

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK!

Six Postal Clerks and Two Engineers Killed

On the Lake Shore Road, West of Cleveland.

Names of the Victims—Four Cars and the Two Engines Wrecked—The Passengers Escaped.

CLEVELAND, O., April 18.—A frightful wreck occurred on the Lake Shore Railroad at Kipton station, about 40 miles west of Cleveland, early this evening, in which six postal clerks and two engineers were killed. The fast mail No. 14, bound east, collided with No. 21, the Toledo express, just after the latter train was about to pull on the siding to let the fast mail pass. The fast mail was running at full speed, and the force of the collision was so great that both engines, three mail cars and one baggage car were completely wrecked. Following is the list of the victims:

Dead—Edward Brown, engineer of No. 21, Toledo, O.; Charles Topf, engineer of No. 14, Toledo, O.; J. J. Nugent, postal clerk, Toledo, O.; Charles Hamill, postal clerk, Elkhart, O.; F. F. Clemens, postal clerk, Cleveland, O.; John J. Bowerine, postal clerk, Elkhart, O.; James McKinnis, postal clerk, Concord, O.; C. H. McDowell, postal clerk, Elkhart, O.

Injured—Stanley, fireman of No. 14, shoulder dislocated and leg broken; Danis, son of section foreman, struck by wreckage and badly hurt.

THE PASSENGERS ESCAPED. None of the passenger cars left the track and none of the passengers received serious injuries. It was the custom for these two trains to pass at Kipton, the Toledo express taking the side track for the fast mail, which usually went through Kipton without slackening its speed. The Toledo express was a few minutes late this evening, and had just come to a stop at the switch when the fast mail came in sight. On one side of the track was a line of freight cars and on the other the station; these might have obstructed the vision of the engineer of the fast mail. He applied the air brakes when he saw that a collision was inevitable, but the speed of the train was not checked fatally.

THE CRASH. The engine of the Toledo express was struck squarely across the track and that the fast mail reared in the air, resting on its side. The fast mail consisted of three mail cars and two passenger cars, and the Toledo express of five coaches and two baggage cars. The first and second mail cars were telescoped and smashed to pieces, and the third crashed into the first two and rolled over on the station track, breaking the windows of the engine. The two baggage cars of the Toledo express were knocked from the track, but did not turn over. The force of the collision was so great that the 64 revolving chairs in the two parlor cars, say four remain attached to the floors, while the others being broken and hurled about in confusion. The passengers were thrown to the floors and badly shaken, but none were seriously hurt. The passengers of the two trains at once began to get out, and with a corps of physicians from the town, ministered to the few who were injured. All but one of the dead were beyond human assistance and were all horribly crushed and mutilated, arms and legs being torn off, and the corpses were almost beyond recognition.

Charles Topf, the engineer of the fast mail, remained bravely at his post and was found with his hand on the throttle, dead.

It is difficult to locate the blame for the accident, as both the engineers are dead.

"IN THE LAST DITCH."

Parnell's Only Chance of Success Vanished.

LONDON, April 18.—The decision of the Court of Chancery calling Parnell to resign shows that every chance he has of success has vanished. Since Healy's trial in the House of Commons, renewed the challenge of Parnell to contest the seat of the Unionist leaders there has been no Unionist support who would back Parnell. This offer deprives Parnell of his last excuse for not facing Healy, but he will not fight.

Parnell's refusal to assist McCarthy to release the evicted tenants' fund closes the matter as far as McCarthy is concerned. Parnell's aim in delaying the issue of the fund is obviously to destroy the Unionist combination, and thus to play into the hands of the Government. He has issued a League of Great Britain, in which he declares the McCarthyites are under English influence, and he calls upon his countrymen in Great Britain to join the convention of English influence, and rally around the executive committee he has appointed.

During the debate on the Irish Land Bill Thomas Sexton strongly attacked Parnell's attitude when the latter said the Liberal policy. Sexton changed, but his position was not changed, but had undergone a change. Mr. Parnell's proposed amendment to Mr. Morley's Local Government Bill was passed, would prevent Morley's object from being attained, which object was to compel the Conservative Government to give Ireland self-government. The effect of the amendment was to be granted under the bill except with the approval of the county council in the district in which the land was held. After further discussion Morley's amendment was defeated. The McCarthyites were also defeated, while Parnell, McKenna, Mahoney, Col. Nolan and other seceders joined the Conservatives.

Tim Healy made a bitter attack on Parnell and his followers for their inconsistency, speed with reference to the "fifteen" that had been taken. He taunted them upon the days when they were under his protection, and denied with contempt their right to pose as land reformers.

THE IMPENDING ELECTIONS. LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Balfour stated the bill, with which he was preparing to give Ireland local government, would be circumscribed in character. His allusions pointed to a scheme of county councils similar in structure to the English county councils. The announcement comes in time to be used in impending elections. There are now eight Parliaments seats vacant, of which seven will be contested. The contests will afford the opposing parties some idea of the result of the coming appeal to the country. It is significant of the position of the home rule question as still holding the foremost place that the candidates for the vacancies find themselves constrained to discuss the subject of the settlement for Ireland, and to discuss the platform of several Liberal candidates discloses plans prepared for the general electoral campaign, including the Home Rule those in favor of the first round, the one man, one vote principle, free education, church disestablishment, direct liquor vote and amendment of the law of conspiracy in favor of workmen. The Conservatives will find it difficult to compete.
