Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXXIX.

A hundred times he had been tempted to send for Philip. He hated lending himself even to an apparent share in this farce. He felt that he could strike Peter whenever he met the boy's condemning eyes and heard the chilliness in his voice.

One night when he and Eva were having dinner at a restaurant a man at the next table looked across at them and nodded to Calligan.

"Who is he?" Eva asked. Her head was splitting. She was feeling worn out. Only that night as she dressed to come out she had realized how white and haggard she was looking.

Peter's sharp eyes had been quick to see the make-up. He accused her angrily.

"Eva! you've been rouging!" She laughed defiantly. "Well, what if I have? Kitty does."

"Peter had said no more, but somehow it had seemed to matter less at that moment what Kitty did than what his sister did."

that moment what Kitty did than what his sister did.

The man who had nodded to Calligan was looking hard at Eva as she asked her question, and she repeated it: "Tell me who he is?"

"It's a man named Faulkner," Calligan said reluctantly. "He is a friend of Philip's."

"Faulkner!" She echoed the name breathlessly. "That's the man who is sending him to Rhodesia..."

"I know your husband very well," Faulkner said as he was introduced. He was a handsome, middle-aged man with kind eyes; "but I don't think I have ever had the pleasure of meeting you since your wedding. Do you remember me?"

Eva shook her head. "I have heard Philip speak of you, of course. He has told me all about Rhodesia. I hope it is satisfactorily settled."

"Yes—oh, yes!" Calligan, looking at Eva, marvelled at the composure of her voice. His own blood felt on fire for her. Philip had been to London, and he had not been to the flat. It was monstrous—preposterous!

will be there, but I shall be delighted to see you."

It was only when Faulkner had gone that she turned to Calligan with sudden weakness.

"Oh, do you think we might go home?" "We will go at once."

"He found a taxicab and put her into it. "Would you rather go alone?" he asked. He was dreading being left with her, but Eva insisted.

"Come with me—of course! Why ever not?" There was a little excited note in her voice. She talked away the whole time, covering Calligan's silence. She never spoke of her husband, and it was only just as they were nearing the flat that Calligan said desperately:

"What are we going to do? What can we do?" She wittily misunderstood him. "What are we going to do? Why, go home and have a smoke and some coffee, of course! What else can we do?" He took her hand in a hard grip.

"Don't play with me, Eva. Don't pretend that you don't understand... somehow I can't stand it to-night. You know what I mean, Philip is going away in a fortnight, and if you expect me to stand by and let him go without an effort to prevent it I tell you that I can't. I tell you that it's a physical impossibility."

She looked away from him out into the "dark street"; then she said, in a voice so hard and strange that he hardly recognized it.

"Let him go. Why should we try to prevent him if he wants to go?" "It's your whole life's happiness. You can't throw it away for what may be just a misunderstanding. Philip's a good fellow. I've known him longer than you have, and I beg of you—for your own sake..."

She dragged her hand away. "It's no good. I've done everything I can. I can't be hurt, and humiliated any more. Oh, it's all very fine for you to talk! You don't know what it's all been. You heard what Mr. Faulkner said—that Philip is in town. He hasn't troubled to come and see me—he won't trouble... it's finished and done with, and perhaps when he has really gone I shall be able to begin to forget him."

"Let me speak to him. We've been friends for years. Let me say something to try and put matters right—I implore you!"

She turned her eyes to his pleading face. "You would only add to my humiliation. No, no—there's no chance that it is just a misunderstanding... We've just got to let things go. We can't stop them—it's too late."

"Philip may have heard that we have been seen about together a great deal; he may be jealous."

She laughed at that. "That was my hope—but it's dead now—quite dead! I don't believe it ever really existed!"

Calligan leaned his head in his hands. "There must be some explanation," he insisted doggedly. "It's impossible that things can be allowed to end like this—you've only been married such a little while. I—I do anything in the world to see you happy."

"I know you would," her voice softened. She slipped her hand into his with a little confiding gesture.

Arthur Balfour.

PROVED TO BE GREATEST DIPLOMAT AT WASHINGTON CONFERENCE.

Though it became Mr. Balfour's duty to use words respecting France that might in other circumstances have brought about a rupture of friendly relations, his record is the shield to all suggestions that he is either anti-French or pro-German. The fact that his utterances concerning the French submarine demands have been submitted without exception by the American press shows that what he said everybody believes. Throughout his long career he has been prominent among British statesmen of his generation in admiration for France and in the understanding of her development in art, science, literature and politics.

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you get an imitation fig syrup.

Borrowers Rush Faster Than Ever.

MONTREAL FINANCIER ASKING $500,000 IN LONDON—MONEY CHEAPER.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(Special cable to Montreal Star)—The rush of new financial issues is greater than ever. Borrowers are tumbling over one another, especially in view of the rise in price and therefore the lessened competition of British Government stocks which, when taxes are deducted, now yield as low as sixty-seven shillings net.

A sensation was caused by the issue of the City of Sydney, Australia, which secured its million sterling within an hour of the opening of the lists. The new Seine, French issue, yielding one hundred and forty-nine shillings and five pence, is now at one-half premium.

Underwriters are insuring good class issues with ease, but while 5 per cent. has been the standard for municipal loans, the Swansea Corporation is offering only 5 1/2 per cent. at 98 for its new $800,000 issue, redeemable 1935-45. This is taken to be an indication of the market tendency.

Five new prospectuses asking for over $2,500,000 appear in to-day's paper. One is for $1,000,000 cumulative participating preference 10 per cent. of $1 each, by the British International Film Corporation, of which James Brown Mackay, Montreal, is chairman and managing director. The new company acquires extensive plants in London and New York, and also controls half of the issued shares of Windsor Film Service, of Montreal. Two hundred and fifty ordinary shares of Windsor Service have been bought for $1,000 each.

A NEW STRAIGHT LINE FROCK.

3837. There are no boucharies to smart versions of this popular style. In this instance the model stimulates attractive redingote lines. The effect is becoming to slender as well as mature figures. Tulle and satin could be here combined, or velvet and satin. Velvet with braiding would be nice, or broad cloth, with bands of kimmer.

The pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is about 2 yards. To make the dress for a 38 inch bust measure, will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL WORK APRON.

3811. For anything that spoils service or occupation, this model will prove convenient and comfortable as a protector for the dress over which it may be worn. Gingham, percale, saten, rubberised cloth, canvas, drill, rick, lawn, crash, crestone and calico are all good materials for this style. The underarm closing simplifies laundering.

The pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps.

NOTE:—Owing to the continual advance in price of paper, wages, etc., we are compelled to advance the price of patterns to 15c each.

DR. LEHR, Dentist, 329 Water Street.

"Tartar" is a lime-like substance that forms on the teeth. It is composed of salivary phosphates of lime and becomes attached to the teeth by the salivary glue. It is porous and spongy and holds particles of food which decompose and taint the breath with an offensive odor. This once formed increases, always in the direction of the gum, first causing them, then causing them to pull away and recede from the teeth, and finally by absorption of the long and cause gum, round teeth to drop for want of support.

I'm So Tired

Fatigue is the result of poisons in the blood. So when the kidneys fail to purify the blood one of the first indications is unusual and persistent tired feelings and pains in the back.

Neglected kidney troubles lead to years of suffering from rheumatism or develop into such fatal ailments as Bright's disease.

The kidney action is promptly corrected by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills—the best known regulator of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. John Ireland, R.R. No. 2, King, Ont., writes: "I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These completely relieved me and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's medicines for what they have done for me, and you may see my letter for the 'New Star' of others."
