PLANS FOR THE SHIP REPAIRING PLANT

The detailed plans of the ship-repairing plant which Norton Griffiths & Co. propose to erect in connection with the dry dock in Courtenay Bay were on view at City Hall today, and attracted great interest. The area which they have asked the dominion government to grant them includes a strip to the south of the entrance to the dry dock and running along the inside of the breakwater, which would be used as a berth for vessels waiting to enter the dock. On the other side a large area extending along in front of the Municipal Home is shown. This would be used for the ship-repair plant. Most of this section would have to be filled in and protected by sea walls.

At the front are shown six slips for small vessels, three of them in dotted lines as if their immediate construction was not contemplated. At the rear, on the reclaimed ground, are shown the buildings for the various lines of work which are allied to the ship-repairing business. These include shops for coppersmiths, joiners, brass foundry, iron foundry, moulding loft, galvanizing, platers, sheet iron, blacksmiths, pattern shops, machine shops and stores department. The whole area is enclosed and to be enterd through the main gates which are to be situated at the northern end of the works.

BOSTON SERVANT GIRLS DABBLE IN STOCKS

Boston, May 28—At the instigation of several Back Bay servant girls, who say they have lost many hundreds of dollars through investment in an alleged fake copper mine, Harry Moore, aged 35 years, was arrested in Springfield and brought to Boston. The police say that Moore and a woman worked together in duping working girls in families in Boston and Brookline. The woman posed as a fortune teller and, according to the police, induced servant girls who went to her parlows to disclose the amounts of their savings. Later, by Moore's advice, the police say the girls were led to invest their money with him in copper stock.

"I don't think my husband loves me any more." "Why not?" "The other day I said to him, 'John, if I should die would you get married again?,' and he said he wouldn't." "Isn't that all right!" "Yes, but I wish you could have heard the positive way he said it."

A hair on the head is worth two in the brush.

By watching this firm's windows you will see illustrations of interesting events each day as soon as they are shown in New York.

THE MARRIAGE CASE

Ottawa, May 28—Continuing his argument for the promoters of the Lancaster marriage bill and the questions referred to the supreme court by parliament, Eugene Lafleur, K.C., this morning said that in closing he only desired to draw attention to several statutes relating to the conferring of powers to perform marriage in the province of Quebec.

"How is power to be expressed that never was conferred?" asked the chief justice.

"My submission is that these statutes conferred by implication the power to marry," replied Mr. Lafleur.
