EXEMPT FARMERS SONS: Montreal, May 3—General Wilson, of cer commanding this millitary district, received word this morning from Ottawa that only sons of farmers were to be exempted.

The management claim that a false impression regarding the play "Her Unborn Child," has been abroad locally, not only because of the title, but the difficulty of presenting the first performance Monday night under peculiar conditions. Very many, it is contended, who have seen the play since are of that oplinion. The following from F. A. Dykeman is self-explanatory and Mr. Cazeneuve says that he can produce many such prominent citizens who are more than well pleased with the play and company.

When asked my opinion of the play, "Her Unborn Child," which I had the pleasure of witnessing at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday evening, I am constrained to express myself publicly as suggested, being convinced that hundreds who would like to see this excellent performance are absenting themselves because of the rather bold title, the same, however, utterly belieing the play, which I enjoyed exceedingly. The moral is good, the tone uplifting, and the actors all clever.

good, the tone uplifting, and the actors all clever.

That the production was presented so satisfactorily on a stage so small, and with the limited possibilities, was surprising, and doubtless it would have been much more creditable under more advantageous conditions. If a word from the writer will have any effect in eliminating the impression that your eliminating the impression that your play is anything interesting, uplift-ing, and clever, you are welcome to it.

Al THE IMPERIAL TUNIGHT

The pungent smell of pine and the freshness of the great out-of-doors, together with a wholesome lovable story, make "Jules of the Strong Heart," the production at the Imperial Theatre, one of the breeziest, most enjoyable of the season. The star, George Beban, will be remembered for his remarkable characterizations in such Paramount photoplays as "Lost in Transit," "His Sweetheart." "An Allien" and many others. Mr. Beban is supported by an excellent cast, including Helen Eddy, Charles of seenario-writer Harvey Thew. The part is no other than the small daughter of scenario-writer Harvey Thew. The Imperial will also have the Bull's Eye serial story and a Vitagraph farce.

TWAS A HAPPY MOMENT
When unpacking a shipment from New York yesterday at Dykeman's someone exclaimed, "Plaid ginghams, silks and cotton wash fabrics." We had given up all hopes of getting this shipment, for the manufacturers cannot fill their home
orders, but through some happy move
we have received our order, for which we are truly thankful—and they even look better than when purchased months ago.
Better drop in to Dykeman's today or Saturday and look them over. You'll be just as enthusiastic about them as we are—and we'll be glad to see you, and better, too, you'll be glad you came—
