FIRE.

FRINCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Set 11 (Reuter's)—Ham, the large town in the devastated country is the Germans spared in their treat yesterday, was visited with metion even more complete and instined, than Noyon, which they shodically destroyed by fire, when as inhabitants were placed in the bases and fires started by pressing whom miles away, for the blowing of the bridges. Ham has not suffered revious by shell fire, neither the base interested in bombarding is place. The only excuse the Germans could make, that it blocked the mas against pursuit is invalid. The do against pursuit is invalid. The truction of the bridges alone made mpossible for the French to enter town until they had been restored.

improved. The enemy was evidently uneasy regarding our intentions in the sector between Gouzeaucourt and Epehy. He shelled Gauche Wood and Epehy. He shelled Gauche Wood and vicinity persistently with gas and also trained machine gun fire against our front. Between Hill 63 and Roehsteert, fighting was still proceeding this afternoon, and about three (?) German prisoners have been sent back to the cages. The attack was begun this morning in the midst of rain, which has been falling for several days, but because of the elevation of this ridge, however, the ground was not in a particularly bad condition.

THE FIRST BLOW.

The First blow.

LONDON, Sept. 18.

The assault on the St. Mihiel salient is dominating the news columns of the papers to-day which feature it with the biggest headlines. The opening blow in Marshal Foch's great offensive scheme claims attention, in any case, but this one has a special attraction, as the first stroke of the independent American army under direct American command, and as such is hailed as one of the milestones of the war. the war.
