is a hardy annual with the Grand Jury, just as the Board of Trade Report is hardly complete without reference to the Telephone sys-

But yet nothing can stir the Government to action in the matter, and we have in the present instance a boy of 13 who was too young to understand the sentence passed on him and who became hysterical with awful fright when it was explained to him and he realized the separation it meant from his home. Now, it seems to me that this is another matter for the Civic Commission to take up and provide some place which would turn those boys into decent citizens instead of letting the prison turn them into jailbirds or corner bums.

The 'morale' of the people is or should be just as much the concern of the Council as clean streets, and the establishment of a Reformatory seems a much greater need than the problematical necessity of spending an enormous sum on new water mains.

It is really a blot on our city that we have no more regard for juvenile offenders than we have for a dog that steals a bone and the guilt in each case is much the same and caused only by the way they have been brought up.

And a flogging after all doesn't correct much. The growing boy is all activity and it becomes our duty, it the action comes under notice of the Law, to direct this energy in the right way and instead of so many "Don't do that's" let there be "Do this."

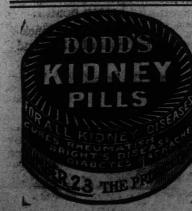

Calling attention to their relationship to his satanic majesty is certainly not becoming from the lips of an

It is impossible to talk nicely about Reformatories and it makes one mad to see utter waste of public monies when a crying need like this weeps in
