

20th April, 1927.

Sir Arthur Currie,

"Please don't let anything I tell you get into the Press until Bourdillon lets you know the time has come for publication and what may be published.

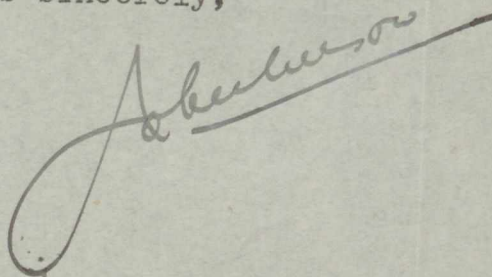

"Peacock has backed up nobly and has contributed £50 himself.

"The panel is working hard studying the various questions, and we have had about a four hours session at it to-day. "

These are indications showing with what characteristic thoroughness our British friends are taking up this matter and what an influential and authoritative group they are getting together for July. It is high time that some, at least, of the members from Canada should be lined up.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "J. H. Beal". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, looping initial "J" and a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.