Apart from all this is the fact that the unitage against The Globe is spreading apace throughout the Liberal ranks. Every observer knows from his own private experience that these public attacks upon it are but so many puffs of smoke from a fire that has long been smouldering in the party, so to speak. The existing dissatisfaction with the minmanagement of the party, so is widespread and intense, and the most active party spirits outside of this city have come to the conclusion that there is no longer any use in trying to bot the door upon the family management. The Latest From Washington.

The World has for some time back been presenting something like this view of the situation at Washington, with regard to tariff relations between Canada and the United States: That so far we have been negotiating with a nation, or a government, that had not yet made up its own mind as to tariff matters; the fact being that the yarry in power over the border was still very much undecided as to whas its tariff policy should be in detail. President Cleveland, we suggested, had no great difficulty in framing a message to woice pretty strongly the general principles of Free Trade: but the House Committee of Ways and Messas would surely find that it was quite another task to constitute such a bill of details as would pass Congress. And we ventured to affirm, and to repeat it pretty frequently—that the year of a Presidential election, the tariff question being, then the main one of all before the country, and the issue upon which, more than upon any other, the result of the being must depend which a good year for making a tariff treaty be shedic must depend was most supplication. more than upon any other, the result of the election must depend—was most emphatically not a good year for making a taruff treaty between the two countries. We give it as our private opinion, well worthy of public attention—that if such a treaty there was to be, it would be not this year, but some other year.

Not long ago it was said that the American members of the Commission had already been clearly given to understand that no tariff bill whatever that might be presented to Congress would provide for the free admission of Cana-Whatever else might be included

States Government could not make a treaty, without the same having to be approved by the Senate set it would be valid, yet the Executive had power to agree with any foreign government as to the interpretation to be put upon a treaty already made. And ou another occasion we said that it might be sir Charles Topper's plan to try what might be effected without any new treaty at all, simply through tariff changes made by our neighbors on their own account without any reference to a bargain with Canada formally signed and sealed. Now compare this with the following, which appeared in The Mail of Wednesday, in its Ottawa correspondence:

Speaking about the work of the Fishery Commission, it is instructive to note that even those intimate with the proceedings in the Cabinet do not in their guarded remarks on the subject lef full any hope that a definite settlement of the vexed question will result from the conferences of the commissioners. The proceedings in the conferences of the commissioners. The proceedings in that some good will come out of it. A prominent positician here says it is not necessary to refer the conclusions reached by the commission regarding the interpretation of the treaty for ratification. All points agreed, upon can, if seen fit, go into operation next seeks on. The belief that Congress and the Dominion Government will be asked to approve of eyery step is, he says, and the Dominion Government will be asked to approve of eyery step is, he says.

Now, among the latest from Washington is the following, which rather seems to confirm The World's view of the situation:

The Ways and Means Committee, in their plans for rearranging the tariff, are smbarrassed because as to many products of the soil and the sea they need to know, before determining rates, what the Fishery Commission proposes doing as to the admission of Canadian products. On the other hand the Fishery Commission are said to be waiting to see what the Not long ago it was said that the American members of the Commission had already been leading instice the commission had already been leading to meted out to the commission had already been leading to meted out to the commission had already been leading to the commission had already been at the figure of the commission had already been leading to the commission had already been leading the probability of the commission had leading the commission had t

I am now relieved of the cares and responsibilities of a great public trust, for the public have kindly "removed from off my shoulders a load of honor that would sink a navy," and (as the great Cardinal Wolsey says) "too heavy for a man that hopes for Heaven." I consider this an opportune time to relieve myself of another heavy burden more weighty than the former. I refer to the burden more weighty than the former. I refer to the burden of debt I desire to be out of just once in my life, just to try how it feels; and to that end I am determined to sell forthwith the bulk of that large property formerly known as the W. L. Taylor Estate, in the FEDERAL BANK SHARES. In consequence of the winding up of the Federal Bank and the failure and exposure of the now defunct Central Bank and in consequence of a depressed money market, it would be injurious to the other banks to sacrifice the securities by placing a large amount of them on the market at once, and as I have no wish to injure the banks or cause a panic on 'change, I have determined to accept as cash at the highest market price Federal and other bank shares, Listed Loan Societies stock, etc., on account of purchase money.
