30TH YEAR

JAPAN OR THE U.S. MUST CHOOSE

Alarm and Distrust Caused by Recent Happenings in the Far East—Alliance is Denounced.

LONDON, April 10.—(N. Y. Times cable.)—Now that it is beginning to be generally known that the British government is interested in the recent developments of the far eastern policy there is a growing disposition among Englishmen to study the bearings of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance.

That treaty has been denounced in vehement terms this week from two different quarters, and the question of its renewal four years hence has been put in the terse form of "Great Britain's choice—Japan or the United States."

The problem of the Pacific Ocean was a subject of debate at the monthly dinner of the Authors' Club, where non-literary topics are frequently selected for discussion. Earl Stanhope was the chief speaker, and also he diplomatically refrained from expressing disapproval of Japanese methods, the tenor of his speech indicated that he shared to a considerable extent the distrust of Japan's sudden extension of territory to Hawaii, the Philippines, and Alaska, and that which, backed as it is by the command of the Pacific, is causing alarm in Australia and America.

Japan, he said, was at the parting of the ways. She had to decide in the near future whether she intended to hold her colonies for her own good, to send them drifting to the winds, or whether she would govern principally with a view to their betterment and only indirectly for her own.

Jap Ambitions Distasteful. Lord Stanhope plainly intimated his belief that Japanese ambitions were such that if Englishmen were to retain their own high ideals, they could have no part or lot in them.

Other speakers went further. F. B. Woodman said: English people should beware lest the Anglo-Japanese alliance handed over to Japan the supremacy of the Pacific Ocean, for with it would go Australia, the Philippines, the Philippines, and Alaska, and that would give the supremacy of the human race to the yellow man.

The World, of which Lord Winterton is editor, makes a special feature of an article urging a serious reconsideration of the British policy in regard to Japan. "According to this article Japan is to the United States, strategically and commercially, and in fact, in every way, what Germany is to Great Britain."
