Regulations Ignored.

Following our leading article yesterday on the Street Traffic Regulations, we have had several requests to continue the campaign until something is done to protect the lives of pedestrians. From Patrick Street and La Marchant Road, we have had complaints that yesterday horses were using the sidewalks in that neighborhood to the imminent peril of children and others. Boys on horse back, expressmen, teamsters with loads of coal, and even Council employees with their teams used the sidewalks. Protests from residents went unheeded, the teamsters saying that owing to the slippery condition of the middle of the street their horses were unable to get footing. If the Council would sprinkle some coarse sand shortly after oiling the streets all the danger of horses slipping could be avoided.

A MORNING PRAYER.
This I will breathe for my morning prayer:
Give me strength for my round of care:
Let me face what the day may bring
Of hurt, or heartache, or unwhimpering
Let me use my talents the best I can
And come to my children at night a man.

This is my prayer for the break of day:
Grant me something of cheer to say:
Let this day glow with some kindly deed
Which has brightened another's hour
of need.
Let me come home with the setting sun
With a smiling face and my task well done.

This is my prayer for the morning new:
Grant me strength for what I must do
Let me rejoice as I go my way
In the precious gift of another day
And let me come home with a smiling face
Fit for my little ones' fond embrace.

Notice!

The Board of Governors of the St. John's General Hospital beg to announce for the information of the General Public that final arrangements have been made for the collection of fees to be paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the General Hospital.

The scale of fees was advertised in December last as coming into effect on January 1st, 1921, but unforeseen circumstances prevented this from being carried out.

The following regulations, in accord with "An Act respecting the General Hospital," will be strictly enforced.

Under an Act respecting the General Hospital (6 George V., Cap. XIX.), and with the approval of the Governor in Council, the Board of Governors of the St. John's General Hospital give notice that they have fixed and prescribed the following scale of fees to be levied from and paid by all persons who occupy beds or undergo treatment at the Hospital. The scale is to come into operation on the 1st of October, 1921.

SCALE OF FEES.

Every person receiving treatment in the General Hospital shall, after the 30th day of September, 1921, pay fees according to the following scale:—

Persons admitted to the public wards $1.00 per day. Persons occupying private rooms $10.00 per week, in addition to the daily fee of $1.00. Every applicant for admission to the Hospital must bring with him, or forward to the Superintendent of the Hospital, certificate signed by a duly registered physician that such applicant is a proper subject for Hospital treatment.

Under the provisions of the General Hospital Act, 1915, all patients who are unable to pay fees shall be required to bring with them a certificate of their inability to pay, which shall be signed by a resident Relieving Officer, or, where there is no such Officer, by a Justice of the Peace, a Clergyman or other responsible person. The fees of such patients thereupon become payable by the Commissioner of Public Charity, by virtue of the said Act.

By order of the Board,

Blue Puttees Celebrate.

The Blue Puttee Re-union at Donovan's last night was attended by over sixty survivors of the first five hundred. Lt.-Col. Carly presided. The speeches were all eloquent whilst the songs and recitations were greatly enjoyed by all present. Major R. H. Tait, M.C., provided the music. When the toast was proposed to the absent comrades lying away over in the lands across the sea, all rejoicing ceased and every man present bowed his head in respect for the boys who "went west." Several messages were received from members who were unable to attend, including one from Sergt. Jack Whelan, who was then sailing from Ramona for Lisbon, wishing the boys the best of luck on anniversary night. Many of the members who last year were unavoidably absent, were able to attend last night. These included some sea-going men now in port. Next year a much better programme has been suggested, and it is possible that the night may be celebrated in the grounds at Pleasantville in similar circumstances to those which existed during the days when the Blue Puttees were a reality in the encampment near Quilt Vidi Lake. All the boys were pleased with last night's Re-union and if a similar programme is arranged next year there is little doubt that every available member will attend. The committee to which the honor of last night's success is due, deserves the praise of all members, and according to the verbal impression given to the News last night, every man who attended will remember the night and look forward to another.

AGRICULTURAL MAGAZINE.—We thank Mr. F. F. Jardine for a copy of the Agricultural Journal which he has published. The paper is a new departure in local fields of journalism and the need for it has been long felt. We hope that Mr. Jardine will meet with success in his new venture.

Up and Doing.

The Commercial Night School is opening to-night with Technical, Commercial and Stenographic Departments, and specialists in each, as per advertisement in our columns to-day. Great credit is due the Commercial School, for its push and success, as evidenced by the number pupils placed last year in good positions in the city.

Famous Novelists

Drowned.

Through the Italian steamer "Darl" being attacked by a German submarine on October 5, 1917, Major Claude Arthur Cary Askew and Mrs. Askew, the popular novelists, met their deaths. In 1915, they accompanied the First British Field Hospital to Serbia, Major Askew being attached to the Serbian Army. Their book, "The Stricken Land," which was published in 1916, contains a vivid account of their adventures and hardships with the Serbian Army in its retreat before the German-Bulgar forces. Major Askew was educated at Eton, and was originally destined for the diplomatic service. He, however, spent several years on the Continent picking up not only an acquaintance with languages and countries, but also a love of wandering, knowledge of which he made great use of in his novels. Mrs. Askew and her husband were on their way home from Serbia when the vessel was torpedoed and sunk. Their best known books are "Not Proven," "Through Folly's Mill," "Anna of the Plains," "The Rod of Justice," and "Five and the Law." Mrs. Askew's body was washed ashore on the Dalmatian coast, and the remains were interred at a spot near the coast. For years Major and Mrs. Askew had a beautiful cottage at Maldenhead, where they usually spent the summer months.

The Real Sherlock Holmes.

Dr. Joseph Bell, the Scottish surgeon, who died in 1912, enjoyed a fame extending far beyond medical circles, for he was the original of Sherlock Holmes. The gentle art of discovering a murderer by his cigar ash was evolved in Sir Conan Doyle's mind as the result of a minute observation of the inductive methods of Dr. Bell. Sir Arthur in his medical student days at Edinburgh University acted as ward clerk to Dr. Bell, when the latter was a surgeon at the Royal Infirmary, noting down the particulars of the cases. Sir Arthur describes Dr. Bell as a man with sharp, piercing grey eyes, eagle nose, and striking features, who would "sit in his chair with fingers together, and just look at the man or woman before him." With a face like a Red Indian, he would diagnose the patients as they came in. He would tell them their symptoms, and give them details of their lives, and he would hardly ever make a mistake. "Gentlemen," he would say to the students, "this man is a cork-cutter or a slater; he has a hardening on one side of his forefinger and a little thickening on the outside of this thumb, a sure sign that he is one or the other." He would observe of another: "You are a soldier, a non-commissioned officer, and you have served in Bermuda," and turning to the students he would point out that the man came into the room without taking his hat off, as he would go into the orderly room, that his sin showed he was a non-commissioned officer, and that he had on his forehead a peculiar rash known only in India. There was something about the uneasy in the doctor's perception. His deduction must have been made with lightning-like rapidity. He guessed to be able to tell a person's occupation at a glance; but more wonderful still, he sometimes took upon himself to tell several episodes in the patient's past life. Dr. Bell, who was born on October 5, 1887, was a familiar figure as he drove through the streets of Edinburgh: his gleaming eyes intent on everything.
