REMARKABKE FEAT, AT HENLEY TAYLOR STROKE'S 5 WINNERS

C.A.A.O.'s Most Successful Regatta Concluded Without a Hitch-Argonauts and Dons Decide Honors -- Canoe Championships.

What is conceded to be the most successful regatta in the history of the C. A. A. O. was brought to a close on Saturday at the Henley course on the Welland Canal. The water was perfectly smooth and no craft except those used by the officials and the press were permitted within the police lines; consequently in no way was the sport interfered with. Lining the beautiful stretch of water for some distance from the grand stand at the finishing point were numerous pleasure boats; these commanded a splendid yiew. Beyond them, on the new canal retaining wall and in the yards of the rubber factory, were thousands of people whom the heavy rainfall could not drive to shelter. On the opposite side there was a grand stand filled to capacity, and for some distance in the old shipyard basin, behind a row of half-submerged piles, were the lesser craft of the local watermen and waterwomen.

It was a great crowd for an uncertain day. At noon the sky was overcast, but their advantage was very brief. Argos pulled a steady stroke and rounded the outer mark first, drawing slowly away and winning by two lengths. Time was 9.16.

The Dons won the junior doubles by barely three feet. W. Crawford and H. Lang represented the Dons, and J. A. Thomson and C. G. Toms the Argos. The Argos got slightly the better of the start and led by half a length at the buoys. They were slightly in the lead when they turned, and in an exceptionally hard race down the course there was never half a boat length between the two two strengths.

It was a great crowd for an uncertain day. At noon the sky was overcast, but thousands drove or trolleyed to Port Dalhousie from St. Catharines and the section surrounding—soil tillers in straw bonnets, with the idea of boosting a great enterprise established in their midst, came for miles. The streets of St. Kitts, crowded in the morning with marketers and shoppers, were almost deserted after dinner. Thousands who witnessed the events had not the slightest notion what it was all about, except that some of the trong were competing against the lim and went to the front. Jacobs of it was all about, except that some of the town boys were competing against the chiefest sculling men of the whole continent. Merchants averred that the regatta ruined the Saturday trade, but they won't kick because every year the Henley show brings thousands of people, all of whom go away filled with admiration for one of the beauty spots of the Dominion.

Rowing in the Rain.

W. Craig of Detroit B.C. was opposed to H. Sargent of the Fort William R.C. Sargent took the lead carly and held it well up the stretch to the boathouse.

This is better from the spectators' standpoint, and the oarsmen are satisfied. The association, however, have decided to move the grand stand to the club house end of the course, where there are charmelement of the course, where the course of the cours move the grand stand to the charmend of the course, where there are charmend ing hills on both sides of the canal, and where greater crowds can be accommodated.

Some of Saturday's events brought out the best that is in the contestants. The junior doubles were won by the Dons by a bare three feet, and they had to exert themselves to maintain the lead.

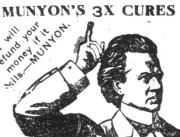

The feature of the day was the great work of the Argo four, stroked by Taylor. These men won the junior fours, two heats of the intermediate fours, and the senior fours, and also were in the winning crew in the senior eights. It was a spurted again and again, but falled to C.C., 4: O. A. Elliott, Toronto C.C., 5: C.

The senior doubles was between the Don R. C. Toronto, and the Metropolitan R. C. of New York. The winning team were Jacobs stroke and Bowler how.
