Victory for Mayor McMurrich-Re-

Mr. French: Name it for one; you can't do it. (Laughter).
Mr. Manning: That man is not worthy of notice. (Applause). I assisted Mr. McMurrich largely in his candidature last year and have nothing to say against him personally, but I have heard that he is rather weak in the council and trims. If he would exercise more for in his position, more support would be ac-corded to him. In the case of the burnt contract he should have suspended every-body suspected of being connected with the transaction. The mayor is the head executransaction. The mayor is the head execu-tive of the corporation and it is his duty to punish all negligence and violation of rules with severity. Toronto is in a very bad condition, and there is gross negligence on the part of the heads of departments; yet what is being done? As mayor, Mr. McMur-rich should see that these officials do their duty without flinching. The been enforced, otherwise we would have a good, clean and well governed city. (Hear, hear.) As to the streets, now that the local improvement system is in vegue I recommend every street to have a block pavement. (Applause). I intend to propose to have a stone pavement laid down on King street. Wooden blocks are no good where there is heavy traffic, and I venture to say the Yonge street, codar, oavement will not the Yonge street cedar pavement will not last five years. In the end stone is much cheaper than cedar, being healthier and ever so much more durable. I repeat that the nanagement of our works is bad.

Ald. Hallam: What's the reason?
Mr. Manning: The department has MANAGER DON'T UNDERSTAND MANAGER DON'T UNDERSTAND his business. The commissionee has got too much work to do. The business must be re-organized. When a by-law is violate1 it's the city solicitor's duty to report the same, but does he do it?
Mr. French: In all kindness, what would you recommend the solicitor to do in

Mr. Manning: I don't think you've right to put that question to me. You're prejudiced against Mr. McWilliams; I know what you said at the property owners' meetings. Every contract should be signed by the mayor.

Mr. French: Didn't anything wrong happen in your term?

The audience by this time were annoyed at these frequent interruptions and gave vent to their feelings in hisses, while the returning officer CALLED IN A POLICEMAN to preserve order.

Mr. Manning: Nothing of importance escaped my signature. I did well by the city and no one can point to an act of mine that was not in the best interests of the taxpayers. My advice was ignored in the matter of the filtering basin and the construction of cedar and gravel roads. Both were tried at a great cost, but where are they to-day? Gone. There has been MUCH MISMANAGEMENT about the water works, the result being the supply of water is anything but what it should be, being in fact diagraceful. I never dared to stand in the way of Mr. McMurrich, and was only induced to come here at the repeated requests of friends. If it was not for railway contracts I have on hand in Manitoba I would be a candidate for the representation of the representation of the secretary but I hand in Manitoba I would be a candidate for the mayoralty on this occasion, but I must first attend to my own business before going into the public service (Applause)

THE MAYOR'S SPEECH.

Mr. McMurrich, who was received with great applause, spoke in substancess follows Mr. Manning says the only objection he has to me is that I didn't sign the Yonge street contract. When this trouble about the burnt document arose, I looked over the records of the council so as to be able to fortify myself if any charges were made against me, which I understood had or would be done. I found certain things in the records, which lead me to remark that I had a Elected by Acclamation—The Aldermanic Candidates in the Different Wards—Quiet Proceedings.

The municipal nominations in this city yesterday passed off very quietly. There was a goodly gathering of the free and independent at each of the nominating places, but for the most part the precedings were devoid of excitement. The enthusiasm was limited to the personal friends and supporters of the candidates, although there was considerable fun all round. There were three nominees for the mayoralty but two retired and the present chief magistrate enjoys the honor of being re-elected by acclamation. The aldermanic candidates range from four upwards, and there will be contests in all the wards.

Mr. Manning: I take no notice of that man (meaning Mr. French), but I think it was to endorse anything of the sort. I have the known Mr. McMurrich since he was an infant and feel nothing but the greatest kindness tewards him and his, and I was therefore surprised when I heard it reported the mayor had said he had a rod in pickle for me. I have been attacked because I appealed against certain assessments, as if I had not a perfect right to do so, the same as any other citizen. With regard to the man who makes this charge against me I may say that I have given away more money in a year than he has in his lifetime.

Mr. French: Name it for one; you can't do it. (Laughter).

Mr. Maniet of the sort. It was the condition of the streets that brought me into municipal life. After getting into the council I visited many cities in the union, inspected their different kinds of pavements, and reported the council, the result being that the local improvement system was adopted and we have now 2½ miles of block pavements constructed and about five or six miles under c

MR. FERICH ON THE SITUATION. MR. FRENCH ON THE SITUATION.

MR. FRENCH ON THE SITUATION.
When Mr. French got up to speak Mr.
Manning left the room. Mr. French made a characteristic speech. He pitched into
Mr. Marning on certain assessment matters, and said the city solicitor should be the honestest man in Canada. He approved of Mr. McMurrich's election. ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION.

Both Mr. Manning and Mr. French having retired, the returning officer declared Mr. McMurrich duly elected mayor for 1882 by acclamation, an announcement that was hailed with applause. His worship was warmly congratulated.

His is only the second case in the history of Toronto where a mayor was returned without opposition, F. H. Medcalf being the first so honored.

THE ALDERMANIC NOMINATIONS. The proceedings in the different wards commenced at twelve o'clock and were continued well into the afternoon. There was considerable speechifying at all the places and more or less fun and interruption, all being taken in good part.

ST. JOHN'S WARD.

There was a noticeable lack of the old time enthusiasm in the noble ward. But the Yonge street fire hall was well filled with the electorate and curious boys when the deputy-returning officer announced with the electorate and curious boys when the deputy-returning officer amounced that he was prepared to receive nominations. There was a strong feeling in the assemblage in favor of the present incumbents, and when these gentlemen replied to the honor of nomination they were all well received. The burden of their remarks of course was of nomination they were all well received. The burden of their remarks of course was that they had always studied economy and the best interests of the ratepayers. When George Hallam ascended the rostrum he served up a dish of alleged aldermanic corruption that was received with derision and cheers together. Mr. Hallam said he would fight to exterminate the corruptionists tooth and nail. He wound up by saying that he knew a certain city official who five years ago was not worth five dollars that was now possessed of fifty thousand dollars. One of the electors asked for the name of the official but it was not forthcoming. Frank Somers characterized the city commissioner and his henchmen as a gang of plunderers, who ought to be routed en bloc. These sentiments were loudly applauded. George Boxall said he had been requested to stand for alderman, but as he wanted to serve on the school board, which he considered fully as important a body as the council, he would respectfully decline. A man in the crowd asked him if he was in favor of employing colored teachers in in favor of employing colored teachers in the public schools. The man said that there was one now in the Elizabeth street school, and there was no telling but that many more might be employed. To this question Mr. Boxall made an inaudible reply. The returning officer declared the following gentlemen nominated: Ald. James F. Fleming, by James McGee and J. Brown. Ald. The nomination for this ward came off very quietly at No. 112 Shuter-st. James Burns acted as returning officer. The following gentlemen were nominated:

Ald. Carlyle, by J. J. Withrow and Geo. Ald, Trees, by Ald. Lake and C. Steven

Wm Hines.
Wm Sheppard, by S. Parker and James

John Taylor, by James Lumbers B. Hamilton.
Thomas Davies, by Alex. Manning and W. B. Hamilton.
J. G. Beard' by P. G. Close and Martin McKee.

Smith's paint shop on Wellington street was the scene of the nominations in this ward. They were as follows:
Peter Ryan, by W. F. McMaster and Alex. A. Allan.

former. He had been charged with being impracticable.

Mr. Dickey: Visionary?

Mr. Turner: Yes, that is the word. Well he would see what foundation there was for the charge. The exhibition buildings and the consolidation schemes of 1871 and 1878 with the immense saving they had effected to the taxpayers, were the monuments of his impracticability. So was the system of assessment which was admitted to be the best in the province, and the law which made it impossible for the council to involve the city ineatricably in debt. Dr. Rolls essayed to speak, but beyond a statement to the effect that that man Baxter was a very bad man indeed his remarks were inaudible owing to the noise and interruptions. The doctor, however, continued supremely indifferent as to whether he was heard or no. The chairman, after remeated wain attempts to bring the audi-Ald. James F. Fleming, by James McGee and J. The doctor replied that it was quite immaterial as The World reporter could hear him and the people could read his remarks in the columns of that paper. The reporter said that he couldn't hear a word. "Then," said the doctor, "I'll turn towards you, and address myself to you, so give my speech verbatim." Unfortunately the voices of the audience were louder than those of the speaker, and beyond such words as sewer swindle, hear nothing. As the doctor was resuming his seat there was a temporary lull which he took advantage of to tell the electors that he had no doubt that notwith-

favor of Dr. Rolls.

Mr. Low was the last speaker. The burnt contract business he considered a disgrace to the whole board of works from the mayor down, he especially blamed Mr. Baxter who, as an old and experienced representative, should have been especially careful of the city's interests. If it had been anything in which Mr. B. had a personal interest he would "darned quick" have seen through it. Mr. Ball had introduced many good measures but they had always been burked and afterwards other members introduced the same motions and got credit for them.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

St. STEPHEN'S WARD. ST. STEPHEN'S WARD.

ST. STEPHEN'S WARD.

The ratepayers of the youngest ward always turn out well on nomination day.

The Dundas street fire hall was filled with an intelligent audience, and no less than fourteen nominations were made. Only four nominees remained in the field, viz:

Ald. Bell, by J. B. Read and Ald. Denisor.

John Woods, by Major Alger and John Matson.
Thos. Murray, by Ald. Crocker and John Crawford.
Geo. Evans, by J. B. Read and C. Geo. Evans, by J. E. Read and C. Downard. The gentlemen who retired. were Ald. Crocker, Ald. Denison, F. Johnston, F. B. Orson, J. B. Read, C. Jno. Low, by J. Nottingham and R. McGill.

After the nominations closed John Millett was elected chairman.

Mr. Baxter proceeded, or at least he tried to, but he was met with a storm of questions and interruptions in regard to his free pass on the street railway and other matters in which Ald. Ball and Dr. Rolls took a large and 1 'y share. Between questions and answ s Mr. Baxter's time was exhausted.

Ald. Evans, who a wase the speaker of slumbering in the council chamber, an actuation which he indignantly repeled. Dr. Rolls was at length requested to leave the platform, and did so.

Mr. McNabb thought the experience of this meeting confirmed the adage that the greatest fool could propound a question that the wisest man could not answer. He said the waterworks had been a vile swindle from their inception, and had only resulted in giving the city bad water at great expense, and the present plan for improving them would only result in mixing the sewage of the city with the filth of the Don and the Humber.

Mr. Turner explained that he was a candidate for St. Patrick's rather than for St. George's ward, because his projecty and consequently his interests were in the great expense, and the present plan for improving them would only result in mixing the sewage of the city with the filth of the Don and the Humber.

Mr. Turner explained that he was a candidate for St. Patrick's rather than for St. George's ward, because his property and consequently his interests were in the former. He had been charged with being impracticable.

Mr. Dickey: Visionary!

wolve the city ine_tricably in debt. The consolidation schemes had saved the city already $1,177,159.

Mr. Dickey: What did you pay your creditors?

Mr. Turner thought the question neither pertinent, generous, nor gentlemanly. He would not retort as he might by asking what Mr. Dickey paid his, but would simply say that like many a better man he went under in the recent struggle against hard times. If he were elected he would, he had no hesitation in saying, like the chairmanship of the board of works, and if he got it he weuld promise there would be no more burned contracts.

Mr. Ball said the other aldermen were jealous because he had always headed the poll. Whatdees Castaworth know? He knows about Mr. Ball said the other aldermen were jealons because he had always headed the poll.
Whatdoes Coatsworth know? He knows about
