OF PRISONERS' DEATHS	Page 36
By a person deprived of his liberty is understood any person detained against his will.

ARTICLE VII.

CORONER'S PERMIT TO BURY	42
To bury or to cause a burial to take place without a permit from the Coroner, when it is exacted by law, is a criminal offence.

ARTICLE VIII.

JUDICIAL POWERS	49
The Coroner's powers are judicial.

ARTICLE IX.

INVESTIGATIONS BEFORE HOLDING AN INQUEST ..	54
The Coroner shall investigate the facts concerning all violent deaths and deaths suspected to be violent, with the sole object of ascertaining whether they afford grounds for suspecting criminal homicide, and if he finds that suspicion exists, he shall hold a regular inquest, with the aid of a jury, into the facts, in order to ascertain whether or not the suspicion is well founded.

PART II.

INQUESTS WITHOUT A JURY

ARTICLE I.

NOTICE OF DEATH	62
1. Timely notification of every death, where burial cannot take place without the Coroner's permit, should be given to the Coroner, — in the case of persons deprived of liberty, by those having charge of them, and, — in other cases, by those who by natural right or contingently have charge of the corpse.
2. In all cases civic authorities must notify the Coroner of every such death.
3. Expenses actually incurred and losses actually suffered in order to give such notice are repayable.
