SELF GOVERNMENT IN CANADA

By G. G. S. LINDSEY, K. C., author of the "Life" of William Lyon Mackenzie, in the "Makers of Canada" series, here contributes a searching study of the beginnings and development of the elements of self government which began in Canada as a result of the Rebellion of 1837 and culminated with the act of Confederation.

SAM SLICK LETTERS

REV. A. WYLIE MAHON has discovered a packet of intensely intimate and interesting letters written by Thomas Chandler Haliburton, originator of "Sam Slick of Slickville," to his friend and fellow jurist Judge Parker of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick. These letters have never been published before. They deal with a time when Parker in order to send safely a basket of greengages across the Bay of Fundy to his friend Haliburton at Windsor, N.S., had to pick them before they were ripe.

A PATRIOT GENERAL

By THE HONOURABLE WILLIAM RENWICK RIDDELL. This is what one might call a bristling sketch of a bristling character—Thomas Jefferson Sutherland, an American who joined the Canadian insurgents in 1837 and who according to his friend and co-Brigadier-General Theller, was "a plumed popinjay and blustering Bobadil." This is a fine sketch to read in conjunction with the one on self government by Mr. Lindsey.

A fine selection of short stories by Canadian authors.

$2.50 PER ANNUM. Including Great Britain, Ireland and most of the Colonies.
