SIR OLIVER LODGE ON THE UNSEEN

Says Much Is Veiled So We Can Do Our Jobs

Throng in Carnegie Hall, New York, Hears Him Express Belief That Dead Are With Us.

(N. Y. Evening Post)
"If our minds were open, as the minds of the mystics are, to the glory and magnitude of the universe we could scarcely do our work here. We live among the most extraordinary revelations, but they are veiled from us during the span of our earthly lives in our

SIR OLIVER LODGE.

der that we may do our jobs. This is the belief of Sir Oliver Lodge expressed in his lecture at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon. "The Reality of the Unseen" was his topic, and he said that the unseen, or unexplained, is all about us—that "there is no chasm between heaven and earth and the barrier which exists can be crossed by love."

If the large audience which filled orchestra chairs, boxes, balconies and stage, stood in the aisles and made the lobby almost impassable expected something sensational and thrilling, it was probably disappointed. But it found that which was far more convincing in the measured words, the moderate statements and the logical working out of point after point with which Sir Oliver actually gave expression to his views.

Whether sympathetic or hostile to these views, one could sense the clear thinking and keen insight which brought them into being and the fact with which the speaker led an interested audience over a pathway of admitted facts and probabilities to a new belief.

Sir Oliver began his lecture by calling attention to some of the strange facts which scientists and astronomers have given us, and which we complacently accept. He drew a corollary to the heavenly bodies in the familiar objects about us, suggesting the dome of one of our downtown buildings as the central orb of an imaginary solar system, in which the earth would be about the size of a foot ball, and the Brooklyn sphere, where, and the various planets scattered at distances varying from that of New Haven or Philadelphia to that of Buffalo.

In a universe built on such a scale the stars would be three times as far away as the moon, he said. "In our own world, when we look toward Orion on a clear night we see light which started in the time of the Plantagenets and has been six hundred years on the way," he declared. "What if the atmosphere around the world had been opaque, as it is in the vicinity of other planets? We would never have known of the existence of the stars, and is it to be supposed that we are not blind to much that exists in the atmosphere?"

Space, he went on, "is said to be empty because it is penetrated by light, but we only know that it is empty of all obstructive matter. The ether of space is a material reality filled with an immense energy, and of it, I believe, matter is made. That it is actually more solid than this desk," Sir Oliver brought down his hand on the desk as he said.

"It is fairly orthodox physics. But it is legitimate to doubt, and the fact that ether makes no appeal to the senses gives the skeptical grounds for doubt," he put in.

His next argument must have been somewhat confusing to the skeptics, however.

"Electricity, of course, makes no direct appeal to the senses," he said. "It is only when we bring it into contact with matter to produce light, heat, force, that we can sense it—and yet it exists in the atmosphere."

And in discussing the senses as the one accepted source of knowledge, "it is significant how little information their senses give the animals, and how much ours give us," suggested Sir Oliver. "A dog would not be interested in a picture gallery, nor in an oratorio or a concert. He could hear the noise, but he could not apprehend the music, for the music is in the soul of man. The reality in any art exists in the mind of the artist and of the observer, and the inspired mind finds something in even the most ordinary objects which is unseen by others."

"A drama like 'Hamlet,' the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven, are creations called into being by genius, and without genius they would never have existed. A poem is a message from one mind to other minds, and is made incarnate in the black and white of the print. The Panama Canal is the material demonstration of something which was conceived in the minds of your engineers, and which was necessary before it could be executed. The snow-capped mountains and the sunset sky could not have existed in themselves. They are the manifest rejoicing of the great Creator in His work. The reason for them is none other than the joy in beauty."

Sir Oliver said that the body was only a channel through which the soul expressed itself, that the soul controlled the body, but did not wear out with it, passing instead to other spheres of life. "No life goes out of existence, but incarnates first in one form and then in another, and the connecting link between mind and matter is at present unknown."

He believes that a germ of life existed long before individuality came into being, and our present existence is a phase and not a beginning, but he gives out none of this hypothesis as fact.

"I do not wish to dogmatize, but I will say that what a man makes a constructive statement he is worth hearing; when he speaks only to make a negative statement and to deny he is probably not worth hearing. He is likely to be discussing something of which he is ignorant."

Perhaps Sir Oliver was addressing himself to the many women in the audience who were in deep mourning when he made his closing remarks, for he expressed his well-known belief in the presence of those who have died.

"We are helped in our struggles by those who have gone before us. They know what we are doing and do all they can to help on—and to make us realize what man really is. We should think of them as with us still, not seemingly but in reality. There is no need to cramp ourselves within the realm of what the animals perceive, for we can lift our heads from the confusion to perceive the realities of the unseen."

NELSON RELICS SOLD.

A Stubbish Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents) into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway spruce, and does not accept any foreign extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FIND WIDE DESIRE FOR RETURN OF DEAD

Canvass Shows That More Than Two-Thirds of Soldiers' Relatives Wish It—73,591 Graves Registered.

Washington, Jan. 27.—More than two-thirds of the nearest relatives of the American soldier dead abroad who have been asked by the War Department to indicate whether they wish to have the bodies brought home from Europe have asked for the return of the bodies to the United States.

Secretary Baker is following the fixed policy of directing that the body of a dead soldier will be returned to the United States provided it is requested by the next of kin. The French government, however, has ruled that for the present no bodies must be removed from the zone of the armies, although they may be removed from the zone behind the battle line.

The Adjutant General of the army has sent out cards to the next of kin of soldiers requesting to know their desires to the disposal of their loved ones. There were 74,770 cards sent out, and so far 63,708 answers have been received.

The classification of the requests made by the next of kin in these answers is:

	Num- ber.	P.C. of Total.
Requests for return to U. S.	48,900	68.9
Requests for retention in Europe	10,400	30.6
Requests for reburial in other countries than U. S.	800	0.5

Secretary Baker today made public an exchange of letters between himself and Representative Everett Sanders, who has returned from France after an inspection of American soldier cemeteries.

Sanders, under date of Jan. 19, wrote to the secretary as follows: "I have returned from France, where

I visited some of the battlefields. I saw four American cemeteries in the regions of Soissons, Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood.

"I want to take this opportunity of praising the work of the Graves Registration Division in connection with these cemeteries. The cemeteries were inclosed with neat, substantial fencing, and great care had been taken to mark all graves. Some one was on guard at each cemetery and a fine American flag was unfurled on a high flagstaff in the center."

Against Disinterment.

(New York Post.)

A meeting of the relatives of American soldiers buried in France was held in the First Field Artillery Armory yesterday afternoon to protest against the bodies being returned to America for burial. Letters from Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and General O'Ryan of the 27th Division endorsing the protest were read, and it was voted to leave the work of organizing in the hands of Mrs. Mabel Fonda Garrison of 610 West 114th street, who called the meeting.

The National Undertakers' Association was censured as favoring the burial of the soldiers' bodies in this country from a standpoint of business profit, and a resolution expressing the attitude of the meeting was passed. A copy of it will be sent to the United States senate.

LONDON ON WHEELS.

London, Eng., Jan. 28.—"London bids fair to be the greatest city on wheels in the world," declared Sir Albert Stanley in a statement on the growth of traffic on tubes, omnibuses and trams. An average of 3,370,780 passengers a day are carried, he said.

BURNS AT $25 A LINE.

London, Eng., Jan. 28.—Five hundred dollars was paid at auction for an autograph poem of twenty lines by Burns, written "on seeing a fellow wound a hare with a shot." The poem begins: "Inhuman man! Curses on thy base, barbarous art!"

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force In Two Weeks' Time In Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy, nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, it is not a drug, but a food, and its preparation and treatment which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making this people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curves of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 28 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Koller, M. D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

CAUTION:—Although Bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Joseph D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensary as being an excellent tonic and nerve tonic, a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION:—Although Bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 29th, 1919.

For the past two years I suffered from a serious affection of the throat.

My voice had become hoarse and at times I had troubles to articulate.

Besides the annoyance and weariness which this state of affairs constantly caused me and which was beginning to worry me, I also felt excruciating pains in the lungs.

These were the sad after effects which I felt after an attack of bronchitis which was surely threatening to become chronic as no remedy had effected my cure.

As soon as I heard of Dr. J. O. Lambert's Syrup I hastened to use it—The results were simply marvelous.

After having taken only one bottle my voice cleared to such an extent that I could sing easily. But what was still more encouraging was that all the twitching which I felt in my throat as well as the pains in my lungs had completely disappeared.

I consider that Dr. J. O. Lambert's Syrup is not only a remedy of great efficacy against coughs and colds, but it is also an excellent tonic for the respiratory organs. Dr. J. O. Lambert's Syrup is incomparable to soften and strengthen the vocal organs.

I therefore recommend it in good faith, and will only be too glad if others can benefit thereby as I did of the wonderful results which I received.
