The joint committee on the Parliamentary Library at Ottawa, have decided to have published Mr. Bourinot's work, suggested by him, of a volume of charters, despatches, and other papers illustrative of the constitutional history of Canada from 1540 to 1888. The publication is to be at his own risk, but Parliament is to be asked to purchase 500 copies of the book. The total expenditure for the purchase of books for the library for the year ending May 8th, 1888, amounted to $13,715.

Poor Grip! That bird of sable plumage is still doing its little best to prove that want of Prohibition and want of Free Trade are the two things that Canada is suffering most from at the present time. Now how do such theories compare with the fact that there are thirty-two murderers in prison in Prohibition Maine—a far worse showing than Canada makes under a license law; and with that other fact that there is far more destitution in Free Trade Britain than in "protected" Canada! Oh, Ben-go-off! Let up on these fads or we shall have to call "Rats" on you!
